NRA HEAD SEES END OF EFFORT TO RULE PRICES

Williams Talks on New Legislation.

New York, Dec. 13.—[Special.]—A forecast of which provisions of the present national recovery act will be eliminated and which will be retained when it comes to be reenacted was made today by S. Clay Williams, chairman of the national industrial recovery board, successor to Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, speaking before 1,200 code authorities, industrialists, and business men at a luncheon here.

S. CLAY WILLIAMS.

Price fixing will be virtually eliminated in the new NRA, Mr. Williams believes, because it is extremely difficult if not impossible to police a price fixing policy maintained as a separate entity and because full compliance with wage and hour provisions has been found largely to eliminate the need for price fixing.

Favors Wage Definitions.

Other important provisions of the present NRA will be maintained in any reënactment, however, Mr. Williams said he was convinced. He cited the definition of minimum wages and maximum hours, the guaranty of the right of collective bargaining, the ban on child labor, some provision for the prevention of unfair trade practices, and provisions for coöperation "innocent of price fixing results" between members of an industry.

Mr. Williams was guest at the luncheon given by the American Arbitration association, the Chamber of Commerce of the State of New York, and the Merchants' Association of New York. Floyd B. Odlum, president of the American Arbitration association and of the Atlas Corporation of America, presided.

The chairman of the board that took over direction of the NRA restated the purposes for which the national industrial recovery act was passed on June 16, 1933, and with emphasis declared: "It is not and was not intended to be an industrial or business system in itself."

Sees NRA as Necessary.

He likened the industrial and business system of this country to "the great locomotive that pulls the train," and described the NRA as "the oil can and the adjusting wrench in the hands of the engineman."

The NRA has called upon the business man, "in the general interest and in his own," to eliminate the wages of workingmen from competition that will drive those wages below a fixed minimum, and "if there were nothing else than that in NRA its capacity to serve in that situation would justify both its creation and the expenditure upon it of much more energy even than has been spent," Mr. Williams said.

"Of course, the securing of compliance with code provisions, particularly as to wages and hours, has always been the biggest task of NRA and the one in the full and final solution of which there is the greatest importance."

Points to Difficulties.

As an element in its importance Mr. Williams cited it as the factor that makes unnecessary an attempt to fix prices, which, he admitted, presents the greatest difficulties and meets with general criticism and resistance by the consumer.

Many industries and trades which at first regarded price fixing as essential have come to regard it as less important and of very doubtful value in most cases, Mr. Williams reported.

"A part of the explanation of this change of attitude," he said, "lies in the fact that it has come to be realized that when one's competitor can no longer take a margin of difference in the cost of his goods out of inordinately low wages for his employés or improper trade practices with his suppliers his chance of selling goods below the proper prices of his competitors is largely destroyed.

"I am asking you if it may not be true that when full compliance with wage and hour provisions of codes is established it may not then appear that provisions by way of putting

BORAH EXHORTS N. Y. AUDIENCE FOR NEW SPIRIT

Nye Warns Leaders of Party.

New York, Dec. 13.—[Special.]—Senator William E. Borah of Idaho and Senator Gerald P. Nye of North Dakota, addressing a massmeeting under the auspices of the New York county Republican committee, tonight demanded a revitalized Republican party under new leadership and with a program of a more equitable distribution of wealth.

Both drove directly at the cautious leadership of the past and at past Republican policies which they charged had operated for the benefit of the few rather than the welfare of the many. Both predicted that unless those policies were changed the Republican party might as well fold up and go out of business.

Their addresses were delivered in Mecca temple at the invitation of Chase Mellen Jr., president of the New York county Republican committee. Henry P. Fletcher, national G. O. P. chairman, and Charles D. Hilles, New York conservative leader, sat on the platform. The auditorium was jammed with 3,000 Republicans of all shades of opinion.

Urged to Move to Left.

Senator Borah declared that his proposed party reorganization meant that the Republican party must "move to the left" in order to meet present conditions. Quoting a recent letter by Mr. Hilles, Republican national committeeman from New York, that "the Republican party cannot stagger to the left," Senator Borah replied:

"No, but it can move with grace and do a great service to the party and to the people of the United States. We are not going to stagger, but we are going to the left just as sure as I am alive."

The senator ridiculed Mr. Fletcher, suggesting that he be sent to Russia as ambassador.

"He is not in favor of moving forward," said Senator Borah of the chairman. "If he moves at all, it is backward."

Audience Shouts Approval.

"Will that attitude save the Republican party?" he asked.

"No!" shouted many in the audience.

"Would it be rendering a proper service to the people of the United States?"

"No!" again—from the audience.

Senator Borah asserted that the philosophy of standpattism exhibited in Chairman Fletcher's recent statement and Mr. Hilles' letter could not rebuild the Republican party or save the American people.

"If the American people are to keep their traditional personal liberties and their constitutional form of government in the face of new world conditions," he said, "we must adopt a system of economic and social justice to the great body of the people of the United States and of a more equitable distribution of wealth."

Appeals to Young Liberals.

The insistence of the present party leaders on standing pat, he went on, made it necessary for the younger and more progressive elements in the party to revolt against their reactionary leaders and insist upon party reorganization. Therefore, he called upon these groups to organize in a "united front" throughout the country to battle for control of the national party organization.

Answering such as the Republican Senator James Couzens of Michigan who have demanded that the revisionists offer a platform for their proposed new Republican party, Senator Borah said that it was more important to know who was going to carry out the platform than what the platform was itself, for the most liberal platform could be wrecked by reactionary leaders.

The supreme issue for a new plat-

MATERNITY RACE LEADING TO HOT LEGAL WRANGLE

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 13.—(AP)—The whim of a millionaire sportsman-lawyer who died in 1926 has turned this city into a kind of paradise for experts on blessed events and promises to give rise to one of the most acrimonious legal wrangles of the decade.

By the terms of his will Charles Vance Millar left $500,000 to the Toronto woman who gives birth to the largest number of children during ten years following his death.

Yesterday Mrs. Matthew Kenny, 31 years old, gave birth to her eleventh child since 1926. Mrs. Kenny rests firm in the conviction that she is the leader so far in the maternity marathon, but Mrs. Grace Bagnato, court interpreter, insists she herself holds first place because she asserts Mrs. Kenny registered her babies too late to count. Mrs. Bagnato has had eight children since 1926, and her ninth is expected this week. Mrs. Kenny says she would like to beat Mrs. Bagnato because Mrs. Bagnato once on Bay street told her she "didn't have a chance."

Send 7 Youths to Prison; Deny Mercy Pleas

Youthful criminals fared badly in the Criminal court yesterday. Seven of them got maximum penitentiary sentences from Chief Justice Denis E. Sullivan and Judge Harry B. Miller. Youth is no excuse for crime, the judges ruled, and probation is not intended for those who participate in crimes in which revolvers are used.

Chief Justice Sullivan sentenced Frank Pressnel, 18 years old; William Creighton, 19, and John Kummer, 18, to the penitentiary for terms of one year to life each on robbery charges. They were members of the "Sunday gang" of robbers.

Leniency Asked for All.

Probation pleas were made for all the youths, and the nearness of Christmas was mentioned as a reason for leniency.

"Would you have me certify these boys back to society?" said Chief Justice Sullivan in answer to the probation pleas. "I have just as much right to do that as I would to turn a mad dog loose at a Sunday school picnic. The only way to stop crimes is to enforce the law."

Judge Sentences Auto Thief.

Frank Kulka, 16 years old, who stole automobiles and stripped them, was sentenced to the penitentiary for one to twenty years by Chief Justice Sullivan. The police displayed to the judge photographs of stripped cars showing that Kulka dismantled every part of them to get aluminum, which he sold for a few dollars. In one case he ruined a $3,000 automobile for $18 worth of aluminum.

Judge Miller was as adamant as Judge Sullivan in refusing to grant Christmas probations to those armed with revolvers. He sentenced Ray McNear, 30 years old; Steve Kravik, 17; Julius Pollack, 17, and Walter Drwal, 19, to one year to life sentences on charges of robbery and burglary.

British Steamer Radios for Aid; 2 Ships Near

New York, Dec. 13.—(AP)—Mackay Radio reported tonight that the British steamer Usworth had wirelessed distress signals. The Cunard liner Ascania was rushing toward the Usworth at 14 knots. The Belgian liner Jean Jadot also reported she was in the vicinity and going to the ship's aid.

DAVID C. COOK III., ELGIN HEIR, IS HURT IN CRASH

David C. Cook III. of Elgin, one of the principal heirs to the estate of his grandfather, founder of the David C. Cook Publishing company, and Bernard Lantz, 483 Barrett street, Elgin, were seriously injured late last night when the automobile in which they were riding collided with a truck in Lake street west of the village of Addison.

At the Elmhurst hospital it was said that both had suffered skull fractures and broken legs. They had been in Chicago visiting Cook's mother, Mrs. David C. Cook Jr., who is a patient at the Columbus hospital, and were on their way home when the accident occurred.

Young Cook, who is 22 years old, is a graduate of the University of Chicago. He is an executive of the Elgin publishing concern, which specializes in religious books and pamphlets. The estate of his grandfather was valued at several million dollars. Cook's sister, Mrs. Louise Margaret Perry, was killed in an automobile accident in Chicago in July, 1933. His father is dead.

ASSASSIN GANG SLAYS PLANT'S POLICE GUARD

James Masone, 34 years old, a special policeman in the Carbide and Carbon Chemical corporation plant at Whiting, Ind., was killed with machine gun and shotgun fire early last evening in a tailor shop at 30 State street, Hammond. Jacob Schmeltz, 60 years old, owner of the shop, was wounded in the arms and legs by bullets that missed Masone.

The killers, three in number, entered the shop barely a minute after Masone stepped in to call for a suit he had left to be repaired. Without warning they started shooting. They fled in an automobile with a fourth man.

Masone, the Hammond police learned, formerly lived in Brooklyn, N. Y. He had been brought to the chemical plant, which is still under construction, last summer when union building workers went on strike. He and other guards on several occasions fought to repel pickets.

According to the Hammond police, there has been no trouble around the plant in recent weeks.

Pay U. S. Or Quit Bragging! Britain Is Told

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 13.—David Lloyd George severely criticized government ministers tonight for their boastful comparisons of economic conditions in the United States and Great Britain while their country is still defaulting on its war debt obligations.

The wartime prime minister and veteran Liberal statesman was addressing the house of commons during a debate on the depressed areas bill, which embodies the government's plan to provide additional assistance to the districts worst hit by unemployment.

Doubts Wisdom of Bragging.

"We refer with a certain amount of pride," he said, "to the fact that our unemployment today is not comparable with that of the United States or other countries and that we are so much better off than America. I always have doubted the wisdom of those bragging speeches. I should not have thought it wise to boast to your creditor how much better off you are than he is when you have not paid his bill.

"There has been far too much of that kind of speaking from the government and they are taking notice of it in the United States."

Lloyd George advised the British leaders to copy American methods of tackling economic problems. He pointed out that unemployment has cost Britain 6 billion dollars in the last 14 years just for "maintenance in enforced idleness."

Lauds U. S. Efforts.

"Our government does not understand something catastrophic has happened in the world's economic system," he declared. "The whole structure has been overstrained and is visibly collapsing in every country. Americans understand that and they are making an effort which, at any rate, is commensurate with the immensity of the problem. The whole United States is joining its resources and dealing with a problem which it regards as a gigantic one.

"You will have to think out your problems anew exactly as they are doing in America, where they are not afraid of making experiments," he told the government ministers. "Colossal experiments have been started there and that great country has indorsed the action, although some of them have been acknowledged as unsatisfactory. Yet whether the experiments succeed or fail you cannot go back to the old system."

GLOOM IN LAKE COUNTY JAIL; NO MUSHROOMS NOW

Prisoners at the Lake county jail can no longer have steak and mushrooms cooked in their cells. Sherif Lawrence Doolittle, who took office Dec. 4, is putting a stop to it.

In contraversion to Marie Antoinette, who said:

"Let them eat cake."

Sherif Doolittle says:

"Let them eat stew and bean soup, as they used to."

The point seems to be that certain of the more opulent prisoners have, in the past, been allowed to purchase small electric stoves for their cells. They can then send out for succulent steaks, chops and the like, as well as butter, cream and sugar, and have a feast.

"I had a federal man up here," said the sherif. "You know that 21 out of our 44 prisoners are federal prisoners. Well, he agreed with me that the jail menu provides wholesome and nourishing food, and there is no need for making steaks, or potatoes au gratin, in the cells."

So everybody is back on the diet of boiled potatoes, stew, beans, bread without butter, and coffee without cream and sugar. Sherif Doolittle says it will make them strong and healthy.

CHICAGO PASTOR AND WIFE SLAIN BY BANDIT GANG

Fate of Daughter Is Mystery.

SHANGHAI, Dec. 13.—(AP)—The slaying of the Rev. and Mrs. John C. Stam, two youthful Chicago missionaries, by Chinese bandits and the abandonment of their bodies on a battlefield fifteen miles from Tsingteh was reported to the China Inland mission office today.

The fate of their 2 months old baby, Helen Priscilla, who was kidnaped with her parents by the band of pillagers who looted Tsingteh Dec. 7, was not disclosed.

Liu Cheng Hwa, governor of Anhwei province, advised the mission no trace has been found either of the baby girl or her body. Chinese military authorities immediately launched a vast hunt for the missing infant.

Lack of news of the missionaries' daughter gave rise to the belief she may still be alive and in the hands of the outlaws.

Moody Bible Institute Graduates.

The Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Stam, graduates of the Moody Bible institute of Chicago, had been married less than two years.

A letter written by the Rev. Mr. Stam shortly before his death was received by P. W. Gibbs, director of the China Inland mission. It announced briefly that Stam and his family had been captured by bandits who demanded 20,000 silver dollars' ransom.

Stam asked Gibbs to pursue any course he deemed advisable. He wrote that Tsingteh had been attacked suddenly, giving no time to evacuate. He said the mission was completely looted and everything of value carried off. The note apparently had been hastily written on Chinese paper, but Gibbs said it "showed the calm characteristic of Stam."

The China Inland mission offce was exerting every effort to obtain further details of the tragedy. Douglas Jenkins Jr., United States vice consul at Nanking, came here to assist in the investigation.

Catholic Missionaries Escape.

Gov. Liu said several Chinese also were kidnaped at the time the bandits swept down on Tsingteh, spreading terror through the community. Business houses, mission stations, and native dwellings fell prey to their depredations.

Catholic missionaries stationed at Tsingteh escaped the fate of the others through their good fortune in being absent from their post.

Soon after the outlaws fled from the town toward western China troops of the Chinese nationalist government appeared in Tsingteh in hot pursuit. Detachments have been moving through Anhwei province steadily during the last two days bound for the isolated sections beyond, where they hope to round up and destroy the roving bands.

Missionaries in southern and western Hunan, and Kweichow and southeastern Szechuen provinces were reported fleeing from similar terroristic outlaws.

Two Women in Flight.

Among them were Miss Justine Granner of Hubbard, Ia., and Miss Anna Renninger of Reading, Pa., both Evangelistic church missionaries.

Foreign missionaries from eastern Kweichow who sought refuge in Changsha, Hunan province, reported that their associates whom they left behind also were planning to move to safer areas.

The China Inland mission reported its representatives in western Hunan also were abandoning their perilous posts.

FOREBODING OF FATE.

That the Rev. John C. Stam and his wife had a presentiment of their fate was revealed in letters written by the missionary just before they were kidnaped by Chinese bandits and received yesterday by his brother, Peter Stam Jr., 715 East Ohio street, Wheaton.

The letters were mailed from Wuhu, a city about 30 miles south of Nanking. The Stams were about to start their trip to Tsingteh, near where their bodies were found. Tsingteh is about 100 miles so th of Nanking.

"Pray that God will be preparing souls for us in Tsingteh," the missionary wrote, "and that we may take every opportunity given to use."

In one letter, written Nov. 9, the Rev. Mr. Stam told of returning from a survey trip in the vicinity of Tsingteh. In some of the missionary stations, he wrote, men went to church armed with rifles as a protection against bandits. In Suancheng, midway between Wuhu and Tsingteh, he said, a native Christian had just been released by the bandits after a large ransom had been paid for him.

"Automatic rifles have been stolen," he wrote, "and a nightly vigil is being kept by the men. Bandits have burned the houses in the neighborhoods when farmers refused to sell their small stocks of rice.

"The communists have gone over the country quite thoroughly here, and it is reported there are a good many centers of inflammation around the country."

In a second letter written Nov. 10, Stam told that he and the Rev. A. E. Kofield, a fellow missionary, had gone into the "field" to investigate crops and peace conditions and to preach.

[The state department at Washington last night said Kofield and his wife disappeared about the same time the Stams were abducted. No word has been received regarding the fate of the Kofields.]

Tells of Pastor's Flight.

"Kofield," the missionary wrote, "said he had to flee with his family when the Reds came within three miles of his station, and put in one night hidden in the hills. The Reds were repulsed by the standing army and Kofield came on out. The Reds have gotten within one or two days' march of Tsingteh."

Communism has many sympathizers, the missionary found. Local magistrates had executed 21, he said, but there were many more.

"At present," he wrote, "Tsingteh seems quite safe. The Reds are coming up through Kingsi, from which they are being pushed by government forces. In Tingki, a neighboring province, the governor had 10,000 troops to meet the Reds. The country is a bit uncertain, with the well known Chinese habit of generals changing sides."

He expressed alarm at the presence of so many soldiers who might switch their loyalty any moment.

"My wife and I and baby hope to be starting on our first lap to Tsingteh next Tuesday (Nov. 13)," he wrote. "The Lord willing, we should finally reach there in about two or three weeks. Because of unsettled conditions it may be that I shall have to stay right close in the city rather than wander afar over the territory."

Peter Stam said his brother was 27 years old, and that his wife was 25. She had been in China three years, a year longer than her husband.

U. S. Exert Pressure in Hunt.

Word of the killing of the Stams brought a prompt assertion from the United States state department in Washington last night that every effort would be exerted to bring about the capture and execution of the guilty bandits.

William Phillips, undersecretary of state, declined to say whether an indemnity would be sought. He pointed out that the Chinese government acted promptly after the recent murder of Dr. James H. Ingram, an American missionary slain near Peiping.

Stam, whose parents live in Paterson, N. J., met his wife, the former Betty Scott of Holyoke, Mass., while she was a student at the Moody Bible institute in Chicago. They were married in Shanghai in October, 1933.

Mrs. Stam was the daughter of Dr. C. E. Scott and Mrs. Scott. Dr. Scott is missionary representative of the Second Congregational church of Holyoke and with his wife is now stationed in China.

Stam was graduated from Wheaton college, Wheaton, Ill.

STATE TO TELL HOW LINDBERGH BABY MET DEATH

Betty Gow, at Sea, to Aid Prosecutor.

Flemington, N. J., Dec. 13.—[Special.]—Two features developed today in the case of the state of New Jersey against Bruno Richard Hauptmann, charged with the murder of Charles A. Lindbergh Jr. Supreme Court Justice Thomas W. Trenchard ordered the state to name its theory of the cause of death.

It was stated that Miss Betty Gow, the nurse who discovered the abduction of the baby from the nursery at Hopewell, is a passenger on the Anchor liner Caledonia, which sailed yesterday from Glasgow and is due in New York Dec. 20 or 21. She is to be a state's witness, and Col H. Norman Schwarzkopf, superintendent of the New Jersey state police, was given $400 to pay her fare, out of the $15,000 appropriated by the state for Hauptmann's prosecution.

Orders One Point Clarified.

Counsel for Hauptmann, in demanding a bill of particulars, raised twelve questions, eleven of which the judge did not require the state to answer. He directed answering of the 12th.

Justice Trenchard, who will preside at the trial, beginning Jan. 2, upheld the defense demand for the state's theory of how the child met his death.

The judge ruled the indictment answered the eleven questions clearly enough to protect the defendant's rights.

The questions aimed at the state by defense counsel were:

"Is it the intent of the indictment to allege that murder was committed with premeditation and with malice aforethought?

"Is it the intent of the indictment to allege that the murder was committed while the indicted subject was engaged in the commission of a felony?

"If the contention is that the crime was committed while in the commission of a felony, please state the nature of the felony.

"Does the state charge, under the indictment, the said Bruno Richard Hauptmann with being an accessory before the fact or after the fact?

"If charged as an accessory, does the state contend that the said Richard Bruno Hautpmann was within the state of New Jersey at the time of the commission of the alleged crime, and, if so, at what point in New Jersey?"

Raises Question of Gang.

Still further questions are raised, as follows:

"Does the state contend that the said Bruno Hauptmann was solely responsible for the crime or was a member of a group responsible for the crime?

"Does the state contend that all alleged ransom notes were written by the same hand?

"Does the state contend that the so-called ransom notes were written by Bruno Richard Hauptmann?

"Where does the state contend that the said Charles A. Lindbergh Jr. died?

"When does the state contend that the said Charles A. Lindbergh Jr. died?

"What does the state contend was the cause of the death of the said Charles A. Lindbergh Jr.?"

The state is led by Assistant Attorney General Joseph Lanigan, the defense by Edward Reilly.

MANILA, P. I., Dec. 13.—Senator William Gibbs McAdoo of California rested in a private home at Iloilo, Panay island, today after he was taken ill on an interisland flight. He was forced to discontinue his inspection tour with Senators Kenneth McKellar of Tennessee and Millard Tydings of Maryland.

Dr. Gilbert Cullen of the American quarantine station said, "There is nothing to worry about. He needs rest." Senator McAdoo is 71 years old.

The three senators, here to confer regarding Philippine independence legislation, left Manila in an army amphibian plane. At Iloilo Senator McAdoo was transferred to the cutter Arayat and later to a private home, while the other senators continued their journey. The California senator complained of "a heavy feeling" when he left the plane.

Burglars yesterday broke into the home of Mrs. A. Gleason, 25 East Walton place, proprietor of a tearoom, and carried away furs and clothing valued at $2,000.

DR. DAFOE MAKES HIT WITH SOCIAL LIGHTS OF N. Y.

New York, Dec. 13.—[Special.]—Dr. Allan Roy Dafoe, the frontier doctor, invaded the social service wing of Park avenue today as a guest of Mrs. James Roosevelt, the President's mother, and addressed a luncheon at the Savoy Plaza in aid of the Henry Street settlement nurse fund.

He described the Dionne quintuplets, disclosed that his late wife had been a Henry Street nurse, and wished success to the settlement's $550,000 campaign.

Earlier he received from Patrick Cardinal Hayes blessed gold scapulas for his charges and their mother, Mme. Elvezir Dionne, and fulfilled a boyhood desire to visit the Bronx zoo.

At the luncheon, where the jolly doctor arrived late, he was a hit. Mrs. George B. St. George of Park avenue and Tuxedo Park was speaking.

The diners stirred as he entered. They broke into spontaneous applause, interrupting the speaker.

HANGS SELF AT HOME.

While his wife was sweeping the living room of their home at 2454 North Kedzie avenue yesterday, John Reese, 67 years old, an unemployed barber, hanged himself from the rafter of a rear porch.

BRITON TAKES A WALK; FINDS BRAND NEW STAR

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Dec. 13.—The lonely vigil of a 31 year old lawyer, J. P. M. Prentice, who is an amateur astronomer by night, was rewarded early today by the discovery of a bright nova or new star visible to the naked eye.

Although it was then about 5 a. m. he telephoned the royal observatory at Greenwich, where officials had time to observe the star and photograph its spectra before the brightness of the rising sun made it impossible to see it.

The star is visible in the constellation of Hercules. Its exact position is a third of the way between the star of Iota Draconis and Vega. It is the first bright new star visible in England since the appearance of Nova Cygni in 1920.

Prentice, who has no telescope, said his discovery was due to his taking a walk to get warm after watching a meteor shower, and he immediately noticed the new star.

KILLED IN FALL AT HOME.

MARKET RIGGING MADE BIG ISSUE IN INSULL TRIAL

Defense Battles to Halt Evidence; Ruling Today.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

While the state won one argument yesterday which threatened to end the Martin Insull embezzlement case before the jury had a chance to pass on it, another and more serious hurdle which strikes at a vital part of the state's case was presented last night.

Judge Cornelius J. Harrington ruled yesterday afternoon that checks are money so far as this case is concerned, thus disposing of the defense plea that Insull could not be convicted of embezzling $344,720 from the Middle West Utilities company, as the state charges, because it has only been proved that checks were used in the transactions involved.

May Bring Night Sessions.

Late in the afternoon Attorneys John E. Northup, Grenville Beardsley, and Ely M. Aaron, the defense trio, raised a new point which the judge took so seriously that a decision was reserved until this morning.

The state had planned to rest its case today, but this new argument may delay that and force night sessions in order to end the trial before Christmas.

The new legal point would, if upheld, exclude from the case the phase of the testimony showing that Insull and his associates "rigged the stock market" to hold their stocks at an inflated price. The defense motion is to strike from the evidence the brokerage records and accompanying testimony introduced by the state to show that through the Utility Securities company, Insull trading concern, stocks were bought and sold to "create an orderly market."

Testimony Vital to State.

Market rigging testimony is of material importance to the state's case in order to combat the defense contention that Insull in fact gave more in stock value than he received when he took $344,720 from the treasury of the Middle West Utilities company and used it to cover a private brokerage account. The defense contends that Insull's stock, which was later turned into a syndicate, had at the time an exact marketable value of $344,720 and that a few days later it was worth even more when the market rose several points.

Assistant State's Attorney John O'Hora and Earle Hurley contend that the rigging testimony is admissible to show that Insull knew he was not giving adequate value when he turned in his stock.

Explains Stock Transactions.

The new handicap to the state's case arose after the testimony of W. A. Pennington, an employé of the Utility Securities company, who identified records showing that this Insull subsidiary, bought and sold stocks to "keep an orderly market." His testimony, the state contended, connected up other brokerage records tentatively in evidence showing alleged market rigging.

The defense based its objection to the rigging testimony on the contention that the prosecution had failed to show that Martin Insull knew or subscribed to the so-called rigging.

Judge Harrington, after listening to both sides for an hour, said:

"The question at issue is what knowledge an officer must have to bind him in a criminal case. Send for the Supreme court authorities. This is too important to practice law by ear. It touches the question of intent, the nub of the case."

Check Issue Settled.

The earlier issue raised by the defense that there is a "fatal variant" between the money and the check evidence in the case was disposed of after argument in chambers.

Assistant State's Attorney O'Hora argued that there was no merit in the point under the circumstances of this case.

The courtroom session was devoted to the reading of minutes from the books of the Corporation Securities company and Insull Utility Investments, Inc., and the dreary recitation of stock numbers transferred between Insull and his brokers. There was a picture behind all these figures and entries that may have been formed in the clouds above the jury box.

This was that of the power of the defendant and his associates in the Insull companies to dispose of the interests of stockholders by a word or a nod.

Martin Insull in 1931 was multi-implemented as a factor in the disposal of money. In this case alone he appears as four men. On Oct. 5, 1931, the day of his decision to transfer the burden of his stockbroker's account to the shoulders of the stockholders of Middle West and subsidiary companies, he acted as four men.

Acts In Four Capacities.

At 8:30 o'clock on this morning of Oct. 5, he appeared in his office at 20 North Wacker drive to enter upon his duties as president of Middle West. He called for his treasurer, Oliver E. McCormick, and instructed him to form Syndicate A, for the purpose of investing in stocks which his brokers would no longer hold for him.

That same day, acting as president and director of subsidiary companies, he accepted participation in the syndicate. In the afternoon he sat in as a member of the executive committee of Corporation Securities and heard just how his stocks were doing.

Half an hour later he was a member of the finance committee of Insull Utility Investments, with full information available as to these stocks.

At the meeting of the stockholders of Corporation Securities on Feb. 16, 1931, he voted 24,056 shares. The next day he and his brother, Samuel, Samuel Insull Jr., and Harold L. Stuart were made directors of the all powerful executive committee. On Aug. 11 of that year they purchased 25,000 shares of their own stock from Utility Securities company, another Insull concern, at a price of $19.67.

Go Up—Then Start Decline.

On Aug. 6 of that year the value of their assets was $91,356,335, as shown by their records. It went up a little each week during the month and in September began to drop.

On Oct. 5 the important day in this trial, the executive committee found the value to be $53,954,163. They had a report on the average cost of their securities, the depreciation in the market value as compared with book value, and the liquidation value at the last market. In October the values went up a little and then declined steadily to the end.

The state introduced these facts to show the contents of the mind that made the decision to invest in these stocks at this time.

OUT OF COURT PACT ENDS SHIRLEY TEMPLE CONTRACT LAWSUIT

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 13.—(AP)—A suit involving a contract to manage Shirley Temple, six year old film star, was settled out of court today when about to be called for trial.

Shirley, one of the 10 leading cinema stars, judged by box office returns, is being paid $1,200 weekly by the Fox studio under a five year contract.

The management suit was filed by Elinor O'Reilly and Gene Mann, who "discovered" her when she was making $75 a week in short subjects, and obtained her a short contract with Fox. The suit involved terms of an agreement the agents had with Shirley's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George F. Temple.

Temple is the manager of a branch bank in Los Angeles. Mrs. Temple, under the terms of her daughter's contract, is paid $100 weekly for appearing on the set as her guardian.

Shirley's instant hit in her first full length picture, "Stand Up and Cheer," boosted her into the big money class.

SHERIF WARNS SUBURB TAVERNS TO WAR ON VICE

Sherif John Toman yesterday told 300 tavern owners and village officials, gathered from the northern and northwestern suburbs, that the liquor business in the county would have to be divorced from all associations with vice. The meeting was held in the Morton Grove station of the county highway police.

"If you want to be safe from interference," said the sherif, "be your own policemen. I will not tolerate syndicates dealing in liquor or vice, the serving of drinks to minors, or the employment of hostesses in taverns. The evils of the old saloon must not return. I believe in home rule, but if you do not enforce the laws yourself my office will take over the task with vigor."

Chicago policemen, who have been enforcing the law requiring taverns to close at 1 a. m. on weekdays and 2 a. m. on Sundays, yesterday received a general order to survey the retail liquor places in all districts and report those which employ hostesses. This was regarded as a preliminary to a command that all hostesses be dismissed.

She said there was "no other romantic interest" concerning either herself or her husband.

JUNE KNIGHT, 13 DAYS A BRIDE, IS SEEKING DIVORCE

Leaves Ames After Only a Week Together.

Los Angeles, Dec. 13.—[Special.]—June Knight, blonde motion picture star, and former fiancée of Max Baer, heavyweight boxing champion, filed suit for divorce here today from Paul Ames, New York broker, whom she married on Nov. 29, just thirteen days ago.

The marriage was performed in Chicago by Judge E. H. Wegener, and the couple went to New York for a brief honeymoon, before returning to Hollywood where Miss Knight was to begin work on a new picture.

Together Only 8 Days.

According to the bill, Miss Knight ceased to live with her husband eight days after the ceremony. She declared that Ames never wished to be alone with her, and insisted on having his friend, Murray Stern, constantly with them.

The actress also charged that her husband was sullen, morose, and allowed members of his family to interfere in their affairs and take over the job of running their lives for them. Because of all this, Miss Knight said, she was forced to leave him.

The bill asks for $1,200 a month alimony and $5,500 attorney's fees. She declares her husband has an income of $2,400 a month, and own property valued at a million dollars.

Brother-in-Law of Miss Torres.

Ames, who gave his age as 32 when applying for the marriage license in Chicago, is a wealthy former member of the New York Stock Exchange. He is a brother of Stephen Ames, who marrried Raquel Torres, also a film star, last April 21.

Paul Ames was divorced from his first wife several years ago, but in July of 1933 obtained a license to be rewed. This ceremony, however, was never performed.

Charles Ray, Pre-Talkie Star, Sued for Divorce

500 LUSTY 'AYES' OPEN CRIME WAR AS PARLEY ENDS

Six Point Program Hits Nation's Outlaws.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 13.—[Special.]—With the adoption of bristling resolutions carrying a ringing declaration of war on crime, the attorney general's conference on crime closed its four day session here this morning.

The 500 delegates to the conference rolled out enthusiastic "ayes" as the resolutions committee presented its program to exterminate crime. The principal features of the drive are:

1. Establishment of a national institute of criminology to train selected policemen in scientific crime detection.
2. Promotion of coöperation between federal, state, county and municipal law enforcers.
3. Condemnation of abuse of paroles and pardons.

Hit Red Tape.

4. Improvement of criminal laws to speed justice and cut legal red tape.
5. Condemnation of lynching and employment of private police in industrial disputes.
6. Creation of the crime conference as a permanent body to exchange plans for an unrelenting drive on crime.

"There has been presented at this conference overwhelming evidence on an intolerable breakdown of law and order throughout the country" the resolutions committee stated in a preamble to its program. "It is inconceivable that this nation can continue to permit murders, pillaging and racketeering with impunity."

"West Point" for Police.

In urging the establishment of a "West Point" for the training of policemen, the committee suggested the criminalogy institute be built in Washington. At the center policemen chosen through competitive examination in the states might be trained in every phase of criminal law administration.

The program of coöperation presented warned against encroachment on state rights. It advocated the creation of state departments of justice to unite disorganized local police to strengthen law enforcement lines.

As a further step toward coöperation the resolution supported adoption of compacts between groups of states. Such compacts might enable police of one state to pursue fleeing criminals into another, force return of witnesses across state lines and permit mutual exchange of facilities.

Flay Pardon Abuse.

In deploring abuse of pardon and parole provisions as tending to undermine respect for law and order, the committee made several recommendations. These included abolition of political influence, full publicity to proceedings, thorough study of individual cases, no parole without adequate supervision facilities and swift punishment for violators.

The committee stated its belief that the time is ripe for the improvement of criminal procedure. It recommended that all legislatures meeting early next year pass laws designed to eliminate archaic criminal procedure. To this end the resolution urged a study of the model criminal code prepared by the American Bar institute.

The pronouncement against lynching was adopted in surrender to the picketers who had been lined about Continental Memorial hall during the four day session. The picketeers, largely Negroes, each had a noose draped about their necks in a mute appeal for an expression from the convention.

The linked condemnation of "methods of dealing with industrial conflicts" was adopted at the insistence of labor delegates to the convention. Of both a resolution said "they are not in accord with orderly legal procedure."

Urges Permanent Group.

Perpetuation of the crime conference was the request of Scott M. Loftin, president of the American Bar association and chairman of the resolutions committee. He said the conference should meet at least once in every two years, if not more often.

A permanent organization, it was said, would serve not only as a board of strategy in mapping campaigns against crime, but would also aid in keeping public opinion aroused so that the fight would continue.

The conference was officially closed with a reception in Constitution hall in the evening given by Attorney General Homer S. Cummings. In an address he congratulated the delegates for having achieved the twofold task placed before them at the outset of the conference by President Roosevelt.

COURTNEY TELLS VIEWS.

State's Attorney Courtney returned from the national crime conference in Washington, D. C., yesterday and declared that the meeting had resulted in waking the public to the fact that it must coöperate in the war against gangsters, racketeers and other criminals.

"People must learn to take an interest in jury service," asserted the prosecutor. "They should not shirk their duty in appearing as witnesses against these enemies of society."

Mr. Courtney expressed his satisfaction that the judges in the Criminal court of Cook county had reduced the number of pending indictments to the lowest point in many years.

Two Police Slayers to Die Tonight in Electric Chair

Acting on the recommendation of the state board of pardons and paroles, Gov. Horner yesterday denied a plea of clemency for Walter Dittman, who is scheduled to die in the electric chair at the county jail shortly after midnight tonight for the murder of Policeman Earl Jensen of Oak Park.

Herman Boulan, who is to be executed at the same time for the same crime, apparently had given up hope. No formal request for clemency was filed before the state board on his behalf.

Another move on Dittman's behalf was blocked yesterday when two alienists agreed, after an examination, that he was sane. Unless Defense Attorney William Scott Stewart had some surprise to be sprung at the last moment it appeared that the execution would take place as scheduled.

Mildred Dittman, a sister of the condemned man, appeared before Judge Hugo Friend yesterday and asked that Dr. Harold Hulbert, psychiatrist, be allowed to examine the condemned man. Judge Friend granted the request, but directed that Dr. Harry Hoffman, head of the Criminal court behavior clinic, examine Dittman on behalf of the state.

Both alienists reported Dittman sane. No effort was made to examine Boulan.

In announcing his refusal to interfere, Gov. Horner said:

"I find nothing in the record to justify an interference with the sentence of the court.

"The prisoner had a fair trial before an able judge and the Supreme court of this state has denied a supersedeas. Notwithstanding my personal view on the death penalty as a punishment for murder, it is the law of this state and one which we are bound to obey."

Sherif John Toman, preparing for the double execution, issued admittance cards to Roy Jensen, brother of Policeman Jensen, who was slain last Sept. 1, and to Policeman Ellsworth Mitchell, brother-in-law of the victim.

The two condemned men last night had not been told that their last hope was gone.

Policeman Jensen was shot to death when he tried to question Dittman and Boulan after a holdup.

AUTO THEFT RING IS BROKEN AS TWO BARE 150 CRIMES

Youths' Confession Leads to Jailing of 12 Others.

AUTOMOBILE THEFTS.
Automobiles stolen, 21; recovered, 23; stripped, 2 (from police records for 24 hours ending at midnight Wednesday).

Fourteen prisoners were held at the Fillmore street police station yesterday after two young men confessed to participation in the theft of more than 50 automobiles and the commission of 100 robberies. Sergt. Joseph De Waele said the arrests broke up an automobile theft ring.

The arrests began with a raid on the apartment of two girls at 219 South Kedzie avenue. The occupants were Louise Zich, 18 years old, 1821 West 19th street, and Mildred Pelk, 19 years old, 1810 West 20th street.

Two Youths Confess.

They admitted the place was used as a storage room for the proceeds of the robberies committed by their sweethearts, Leo Kuta, 24 years old, 2242 West 21st place, and Joseph Lazarz, 25 years old, 4721 South Harding avenue. Lazarz, after he and Kuta were captured, confessed committing robberies, and Kuta said he confined his criminal activities to stealing cars. A partner of Lazarz in his robberies was sought.

Ten Others Arrested.

Ten other persons were under arrest charged with buying stolen goods from Lazarz and Kuta. They are George Dempsey, 4108 Ogden avenue; Charles Suvua, 4027 Cermak road; Thomas Corrigan, 3140 Jackson boulevard; John Serro, 1910 South Lincoln street; Walter Nevarowski, 2228 South Sawyer avenue; Joseph Kowalski, 1907 South Ashland avenue; William Fuga, 3134 Jackson boulevard; Gustav Rufellow, 3142 Jackson boulevard; William Andrews, 1902 Cullerton avenue, and Charles Swan, 4142 West 26th street.

PRISON SENTENCE SYSTEM DEBATED BY TWO JUDGES

Argue For and Against Definite Penalties.

The indeterminate sentence system of punishing criminals, by which the pardon board ultimately decides the length of time an offender shall serve, was attacked and defended by two Chicago judges in a debate before the Chicago Academy of Criminology at the Medical and Dental Arts club, 185 North Wabash avenue, last night.

In criticizing the system, Judge Harry B. Miller of the Criminal court declared that individuals sentenced to prison are deprived of hope—that they cannot plan when they are to be released—by a system which makes their incarceration indefinite. A definite sentence carrying a definite time of release, he contended, would be an incentive for the prisoner to behave himself while looking forward to that specific day.

Calls It Crime Deterrent.

"I do not think the extreme penalty is always advisable," he declared. "Under a definite sentence system the defendant who pleads guilty knows just what his crime has cost him; he knows just what his punishment will be. In my opinion, that will do more to eliminate crime than to send a man to Joliet not knowing how long he will be there.

"A system of this kind would in no way destroy the parole plan. I believe the courts, with their years of experience in dealing with human nature, are just as capable of dealing with offenders as are parole boards which change with every new administration and whose members usually have no experience in law or criminology."

Judge Harry M. Fisher of the Superior court, defending the indeterminate sentence, declared that the opposition of most judges to the system is their feeling that their power has been usurped.

Points Out Weakness.

"We've had the system of definite penalties before," he declared, "and it has been freely charged that judges were not free from corruption in fixing penalties. I should like to ask what would happen in Cook county if the judges had the power to sentence. They would be subjected to pressure on all sides—from the friends of the defendant on one side asking for a minimum penalty and from civic organizations and the press on the other demanding the maximum. Their lives would become unbearable.

"Show me a judge that can say John Jones should serve, say, three years, two months, two weeks and six days; one who can determine the efficacy of any punishment he can fix on any basis and I will say give him full power to sentence. But such a judge does not exist."

JOLIET "MYSTERY MAN" IS GUARDED IN STRAITJACKET

Held in a straitjacket and guarded by a deputy sherif, a mystery man was at St. Joseph's hospital in Joliet last night telling a variety of rambling stories to the effect that he was drugged by notorious gangsters while "on government business."

The man first gave the name of Jack Moxey, but later declared he was Alfred Geonia, 51 years old, and that he was paroled from the Kansas state penitentiary a little more than a week ago.

The gist of his garbled tales was that he was doing "undercover" work for the department of justice, having been employed immediately after his parole. He told of meeting Alvin Karpis, John Hamilton, and other hoodlums, and of being drugged when they discovered he was "working for the government."

This, he said, preceded his sudden appearance yesterday at Powell's Windmill, a roadhouse seven miles from Joliet. He staggered into this place, apparently half delirious, and was later removed to the hospital. In his possession was a paper bearing the telephone number of the Chicago department of justice office and the word "Suran."

Department of justice officials disclaimed any knowledge of Moxey.

'ELECTRIC GLOVE' IS USED AT JAIL TO DETECT WEAPONS

Sherif John Toman yesterday instituted the use of an "electric glove" for the examination of visitors and prisoners for weapons or articles that could be used to effect an escape at the county jail. The equipment will be used until "electric eyes" are installed.

The glove was first used on Attorney Edward Flanagan, who went to the jail to see a client. The metal contrivance is passed over clothing, and if the person examined is carrying metal a bulb on the "glove" lights up and a buzzer sounds.

The "electric eye," consisting of a beam from a photo-electric cell, will be installed at the front door of the jail and in the receiving room.

REVEAL PROFITS OF MUNITIONS AT SENATE INQUIRY

Range as High as 800%, It Is Shown.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 13.—[Special.]—Evidence of the enormous wartime profits made by government contractors—profits which ranged as high as 800 per cent of invested capital—was presented today to the senate munitions committee.

The day's startling developments were climaxed, shortly before the close of the session, by the disclosure that the E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co. received about 2 million dollars from a deal with the government in which the Delaware munitions company made no investment.

This new phase of the inquiry was launched after the committee had made peace, at least outwardly, with President Roosevelt, who yesterday ignored the munitions probers in naming a distinguished group to study the problem of taking the profit out of war.

Senator Visits White House.

Senator Bennett Champ Clark [Dem., Mo.], a committee member who has taken charge of the inquiry in the absence of the chairman, Senator Gerald P. Nye [Rad., N. D.], visited the White House today.

He returned to the committee rooms to report that President Roosevelt expects the committee and the newly named group to work together. Senator Clark said he saw no basis for a conflict.

Meantime the chairman of the White House committee, Bernard M. Baruch, New York financier who was chairman of the world war industries board, journeyed south for a vacation. He took along voluminous documents on the problem which he and his assistant, Brig. Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, former head of the NRA, will attack upon his return.

At the war department plans were being made to bring up to date the price "freezing" and high tax recommendations of the war policies commission made in 1932. These would impose a 95 per cent tax on all profits of a corporation in excess of its average for three years prior to the war and would give the administration authority to stabilize prices and control credit.

Evidence on Fortunes Presented.

The amassing of huge wartime fortunes and the manner in which this was done was presented to the committee under the direction of Alger Hiss, youthful committee investigator, who offered scores of documents in evidence.

He also brought out that during the war year of 1917 there were 181 individual incomes of over a million dollars, 41 of which had not appeared before. Generally speaking, the list was composed of the familiar names of the nation's wealthy.

Included in the list of million dollar incomes reported for the war affected years of 1915 to 1920 were six members of the du Pont family, Andrew Carnegie, Andrew W. Mellon, Henry and Edsel Ford, Senator James Couzens of Michigan, former Senator Joseph R. Grundy of Pennsylvania, and several Rockefellers, Morgans, Whitneys, Vanderbilts, and Astors.

Eight Chicagoans Named.

It also named eight Chicagoans—Arthur W. Cutten, R. T. Crane Jr., Herbert J. Blum, Eugene J. McVoy, Frederick W. Matthiessen, Julius Rosenwald, William Wrigley Jr., and James A. Patten.

Investigator Hiss showed figures on war profits from the records of the internal revenue bureau and the federal trade commission. These showed that profits in some instances ran to a figure several times higher than that of the invested capital.

For the year 1917 the list of companies with the percentage of earnings as compared to their investment included:

United States Steel, 35 per cent return; Alleghany Steel, 78 per cent; Nagel Steel, 319 per cent; Follansbee Brothers, 112 per cent; West Penn Steel, 159 per cent; Kennecott Copper, 70 per cent; Calumet and Hecla Copper, 800 per cent, and New Jersey Zinc, 95 per cent.

MARK 53D ANNIVERSARY.

Hoopeston, Ill., Dec. 13.—[Special.]—Mr. and Mrs. Walter Button of Milford will celebrate their 53d wedding anniversary tomorrow.

1928 KIDNAPING AND MURDER OF GIRL, 10, SOLVED

Prisoner, 65, Confesses New York Crime.

New York, Dec. 13.—[Special.]—The six year old mystery surrounding the disappearance of Grace Budd, 10, pretty schoolgirl, was solved tonight when police found part of her remains in a grave after a 65 year old man had confessed he kidnaped and killed her in 1928.

Police authorities announced that Albert A. Fisch, a New York painter, confessed the crime after being questioned all afternoon. He disclosed the location of the grave in Worthington woods in Westchester county.

Fisch directed state troops and police to the spot where he said he hid portions of the body. The skull and a few other remains were found.

Seized at Postoffice.

The kidnaper was arrested at a postoffice today by Detective William King and postoffice inspectors who had trailed him for several weeks. It was understood Fisch was trapped as a result of notes he had written to the Budd family in recent weeks.

The victim's mother, Mrs. Delia Budd, received an anonymous letter three weeks ago. It was written on stationery of the New York Private Chauffeurs' Benevolent association.

The letter, purporting to portray the last minutes of the abducted child, was written in unprintable language.

Ten days ago a second anonymous letter reached Mrs. Budd. Like the first, its language was revolting. But police were certain it was a clew.

Detective King of the kidnaping squad began a search for a deranged man who could have had access to the stationery of the chauffeurs' society.

Grace, an anemic child, was last seen on June 3, 1928, when a man who identified himself as Frank Howard drove her away to attend a fictitious birthday party.

Promises Job to Brother.

Howard had ingratiated himself with the family on the promise to give a summer's job to Grace's brother, Albert, 18, on a farm at Farmingdale, N. Y.

Police Commissioner Lewis Valentine said that Fisch admitted he had called at the Budd home six years ago, answering a "situation wanted" advertisment placed by Grace's brother.

Fisch confessed that he returned to the Budd home several days later and took Grace to a home in Westchester county. According to his confession, Fisch said the terrified child screamed and he choked her to death and then cut her body into three sections.

ADMITS TRUNK MURDER

St. Louis, Mo., Dec. 13.—(AP)—John H. Happel, 53 year old steam engineer, was quoted by police tonight as admitting the murder of his wife in Los Angeles because "she nagged me."

Chief of Police John J. McCarthy said Happel admitted the slaying shortly after he had been arrested at Mehlville, St. Louis county, while en route to this city by bus.

Mrs. Happel's dismembered body was found in a trunk in a windowless shack at Los Angeles Dec. 5. Surgeons said she had been beaten to death three days to a week before that.

Chief McCarthy said Happel told of a long series of quarrels, saying his 46 year old wife "always was calling me names, saying I was stalling and didn't want to work."

Happel, according to McCarthy, used a piece of pipe to kill his wife.

Chief McCarthy said Happel had declared "I used a meat saw to cut off the legs," explaining how the body was dealt with to make it fit the trunk.

State Senator Paddock's Son Is Wed in Elopement

Robert S. Paddock, 21 years old, son of State Senator Ray Paddock of Volo, and Miss Helen Neuman of Barrington eloped and were married early yesterday at Waukegan by Justice of the Peace Henry Wallenwein. The bridegroom and Miss Neuman met while they were high school pupils.

U. S. WILL BLAME JAPAN FOR RUIN OF NAVAL PARLEY

LONDON, Dec. 13.—(AP)—Because the American delegates mean to saddle responsibility for the break up of naval negotiations here squarely upon Japan, formal adjournment of tri-power conversations in progress since Oct. 16 probably will be delayed until next Thursday.

That is the day the Tokio government is expected to denounce the 1922 Washington naval limitation treaty that gave Nippon the little end of the 5-5-3 naval ratio.

American quarters revealed that the decision of the American delegates, Norman H. Davis and Admiral William H. Standley, to delay sailing for home until next week was due to what they considered far too insistent suggestions by the British and Japanese that they be on their way Saturday.

In this the Americans saw sudden and unexpected last minute efforts to keep Japan from bearing the brunt of the responsibility for failure of the conversations, through adjourning them before the treaty is denounced.

The Americans informed the British, who proposed adjournment yesterday, they would not be able to sail on the Manhattan Saturday and had canceled their reservations.

ROBS DOWNTOWN GARAGE.

A bandit took $16 from the cash register in the Builders' building garage at 171 West Wacker drive early yesterday after forcing Bertrum Johnson, colored, the night attendant, into a washroom.

Executor Jailed in Suit Over Estate Distribution

Dr. John B. Dicus, 1031 Wisconsin avenue, Oak Park, dentist who was held in contempt by Superior Judge Joseph Sabath on Wednesday, was sentenced to jail yesterday until he obeys a court order that he pay $4,000 to his sister-in-law, Mrs. Emma Dicus, 533 South Ridgeland avenue, Oak Park. The money is allegedly due Mrs. Dicus as part of her share of the $300,000 estate of her father.

STUDENT CLUBS JOIN RANKS OF GOOD FELLOWS

Arrange to Furnish 300 Christmas Baskets.

BY PHIL MAXWELL.

Each day the Good Fellow editor scans reports to see if the Good Fellow army is winning against the enemy—destitute homes at Christmas. These reports comprise the number of Good Fellows enlisted this year compared to the same time in 1933.

With the opening of the campaign the reports to Good Fellow headquarters were gratifying, but during the last few days there was a slackening of the number of those who will take baskets of food, toys, candy, and nuts to less fortunate families at Christmas time. From THE TRIBUNE'S Public Service office at 1 South Dearborn street came the disheartening statistics that the army of Good Fellows was behind last year's expedition by 92.

300 Junior Good Fellows.

Gloom at headquarters was dispelled when a young regiment of 300 junior Good Fellows from the grade schools of Cook county enrolled to take as many baskets. This detachment is being led by Otto F. Aken, county superintendent of schools. His staf consists of C. M. Callahan, D. J. Heffernan, Paul J. Sheehan, Nellie G. McMahon, and Catherine McClaughry, directors of education in Cook county.

In each of the nearly 300 grade schools Supt. Aken has organized an achievement club. The president of this organization will be the Good Fellow and the contents of the basket will be donated by the students. Mr. Aken, enthusiastic, said there would be at least 300 Good Fellows. He added:

"I wouldn't be a bit surprised if the teachers of each school would add another basket to that given by the children. Much of the food that will be given away will have been grown in the children's gardens. Every basket will have a good sized chicken in it."

How to Be a Good Fellow.

As Christmas draws near this appeal to you becomes more emphatic. Won't you, too, be a Good Fellow? Names of deserving families may be obtained either by filling in the nearby coupon, calling the Good Fellow headquarters by telephone, Superior 0100, or personally visiting the bureau at 1 South Dearborn street.

There are thousands of saddened homes in Chicago. You can buy a basket which will bring much joy to an entire family for a few dollars. The Good Fellow is expected to take the basket himself, either on Christmas eve or Christmas day.

The proceeds of a recent bowling match between the Pabst Blue Ribbon team and the Baby Ruth team held at White City will provide baskets for 10 families, reports James A. Tinney, who had charge of arrangements. The total taken in was $47.50.

Other bowlers who are assisting in the campaign this winter are the 15 members of the Irving-Kildare office team of the Illinois Bell Telephone company. Miss Vaughn C. Ryan, speaking for the league, says the girls will use their prize money to buy five Good Fellow baskets.

Mayor Buys First Ticket for Newsboys' Celebration

Mayor Kelly yesterday purchased the first ticket to the Southwest Side Newsboys' Christmas fund dance to be held on the night of Dec. 25 in Columbia hall, 48th and Paulina streets. The sale was made in Mayor Kelly's office by Edward E. Shields, a newsboy for the last twelve years at 47th and Paulina streets, who is chairman of the committee on arrangements. Proceeds will be used to buy food and clothing for underprivileged children "back of the yards."

Radio Beauty Gathers Toys for Needy Children

Scores of toys for needy children were turned over to Mayor Kelly yesterday by Miss Dorothy Page, radio singer, recently voted "the most beautiful girl on the air." Miss Page, one of the stars who will appear in Chicago's own Christmas benefit performance at the Chicago Stadium next Wednesday, collected the toys in a personal canvass of music publishers and dealers.

Toman Decorates Jail for Christmas Season

Christmas spirit will not be lacking in the county jail this year. Sherif John Toman yesterday ordered that Christmas wreaths of holly and evergreen be hung in the jail to remind the inmates of the glad season. "Even if they have wronged society," Sherif Toman said, "these unfortunates are entitled to share in the season's spirit."

Cicero Employes to Get $45,000 Before Christmas

FORECAST HEAVY HOLIDAY TRAVEL; RAIL FARES CUT

Roads Offer Low Rates to All Sections.

Low railroad excursion rates between Chicago and points throughout the country for the holiday season were announced yesterday. Bargain round trip rates of 1 1-3 of the first class fare or less were made public by the Central Passenger association, representing the eastern lines, and the Western Passenger association, for the railroads extending west of Chicago.

Based on early reservations and the sharp increase in mail and express shipments, all railroads are expecting the heaviest volume of holiday travel in years. Most of them are preparing to put on extra equipment when the rush reaches its peak.

The 1 1-3 fare will apply for trips from Chicago to the east and tickets will be on sale from Dec. 20 to Jan. 1, 1935, with the exception of Dec. 26 and 27, and the return limit will be Jan. 10. These tickets can be used for travel in coaches or sleeping cars.

Low Rates to South.

An exception will be a rate of one first class fare for the entire round trip from Chicago to points in Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, Tennessee, South Carolina, and a portion of Kentucky. These tickets, now on sale and available up to Jan. 1, are good for return until Jan. 15, and can be used only in coaches.

In the western territory, the 1 1-3 rate, with the return limit Jan. 15, will apply for travel in all classes of equipment, with the privilege of purchasing sleeping and parlor car accommodations at the usual cost.

Coach Rates to Northwest.

The trips by coach will amount to a reduction of only 25 per cent, with the exception of those to California, on which the reduction will be 33 1-3 per cent. Tickets to and from California in tourist sleeping cars will cost 20 per cent less than a first class fare.

To and from the north Pacific coast the reduced coach rates will be honored for tourist sleepers, with the added charges, west of St. Paul and the Missouri river.

Excursion rates of 1½ the one way coach fare were put into effect yesterday by the North Shore line.

'CASTOR OIL RIDE' PLUNGES CUBA IN NEW CONFLICT

Enmity Flares Between Army and ABC.

HAVANA, Dec. 13.—(AP)—A Fascist derived "cure" for political foes—castor oil, forcibly administered—tonight had Cuba's two most powerful armed factions apparently on the verge of open conflict.

The old enmity between Col. Fulgencio Batista's Cuban army and the well organized A B C revolutionary society flared into new bitterness as the A B C's central committee charged last night's raid on the offices of the A B C newspaper Accion and the kidnaping and dosing of nine employés with oil was government inspired.

Batista's enemies this morning hurled accusations of tyranny, dictatorship, and official terrorism at him as President Carlos Mendieta's government, cognizant of the widespread reports that an armed uprising is imminent, continued extraordinary precautions to keep the peace.

As forty armed police took over the offices of Accion, telling editors there would be no paper this morning "on orders of Col. [José] Pedraza [chief of Havana police]", rifles were issued to police and details were reënforced. Constitutional guarantees already have been suspended in five of the six provinces.

Meanwhile observers feared the castor oil ride—the first physical conflict in the feud between the army and the A. B. C.—might prove to be the bombshell leading to open battle.

Asks Nazis to Seize Machado.

HAVANA, Dec. 13.—(AP)—The state department today instructed the Cuban legation in Berlin to ask the German government for the arrest of former President Gerardo Machado, preliminary to seeking his extradition. Charges of murder and other offenses were filed against Machado in Cuban courts shortly after he was overthrown in the revolution of August, 1933. Machado arrived at Hamburg, Germany, this week.

Impeach Honduran Consul for Selling a Passport

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras, Dec. 13. (AP)—The Hondural government today impeached Henri Adler, Honduran consul general at Antwerp, Belgium, who is accused in the French press of having sold a Hondural passport to a German woman. The woman, Mary Trent, alias Countess von Schulemburg, was reported to have caused the Honduran government embarrassment during her travels through France with the illegal passport.

CUP DRIPPER AND MUSIC BOX; FINE GIFTS--IN 1857!

Historical Society and Old Files Tell All.

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

The ghosts of other Christmases, with gifts that now seem quaint and of curious selection, hide within the pages of old CHICAGO TRIBUNE files and under the glass cases of the Chicago Historical society.

These Christmas relics and the printed page take one back to the days of Fort Dearborn in 1804, through the early village life of Chicago in the 1830s, through the thriving pre-civil war period and after—dim pictures recalling the leisurely life as it was lived by early settlers before the onrush of the mighty era of transportation.

The earliest gifts were utilitarian that Christmas night of 1804 when Fort Dearborn entertained Black Partridge and his band of Indians, come to leave some of their fur pelts with the soldiers. Records describe the gifts as pipes and tobacco for the soldiers, moccasins, Indian dolls, and bows and arrows for the children, beads for the Indians, and bright ribbons for the ladies of the fort.

Ellen Kinzie's Gift.

In a case in the Historical society is the once prized possession of little Ellen Kinzie, first white child born here that same year. It is called a reticule, a purse that locked, made of powder blue satin and leather and resembling a case for field glasses. Silver and samplers, lockets and shawls were among the choice gifts during the 1830s, but by 1850 Paris had penetrated to Lake Michigan.

Perfume bottles with pearl inlay were the rage, and handkerchief rings, a contrivance of two gold rings connected with a delicate golden chain. The handkerchief was fluffed through one ring, and the other fitted on the lady's finger. Emerald earrings and elaborate breastpins were also popular.

If a young lady wished to thrill her sweetheart she presented him with a watch chain made of her own hair, tightly braided and very strong. Or she might prefer cufflinks which exposed a lock of hair through gold filigree.

Music Boxes Come In.

From 1850 to 1870 music boxes with as many as twenty-four airs, including "Home, Sweet Home," "The Last Rose of Summer," and melodies from the opera, were favorite gifts to wives. Fans encased in glass to be placed on exhibit in the parlor also were popular. Family picture albums and wax flowers in bellglasses were becoming popular gifts in the 1860s.

Cup drips were often among the Christmas gifts after 1830 and until 1900, though polite society, reviving antiques, might frown a litlte on the custom now. These were small pressed glass saucers in which one was to place the cup after pouring the cup's contents into its matching saucer for cooling or drinking purposes.

Among the first available files of THE TRIBUNE in 1857-'58 is observed the beginnings of the ad copywriter's art in selling through newspapers. Favorite descriptives were "handsome," "beautiful," "elegant," "superb," "splendid," all in a single sentence.

Among Christmas gifts advertised in December, 1858, by T. B. Carte & Co. were "little stockings for little feet and larger ones, too."

The same year the exchange of books was as prevalent as it is now and among the best sellers were the following:

"Portraits of the Female Aristocracy of Britain," $45; "Constantinople and the Scenery of the Seven Churches of Asia Minor," $25, and "Dream Land, the Dreams of Youth and Age, Poetically Told and Sweetly Illustrated," $7.

A special offering was "Neill's Illustrated History of Minnesota," which the advertising explained, "cost the government $200, but a few copies could be had for $20."

Miscellaneous gifts were listed by some of the stores. These included accordions, canes, combs, conversation cards, crochet needles, feather dusters, gilt, pearl, jet, or steel buckles, toothpicks, egg boilers, and hand bells.

In 1857 the newest in gifts were match boxes, watch stands, card baskets, rich pungents, pocket cutlery, razors in cases, and fancy mantle thermometers, and "gents' portemonnaies" (pocketbooks to you).

SUPREME COURT GIVES FREEDOM TO E. J. STEVENS

The Illinois Supreme court denied yesterday the state's petition for a rehearing of the recent decision by which the court reversed the embezzlement conviction of Ernest J. Stevens, former head of the Stevens and La Salle hotels. The high court's action ends the case.

Stevens had been found guilty by a jury and sentenced to one to ten years in prison for transferring $1,308,463 of the funds of the Illinois Life Insurance company, of which he was vice president, to the treasury of the Stevens hotel. The high court ruled the transaction was not embezzlement, and gave an outright reversal.

Attorney General Otto Kerner then asked the Supreme court for a rehearing.

WOMAN DIES OF POISON.

Mrs. Tillie Balkan, 30 years old, 4501 Malden street, died last night in the American hospital from poison which she took on Sunday. Her husband, Frank, told police she had made several previous attempts to end her life.

HUEY DIRECTS LOWER RATES BY STATE UTILITIES

Baton Rouge, La., Dec. 13.—(AP)—Senator Huey Long today told public utility officials to reduce their rates on telephones, gas, and electricity.

Counsel for the three utility companies cited at first took exceptions to an investigation into their rates by the Louisiana public utilities commission under Long's new law which forces the companies to pay for the investigation.

They also served notice on the commission at today's opening session of the inquiry that they would contest the constitutionality of the law in Long's program which gives the public service commission authority over utilities formerly responsible to municipalities and provides "confiscatory rates."

Long, serving as counsel for the public service commission, told the utilities' representatives the companies must contribute to the expense of holding the investigation, or he would have the legislature called into session and raise the fees they pay to the commission for supervision and inspection.

After Long's threat to penalize them by raising the fees they pay to the commission, they began one by one to make "deposits" for the expenses of the hearing. The case of the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph company then was taken up and its financial showings were outlined by counsel.

U. S. Seizes 3 Suspected of Counterfeiting Plot

Three men accused of engaging in a plot to manufacture counterfeit half dollars were in custody of the Chicago office of the federal secret service last night. Two were seized Wednesday. They are Edmund J. Carter, 34 years old, and W. G. Moore, 22 years old, both of 122 Aberdeen street. The third man, whose name was not disclosed, was said to have been stamping the spurious coins when he was seized. Operatives of the secret service asserted that each counterfeit coin contained about 10 cents' worth of silver.

COLBY'S ARE PROUD TO OFFER MEN

AMERICA'S MOST COMFORTABLE CHAIR

A new 1935 form fitting model

THE COLBY IMPERIAL

Doesn't this man look comfortable?

WE MET AN IRASCIBLE GENTLEMAN this summer who told us he couldn't find a man's chair in all Chicago.

SO we promised to build him one—but before we satisfied him we built him several chairs...

HE HAD TO HAVE the arms with just the right curve—and height so he could hold a book with comfort. While reading, he insisted on a roll to support his head at an angle that would not tire his eyes.

HE WANTED a hollow in the back for his shoulders and he had to have a bustle built in the chair, of course, so it would brace the small of his back.

THEN—The whole down back was too soft and squashy to suit him. So finally the upholsterers filled these form fitting back units with drawings of SOUTH AMERICAN HORSEHAIR—elastic, soft and lasting—and that did the trick.

WE SATISFIED HIM perfectly.

THIS SPECIAL order job cost him and John A. Colby plenty of money, but the detail work is done. It's in production and goes on sale today in a wide choice of covers at.......... $47.50

● Never in this century has good furniture been so low in price. In normal times this chair would sell at about $100.00.

● "The Imperial" may be had in leather or De Luxe covers at additional cost.

● The deep seat cushion is tunneled and each unit filled with down and feathers.

● The tapered legs are set in square brass castings and the chair slides easily on domes of silence.

● Covered to give both service and style. There are new diagonal self-tone stripes in mohair, damask, mothproof and many very smart new fabrics developed by Moss Rose and L. C. Chase & Co., shown today for the first time in Chicago.

REP. BOYLE SEES BRIGHT CHANCES TO BE SPEAKER

Returns from Springfield with Pledges.

BY PARKE BROWN.

State Representative James P. Boyle, a Chicago candidate for the speakership of the new general assembly which convenes on Jan. 9, returned from Springfield yesterday in a cheerful mood about his prospects.

JAMES P. BOYLE.

During two days at the state capital he talked with a number of downstate Democrats, who, while declining to commit themselves until the picture has taken more definite shape, said that Boyle's candidacy was agreeable to them.

Committee to Meet Nash.

A committee of Chicago Democratic members plans to take up with P. A. Nash, chairman of the Cook county committee, the question whether party leaders will follow the suggestion of Gov. Horner that a downstater be elected to succeed Speaker Arthur Roe.

They are not to see Nash until next week, but the Chicagoans feel that in the meantime the governor is in control of the situation and favors downstate although that may mean leaving the metropolis out in the cold in both houses.

Reports from Springfield are that the downstate Democrats in the senate already have pledged enough votes to elect Senator Rollo M. Shaw of Lawrenceville as president pro tem of that chamber. This would oust Senator Richey V. Graham of Cicero, who now holds the office. Although the Chicagoans are ready to stand by Graham, they are outnumbered 14 to 21 and it is considered doubtful that Graham could be held in his present post even if Gov. Horner urges it.

Downstate Might Win Both.

If, with the argument that both offices—those of senate president pro tem and house speaker—should not go to either section Gov. Horner throws his support to a downstater for the speakership, as he has indicated he will do, it is considered almost a certainty that his action will have exactly the effect that the program is supposed to avoid. That would be the election of downstaters to the highest office at the disposition of each chamber.

Boyle is considered by downstaters the best candidate announced in Cook county and he is said to have a substantial majority of the 35 members from this county pledged to his support.

INDORSE SABATH FOR DEMOCRATIC LEADER IN HOUSE

In a caucus at the Morrison hotel last night the Illinois Democratic delegation in the next congress indorsed Congressman Joseph W. Byrns of Tennessee for speaker and Congressman A. J. Sabath of Chicago for majority floor leader of the house.

The approval of Congressman Byrns had been forecast, but, because there were two candidates for the floor leadership, it had been expected that action on this subject would be postponed until a meeting in Washington next month. But from behind closed doors at midnight came word that Sabath had been indorsed unanimously following the withdrawal of the name of Congressman W. W. Arnold of Robinson.

Mr. Arnold was not present, but consented to the program during a long distance telephone conversation from Washington.

BORAH APPEALS TO REPUBLICANS FOR NEW SETUP

Asks Young Liberals to Rule Party.

form, he asserted, was "protection of the rights, liberties, and economic privileges of the average man and woman" against monopoly and concentration of wealth. It would be vain to pass unemployment relief and old age pension laws and pour out money in relief, he continued, so long as big corporations kept the power to fix prices.

Replying to those who had questioned the constitutionality of his plans, he said that no one connected with the reorganization program had the slightest idea of adopting unconstitutional or un-American methods.

"If out of all this is to come orderly and constitutional government there must also come a system and a body of laws insuring a wholly different distribution of the wealth of our country."

Redistribution of Wealth.

Foremost among Senator Borah's suggestions was an effort to free small business from the handicaps imposed by the Blue Eagle codes. Equally, he assailed the power of monopolies to fix prices arbitrarily and declared that that power in this country was greater than any power ever exercised by the czars.

"The driving power in politics for years to come, I venture to believe," Senator Borah explained, "will come from labor, from the producer, from small business, and from the millions who have through no fault of their own been stripped of their life savings and opportunity.

"It is evident from the statements of Mr. Hilles and Mr. Fletcher," Senator Borah said, "that there is only one thing for those who believe in reorganization to do, and that is to begin to organize in the different counties and states.

"The Young Republicans are very generally organized into clubs in the different states. These will serve as the beginning of state-wide organizations. . . . I have and have had from the beginning, just one purpose, and that is to bring this issue to the front and let the voters of the party determine the course and, in my opinion, the future of the party."

Nye Calls NRA Burden.

Senator Nye prefaced his address with the statement that it was hopeless to expect a future progressivism in the Democratic party, otherwise he would enlist under the Democratic banner. He then advocated the rebirth of the Republican party which would "turn its back upon that which has proved its undoing; namely, the private money bags of the country."

The Republican party, he said, need not even dream of coming back into power "with a Wall street ball and chain attached to it."

Like Senator Borah, Senator Nye saw the NRA as a burden to small business and an aid to monopoly.

FARLEY PULLS ANOTHER BONER WITH GREEN INK

Cambridge, Mass., Dec. 13. — [Special.] — Postmaster James A. Farley pulled another green ink boner in his capacity as chairman of the Democratic national committee, it was revealed here today by Attorney John F. Daly.

Daly has received a letter—signed in the famous green ink—from Mr. Farley in which the national chairman congratulates Daly on his "election as district attorney for the northern district of Massachusetts" and expresses the belief that everybody in the Democratic party from the President down rejoices in his success.

The only hitch is that Mr. Daly failed to win the Democratic nomination and that James J. Bruin of Lowell, who finally was the Democratic victor, took a drubbing to the tune of a 30,000 vote plurality from District Attorney Warren L. Bishop, the Republican incumbent.

ICKES DERIDES CODE CRITICISM BY HIGH COURT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 13.—[Special.]—Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes today expressed his contempt, in language reminiscent of Hugh S. Johnson, of the criticism that has been leveled at his method of promulgating oil codes, amendments and executive orders having the force of law.

The criticism originated with Chief Justice Hughes of the Supreme court, Associate Justice Brandeis and Associate Justice Stone, and President Roosevelt implied his indorsement of the attitude of the justices yesterday when he said they had made an important discovery. This was the fact that there is no official publication of these decrees, on which men can be and have been sent to jail.

When asked about the criticism of the Supreme court justices, made in the hearing on the constitutionality of the NIRA and the oil code, Secretary Ickes declared:

"That's the flimsiest kind of a specious excuse for any one to say they didn't have access to these orders. If they didn't have access it was because they didn't want them. We mailed out about 50,000 copies. They were always available right here in the interior department. They could come and see the originals if they wanted to."

Mr. Ickes was asked whether the famous missing section 4 of the oil code had been mailed out to the producers and printed in the trade journals. He replied that this had nothing to do with the pending case. It was in the pending case, however, that Mr. Justice Stone, by searching examination of the assistant attorney general, Harold M. Stephens, discovered that the section was omitted in revision of the code and missing entirely from September, 1933, to September, 1934.

Livingston Asks Divorce from Countess Irma

Countess Irma Wurmbrand von Stuppach Livingston, member of an old Viennese family, was sued for divorce in the Superior court yesterday by John Livingston, 108 East Oak street, whom she met while he was a member of the Hoover commission that studied post-war conditions in Europe. Livingston, a Chicago business man, alleges desertion.

Livingston sets forth in his bill that he and the countess were married in Vienna on June 14, 1921. His bride then was an outstanding figure in Viennese social circles. Mr. Livingston's mission finished, the couple came to live in Chicago. His bill alleges that the countess returned to Vienna in 1931 and has ignored his entreaties that she return to him.

INSTALL MODERN STREET CARS.

At intervals of two or three weeks during the summer and fall months THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE has printed its editorial comment on the necessity for the modernization of the equipment of our surface lines. A matter of nineteen million dollars, earmarked for this purpose, is lying idle in Chicago banks drawing a nominal rate of interest and depreciating in usable value because of the advancing costs of materials. There is also the danger that this special purpose money will become frozen in some investment because of the ideas held in certain circles that the fund should be invested so as to produce adequate interest.

These editorials have provoked public expression, the opinions varying from that of the writer who enthusiastically commends our contention that new equipment should be built immediately as the "one and only proper method of licking the depression" to the bondholder who considers it the first duty of the receivers to resume interest payments on defaulted bonds with any moneys available, irrespective of the future of the company.

THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE is convinced that it will best serve the public interest by demanding that this huge fund shall be immediately put to the use intended. It is the only sane course since a successor, or even able rival, of street car service is not on the horizon. Future transportation for our workers must not only be safeguarded but constantly improved. We, therefore, add plank No. 5 to our Platform for Chicago, "Install Modern Street Cars," and there it will remain until progressive action is announced and undertaken by those whose duty it is to see that an equipment fund is utilized for its avowed objective.

IN FLORIDA AND ILLINOIS.

Two news items in Monday's TRIBUNE offer some food for reflection by the people of Illinois. One is an announcement by the Illinois Emergency Relief commission that another camp for transients is being established near Cairo. The other is an announcement by Gov. Horner that he has received a notification from Gov. Sholtz of Florida that no more transients will be admitted to that state.

The new camp in Illinois will consist of 3 dormitories, a dining hall, kitchen and "recreational facilities." The Florida governor reports that individuals without means of self-support will be turned back at the border or arrested as vagrants. He remarks that the existing camps are full and that the Federal Emergency Relief administration has discontinued funds for enlargement of existing facilities.

Our Illinois readers may write their own editorial on this news.

AND SO WHAT?

Gen. Johnson, late mayor of the palace, says the Blue Eagle is dead as a dodo. It was an incubator bird and was hatched from a doorknob, but the general's present opinion might be prejudiced, he having failed to combine a bird of prey and a dove of peace under one covering of feathers, and having so failed might be unwilling to grant a success to any one else. However, Mr. Richberg, succeeding as head keeper of the aviary, is about of the same opinion, and Alfred P. Sloan of General Motors, speaking to the Illinois manufacturers, takes heart to tell them that this is another noble experiment cracking up.

Mr. Perkins, the Pennsylvania battery manufacturer who didn't sign his code because he couldn't comply, has been found guilty of the strange crime of minding his own business, but lumbermen meeting in Washington confess that they have been scofflaws, bootleggers, and lawbreakers. They ask the NRA to stop the price fixing which is producing moral and economic chaos in the industry.

Mr. Perkins, victim of the department of justice, may find strange reading in the lumbermen's confessions, publicly made, that "no one pays any attention to the codes" and that "not more than 5 per cent of sales on the west coast have complied with NRA prices," but he should remember that outrageous laws always pick up small victims. The fellow who got life for a half pint of gin in Michigan was not a big Detroit rum runner but a small town barber.

The justices of the United States Supreme court, hearing argument on the validity of the petroleum code, have been at no pains to conceal judicial astonishment as inquiries from the bench brought strange responses, such as that an executive order specifying crimes punishable by fine and imprisonment became a criminal law without being recorded or attested.

Texas oil men were arrested and imperiled under such law. The victims might not even know what had been declared to be a crime. The star chamber, thought to have been forever buried under opprobrium, came to life and full action. To the practices of the king's councilors the new administrators of star chamber law added the device of not telling the prospective victim what he would or would not do at the peril of his life.

Likely enough there are a hundred new quackeries descending or preparing to descend upon Washington for the session of the new congress. Dr. F. E. Townsend of Long Beach, Cal., with his twenty-four billion old age pension scheme, is one. But these eccentrics often reveal that the recession has set in. They are found on the beach when the tide has ebbed. They are more numerous after foul weather.

Dr. Moley has taken the front and center to talk against all Epicackians and Mr. Roosevelt makes it his chief present concern to rally the nation to scourge and drive out crime.

THE PLANNED ECONOMY GOES BROKE.

Under Mussolini's latest decree no one in Italy may own a foreign bank account or a foreign security. All such holdings must be turned over to the government in exchange for Italian government bonds.

Italy's planned economy thereby confesses that it is headed for the boneyard. It takes quite a while to exhaust a great nation's resources, but the trick has just about been turned. Italy's finances are conceded, by this decree, to be in a desperate condition, for only desperation could produce the decree. Unless Mussolini makes fundamental changes in his domestic policies the unbalanced budgets will continue and the drain on the Italian reserve of gold and foreign exchange may be expected to continue also.

If this process runs its course, as now seems more than likely, the goal of complete illiquidity will have been reached. All private wealth and savings will be invested in Italian government securities, for which there will be no market either at home or abroad. Italy cannot live without supplies from foreign countries, and it will have no money with which to buy them. Barter will be tried, but barter is clumsy, slow, and inadequate.

The jig will then be up. The present confiscation can only postpone the debacle, not avert it. Once more the world has evidence that even in an essentially nonindustrial country like Italy the national economy is so intricate that it defies control from a single center. The more the economy becomes centralized the more it tends to bog down. The economic general staf can continue to function for a time through successive confiscations and suppression of protest and opposition by force, but the day will come when not even castor oil and machine guns will produce more wealth for the government to squander. That moment is fast approaching in Italy.

AN ELDERLY LADY ON THREE CHEESES.

The following passage from "A Hundred Years Ago" in the London Spectator has a haunting quality of reminding you of something, although you may not be clear in your mind what that something is. If you were clear the quality would not be haunting. It teases but eludes.

"An elderly lady at a village in Norfolk has adopted the singular idea that she is an old hen. Her restlessness and vexation were excessive so long as her friends contradicted the notion; but after a time they ceased to do so, and at the recommendation of her medical adviser suffered her to think and act as she pleased. In consequence of this indulgence the good dame is more positive than ever of her feathered state, and has even gone so far as to make herself a nest in a clothes basket, where she sits the great part of the day, with most praiseworthy patience, on three Dutch cheeses, asserting that they will be hatched in seven weeks' time."

For some this may induce an idea of Mr. Ickes which his friends will repel, they pointing rather to Mr. Wallace or Mr. Tugwell. Mr. Richberg seems to have left the nest as Gen. Johnson did before him, although not by the resignation route.

Whoever is on the cheeses it is the hatching of the planned society.

Editorial of the Day

THE ISSUE BLFORE THE PRESIDENT.
[Arizona Daily Star.]

Shall the unemployed be put back to work at current wage levels by private employers, or shall they be put to work at small subsistence wages by the federal government?

Shall the problem of unemployment be made a permanent one, or should a determined effort be made to solve the problem by methods which in the past have proven effective and which today have been studiously avoided?

The answer to these two questions is involved in the plans of the President, who has tentatively announced a giant $4,000,000,000 program of emergency expenditures as a means of caring for the unemployed.

For over one year now the nation has seen a tremendous program of government spending as a means of "priming the pump" and starting the wheels of progress. Yet today, after more than a year of these great expenditures, employment is little if any better than it was before the spending started. More and more it becomes apparent that no program of government spending will revive business and industry appreciably, and more and more it becomes apparent that an increased program of expenditures will be more than offset by a decrease in private activity caused by the fear engendered by the proposed spending. The logical and inevitable consequence of such a program is, as recovery fails, to urge more and more spending and more and more borrowing, and finally the development of a situation where the government's credit is gone and where the nation's money will be worthless. During all of this spending the unemployed will get only a bare subsistence wage. Just as $2,000,000,000 during the last year now calls for $4,000,000,000 this year, so will $4,000,000,000 this year call for $6,000,000,000 or $8,000,000,000 next year. The problem of unemployment will become a permanent one.

On the other hand the President and the administration have it within their power to formulate a program which will put back to work practically all of the unemployed at current wage levels as a minimum. This program would call for sufficient appropriations for relief purposes, and the imposition of new taxes to care for these appropriations and all other appropriations. In addition the program would call for the settlement of the war debts that international stabilization of currencies might be achieved; the lowering of our tarif barriers, and the ending of all monetary tinkering. The adoption of such a program would arouse such confidence that once more private initiative would assert itself. Millions of unemployed would go back to work at good wages instead of subsisting on low government dole wages.

Such a program would be a difficult one politically to achieve, but the hold the President has on the people of the country is sufficient to enable him to accomplish it.

HOW THE WORLD CHANGES! The Siamese are begging King Prajadhipok not to abdicate. And in the years gone by the only way to get a king off his throne was to cut his head off. But the king job isn't what it used to be. They don't carry the prestige and the power they once did and there isn't the money in it there once was. If the Siamese really want King Prajadhipok to stay on the job they've got to catch up with the times and give him a five day week and shorter hours, fifteen dollars and thirty-five cents for every corner stone he lays, two bits for every baby he kisses, and a couple of bucks for attending garden parties. They've got to upholster the throne, let him have every Thursday afternoon and all day Sunday off, and pay him double time for overwork.

RETURN UNTO THY REST.

Return, return, the shepherd's voice is calling
O'er breezy heights and pastures rich and sweet,
While on the landscape fall the lengthening shadows,
And earth and sky in dim embraces meet.

The flocks graze leisurely along the hillside,
Or lie at ease in pools of leafy shade,
Heedless alike of sheepfold and of shepherd,
Until his evening voice sounds through the glade.

But now they surge, in soft and woolly tumult,
By mead and lane, to where that clear voice calls;
One steadfast star gleams in the purple twilight,
The gates close safely, and the deep night falls.

Thus, while they rest in green and pleasant pastures,
And yet at eve for quiet folds they yearn;
O soul of man, so weary with thy wandering,
Unto thy resting place return, return.

AND ANOTHER IDEA for a Christmas present: A good instructive book. When we give presents we would like very much to have them kept in tender remembrance of our kindness and benevolence. Now a good instructive book will be kept; you may rely on that. Other presents may be worn out in a few days, but nobody reads books any more; they get all their literary culture from the movies or the radio. So the book would be kept; it's a lead pipe cinch nobody will read the darn thing. The only wear and tear on it will be now and then when it's used to prop open a window, press flowers in, or throw at the cat down on the alley fence. Yessir, for something really enduring in these days get a good instructive book. Or one of the classics. Classics are usually big, thick books and they make fine footrests and nobody will borrow 'em, so they will last a lifetime. And your best girl will think of you every time she looks at it. And she will say, "What in heck did the big boob think I wanted that fool thing for?" Ah, memory, memory, how sweet thy charms!

"IT'S DOGS Versus Babies, Say the Vivisectionists." And wasn't it Mme. Roland who exclaimed just before she was vivisected by the guillotine, "Oh baby! what crimes are committed in thy name"?

THE NEW LINEBOOKS

are going too darn fast. There's a lot of 'em I've got to send away myself or there'll be a lot of hard feeling and when I go motoring around on vacation next summer and drop off at some good old pal's house with my tongue hanging out and expecting something nice with ice and things in it, I may find the front gate tied up with a rope and a sign on the door saying "Smallpox Within. Keep Away." I've got to get hold of some extra Linebooks and if they're sold out before I get around to it then I'm going to be awfully out of luck. I'll do this: To the one who manages to keep from buying the 1934 Linebook the longest I'll present a handsome leather medal with red plush edging and embossed in gold leaf. This magnificent offer is open to one and all and there is no time limit.

GEN. DAWES says the depression will be over in July. But he didn't give the date. Let's hope it ends on the Fourth so we can celebrate two great events at once, the Declaration of Independence and the End of the Depression.

STORM OVER THE CAMPO SANTO.

The skies unleash their thunder.
Men wince and tap their ears.
Within this place the Dead sleep on
Beyond the pall of fears.
Hushed is the gasp of longing,
Stifled the scream of pain.
Here human dread lies vanquished
Beneath the drumming rain.
Gone is the urge of living,
Silent the panting breath—
When lips have chilled to passiveness
Beneath the kiss of death.

What fear is there of danger,
When human life has fled?
Let Jupiter spit fire

AMEBIC DYSENTERY.

FOR more than a year considerable attention has been directed toward a particular type of parasite, the endameba histolytica, that may infest the human intestine. The infection within the United States has gone practically unrecognized until within recent years, although many cases were reported following the return of soldiers from the Philippines at the close of the Spanish-American war. A tropical disease in origin, it now flourishes in all parts of the world, and it has been stated by Kenneth Lynch that there are more than six million persons in the United States harboring the parasite. Most of these no doubt are carriers [that is, persons who harbor the endameba in the intestinal tract] who are possible sources of infection to others, but in whom the parasite causes few if any symptoms.

There are harmless ameba that are found in the mouths and intestinal tracts of many persons, but the disease producing type is quite characteristic and is identified by the presence of cysts within the organism. Under the microscope the ameba may be seen as a formless bit of jellylike substance that, when warm, has the power of locomotion.

Infection may come to man through polluted water, uncooked vegetables, food contaminated by flies, and from human carriers among food handlers. Unfortunately, as ordinarily used, chemical disinfection of water that will kill bacterial life is ineffective in destroying the endameba, hence the only positive way of rendering polluted water safe is by boiling. Although the endameba may be a relatively harmless dweller in the large bowel, it may under certain conditions become actually disease producing. The body may drop in resistance and bacterial infections in consequence may irritate the mucous lining of the bowel. Thus through the broken mucous surface the endameba may enter the intestinal wall.

The ordinary symptoms are those of a low grade infection accompanied by rather obscure but long continued intestinal disturbances. There are usually abdominal soreness, tenderness, and sometimes actual pain. Chronic diarrhea or a diarrhea of intermittent type should call attention not only to colitis but to the possible presence of endameba, and a careful examination of the stools, repeated at intervals, is the only satisfactory way of ruling out the presence of the parasite.

The disease is occasionally acute; that is, the patient may be attacked suddenly without a previous history of an intestinal upset. Later the bowel symptoms become chronic, with numerous stools containing mucus and blood. There is usually a mild fever attending the periodical attacks of diarrhea and the number of stools may vary from five to fifteen within 24 hours. Superficial or penetrating ulcers may develop in the colon and occasionally abscesses form in the liver. Some cases of appendicitis of amebic origin have been recognized.

There are, of course, all gradations in the severity of the infection, and patients may carry the endameba in the colon for months or even years without becoming ill enough to seek a physician. Gradually, however, there is a loss of weight and some anemia.

Fortunately an excellent form of treatment has been discovered. The drug emetine, derived from ipecac [ipecacuanha], has a specific destructive effect upon endameba. At the time that emetine is given the physician will usually advise some intestinal antiseptic to destroy the parasites that are free in the intestinal tract. Emetine is given over a period of ten to twelve days. Among other substances that have been found useful are chiniofon, vioform, and carbarsone. At the beginning of treatment no food is given for the first 24 to 48 hours. Carbohydrates are then slowly added for the next day or two, followed by proteins.

In spite of the fairly wide spread of amebic infections careful attention to symptoms and proper treatment will in most instances conquer the disease.

GROWTH ON EYE.

S. writes: There appears to be a small growth on each of my eyeballs where the cornea and white joins on the side next to my nose. There are blood veins running away from these growths to the corner of my eye. What is the cause of such a growth? Would there be danger of losing my sight if I were to have an operation to have them removed? Would proper glasses stop their growth?

REPLY.

The condition is called a pterygium. The probable cause is continued irritation by dust or other foreign particles. It is more common in persons who are exposed to cold weather. Sometimes injury to the cornea is a factor. There is no danger if the operation is performed by a skilled ophthalmologist. Wearing glasses would not stop the growth.

BLUSHES.

L. A. L. writes: 1. What is the cause of blushing?

2. Does it indicate an endocrine deficiency?

3. Is there any cure?

REPLY.

1. Dilatation of the blood vessels of the face that are under the control of the sympathetic nervous system.
2. Probably not.
3. The remedy lies in emotional control. This is a matter of practice and training.

NEURITIS.

C. J. writes: What can be done to cure or relieve neuritis?

REPLY.

A careful examination by a competent physician should be made to determine the cause. There may be an absorption of toxins from some infection. Heat and rest are the best remedies, after the source of the trouble has been remedied.

SHARE IN ESTATE.

Maywood, Ill., Dec. 5.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My uncle married a widow with two daughters. He had no children of his own. He died 27 years ago [1] leaving a large estate; now the widow died leaving a will dividing the estate between the two daughters and a nephew. My uncle raised this nephew as his son and relatives on both sides say he was adopted. The state records show no adoption and there is no record of my uncle's will ever having been probated. 2. Is my aunt's will valid? Can a will be thrown out by the Probate court in this case [3] because the real estate was never probated or [4] a will from the deceased uncle produced? 5. What is the state penalty for not probating real estate after death? 6. If my aunt's will is thrown out will the nephew my uncle raised share in his estate as a son? G. M.

1. If he left no will, or if he left a will in favor of his wife, she would get the estate.
2. We see no reason to doubt its validity as to assets which she owned at the time of her death.
3. This would not be a ground.
4. Same.
5. There is none.
6. No, assuming that he was not adopted.

DEPORTATION.

Evanston, Ill., Dec. 7.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—About the year 1896 a man landed in Hoboken, took shore leave, and never returned to his ship. One or two trunks containing curios were smuggled ashore by a steward who had been bribed. This man became a naturalized citizen. For about six years previous to landing here he was employed on ships making world tours. Is this a deportable offense? If so, can he at this late date be deported? To whom must one apply to have him deported? F. L.

The federal code [title 8, sections 137 G and 155] makes the following provisions as to the time limit, after entry, within which an alien may be deported:

Anarchists and persons advocating or belonging to organizations that advocate the violent overthrow of the government, no limit.

Other objectionables, including ordinary criminals, paupers, etc., five years.

Aliens, otherwise unobjectionable, who have entered irregularly, three years.

For further information apply to the district attorney's office in the United States courthouse.

LIMITATION PERIOD.

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 5.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I have been reading your column during my visit in Detroit. In April, 1925, a man gave me his note for money which he borrowed. He kept up the semi-annual payments of the interest regularly until October, 1930. He said the interest payments were the equivalent of a renewal of the note. Since that time he has paid no interest. 1. According to the Wisconsin laws, how much time elapses after the last interest payment before a note becomes outlawed? 2. Since I am a resident of Wisconsin. I am desirous to know the law in that state. C. L. T.

1. The Wisconsin limitation period is six years from the maturity date of the last payment or promise to pay.
2. This does not mean that Wisconsin law necessarily applies.

SUIT FOR DEBT.

Chicago, Dec. 6.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I am being sued in another state for a debt contracted in Chicago. Both parties live in Chicago. Is it legal to proceed in this manner? I cannot go there. A. J. P.

If you are not served with process in the other state and have no property there, and do not enter your appearance there, then no money judgment will be entered against you there which will be enforceable against you here. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

In spite of Emerson's delightful essay on "Compensation" there seems to be no evidence of such a thing in nature. If a drouth strikes a region one year there is no assurance of a compensating crop the following year. If I lose my eyesight, my hearing is not improved to atone for the loss. All naturalists have been aware of a finely adjusted "balance" in nature, but this is far different from "compensation."

"CHURCH AND STATE."

Chicago, Dec. 12.—As an active member of the church for many years, may I thank you for your editorial this morning, "Church and State"?

The pity is that your diagonsis is correct. There are far too many ministers who are spending much thought and energy in attempting to change our economic system and too little time in trying to change men's hearts. The few converts which these preachers make to either socialism or Christianity should convince them of the error of their ways.

However, as millions of church members will testify—and may I say this most emphatically?—the great majority of the clergy are still doing their level best at the real business of the church, which is to change the motive in human hearts.

The state and the church must be kept separate. The church should so Christianize its citizens that they will make a just and upright state.

Thank you again for your editorial.

A. C. CRAWFORD.

FROM A PULPIT SOCIALIST.

Crown Point, Ind., Dec. 11.—I feel I can reply to your editorial about "Church and State," as I am both a minister and a socialist.

I believe in the separation of church and state, but not in the separation of religion and politics. You think that statement over, for it means a whole lot. Under the guise of separation of church and state the influence of religion over the things of life has been stifled until religion [including Christianity] has become merely a preparation here for the hereafter. When a minister d[illegible] to go further than that some vested interest tells him to stick to the simple gospel. In other words he is told: "Don't say anything about anything practical. Just talk about things that have no value for us here in this life."

My dear sir, don't you realize that if religion is to amount to two hoots it must permeate and influence and control all of life? If it does not do that, then it is not worth having. How, then, can the church be quiet? Or ministers refrain from speaking?

The church must criticize men and measures regardless of where those men or those measures are. The church must point out the good and the bad. If she does not do that she is useless in the here and now. The robber will complain if the church condemns him because it interferes with his activity. The saloonkeeper [tavernkeeper] will say the church should preach the simple gospel and leave liquor alone; he will tend to that.

If the church is worth her salt she must criticize everything and everybody, pointing out the good and the evil. If she fails to do that she fails her Master and her mission, and should be cast out and trodden under the feet of men.

Christianity is a revealed religion. It is the duty of the church to interpret that religion and apply its ethics to all activities of life, whether family, political, industrial, or business life. If you deny that is the business of the church then you denude the church of all practical value and make it merely the opium of the people, as it encourages them to put up with anything here, for they will be rewarded in the hereafter.

You are narrow and bigoted in your stand.

You do not question the right of a newspaper, conducted for private profit, to influence people's thinking, but you question the right of the church to speak from an ethical and summum bonum viewpoint.

For shame! All you really mean is that the church should not lift her voice in defending righteousness and justice, but permit a plundering system to go unrebuked! The church, according to you, should tell people not to worry here, for they will be rewarded hereafter! Shame on you!

REV. H. OSCAR STEVENS.

IT WAS ON PAGE ONE.

Park Ridge, Ill., Dec. 6.—Why does the sensational always receive preëminence in the headlines? The headline in this morning's TRIBUNE was "Reds Kill 66; Avenge Leader." Why not give importance to the article in the first column with the small headline, "No Substitute for Capitalism, Moley Asserts"? This is of more significance than killings in Russia. ARTHUR P. ANDERSON.

THE PLIGHT OF THE RAILROADS.

Theodore, Ala., Dec. 5.—The present plight of the railroads is due to two false assumptions. The railroad managers were paid big salaries on the assumption that they were able men and it was assumed that they were able men because they drew big salaries. The line of great railroad men became extinct with the deaths of Jim Hill and C. H. Markham. ANSON W. PRESCOTT.

THE TRACTION STALEMATE.

Chicago, Dec. 9.—Your editorial, "A Street Car System Revived," which appeared in your edition of Dec. 8, was good. Here's hoping you keep the good work up and wake up our public officials to the fact the 20 million dollars lying idle in the banks could be put to good work, helping to decrease unemployment and at the same time beautify our streets with better appearing and more comfortable riding street cars.

MURDER THEORY IN TULSA DEATH IS STRENGTHENED

Man Seen Leaving Born's Auto Is Sought.

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Tulsa, Okla., Dec. 13.—[Special.]—As county authorities tried to tie together the threads of juvenile crime and intrigue brought to light here within the last two weeks, the murder theory in the death of Sidney Born Jr., scion of a prominent Tulsa family, was strengthened today. Sherif Charles Price announced that he was searching for a man reported to have been seen leaving Born's automobile shortly before the youth was found fatally wounded last Sunday in the exclusive south side residential district.

The city police were quick to record Born's death as a suicide but throughout this oil capital, held in a virtual reign of terror since the killing of John F. Gorrell Jr., Thanksgiving night, the feeling has persisted that Born, too, was slain.

Slaying Is Admitted.

Philip Kennamer, 19 year old son of Federal Judge Franklin E. Kennamer, has confessed to killing his friend, Gorrell, who was the son of a Tulsa physician and was a student at a Kansas City dental college.

Kennamer in his sensational story of the killing given out yesterday insisted that Born was murdered to prevent him from substantiating Kennamer's plea of self-defense.

Born had driven the judge's son to meet Gorrell.

"We are still convinced Born was murdered," Sherif Price declared today. "We heard from two people that they saw a man leave Born's car and crouch in the woods nearby. These people can identify the man if we find him."

The scope of the investigation was widening today with the possibility that, several more of the heirs of the city's first families will be involved. Kennamer yesterday gave Sherif Price the names of three of his former associates, whom, he said, "might have had something to do with the murder of Born."

Two Other Youths Involved.

The extortion plot against Virginia Wilcox, beautiful daughter of Homer Wilcox, millionaire oil man, which Kennamer said he entered to save the girl, involved two other youths today.

They are Pat Burgess, a reporter for a Tulsa morning newspaper, and Preston Cochran, former employé of the paper and son of a wealthy attorney for the Sinclair Oil company. Kennamer said the two youths had talked with Gorrell about the extortion plot, originally planned as an airplane kidnaping, but had never gone into it. Gorrell originated the plot against the Wilcox girl, Kennamer asserted, and might have carried it out but for the latter's intervention.

Burgess explained that he had looked into the extortion plot from a news viewpoint but had dismissed it as highly improbable and the product of overimaginative minds. He said that after the death of Gorrell he and Cochran turned over their information to the city police. This was confirmed by Detective Sergeant Henry B. Maddux.

The persistent rumor that obscene photographs of Tulsa boys and girls were the weapons by which Kennamer and his friends planned a huge blackmail plot against prominent families was discussed for the first time today by Sherif Price.

"There are no actual photographs in existence," the sherif stated, "but it has been established that composite pictures were made. By this I mean that portraits of the heads of some girls and boys were placed on lewd pictures of other people. I don't know where the pictures are or who has them, or even who composed them."

PULLMAN STOCK LEFT OFF STATE 1932 TAX ROLLS

Commission Acts to Get Back Assessment.

Members of the state tax commission announced yesterday a recent survey of their records had disclosed that the capital stock of the Pullman company had not been assessed for tax purposes for the year 1932. The omission of the assessment, annually one of the largest in the state, has cost Illinois the use of approximately $300,000 in tax revenue since the 1932 tax levy was put into collection.

The three commissioners, Scott W. Lucas, Barnet Hodes, and Simeon E. Leland, accompanied their announcement with assurances that this revenue was not finally lost to the state. They asserted that a back assessment of the company's capital stock was made as soon as the discovery was brought to their attention. The back assessment now is in the process of collection.

Attorney General Is Notified.

Meanwhile the commission has informed Attorney General Otto Kerner of the facts. A letter, outlining the complete record, was dispatched by the commission to the attorney general last evening.

The state tax commission, consisting of three members, was created in the latter months of 1932. It superseded the old state board of equalization consisting of five members which had made assessments prior to and including the year 1932. The new commission began to function with the 1933 assessments.

According to the statement issued yesterday the new commission when taking over its duties examined the assessment records of the equalization board for several years back. It was during this examination that the members discovered the Pullman company capital stock had not been appraised for 1932.

Old Board Members Questioned.

An investigation was made and several members of the old equalization board which in 1932 consisted of Omer Custer of Galesburg, chairman; Alvin C. Margrave of Cairo, David Kinley of Urbana, president emeritus of the University of Illinois, and Charles Krutckoff and Charles Ringer, both of Chicago, were questioned.

The tax commissioners were told that the old board had been informed that the Pullman company had revised its charter so that it had become a Delaware corporation and as such its capital stock was not assessable in Illinois.

The tax commissioners found, however, that the Pullman company has always been an Illinois corporation. Furthermore, they discovered that the equalization board had assessed the capital stock of the company at $3,750,000 for 1931.

Company Takes Appeal to Court.

The back assessment valued the company's stock for 1932 at $4,400,479. While not contesting the commission's right to make the assessment, the company has protested the amount and has taken an appeal, which is now pending in the Circuit court.

Mr. Custer said yesterday in Galesburg he had no recollection of the circumstances of the 1932 assessment. He said he could hardly believe that it would have been possible to "pass over the company."

Mr. Krutckoff said: "If I remember rightly the secretary of state notified the tax commission the Pullman company had changed its charter."

DIES OF INJURIES IN A FALL.

Charles W. Thums, 58 years old, died in his home at 1627 Elmwood avenue, Wilmette, yesterday of complications arising from a broken hip incurred in a fall five weeks ago.

IF YOUR BREATH HAS A SMELL YOU CAN'T FEEL WELL

When we eat too much, our food decays in our bowels. Our friends smell this decay coming out of our mouth and call it bad breath. We feel the poison of this decay all over our body. It makes us gloomy, grouchy and no good for anything.

What makes the food decay in the bowels? Well, when we eat too much, our bile juice can't digest it. What is the bile juice? It is the most vital digestive juice in our body. Unless 2 pints of it are flowing from our liver into our bowels every day, our movements get hard and constipated and ¾ of our food decays in our 28 feet of bowels. This decay sends poison all over our body every 6 minutes.

When our friends smell our bad breath (but we don't) and we feel like a whipped tomcat, don't use a mouthwash or take a laxative. Get at the cause. Take Carter's Little Liver Pills which gently start the flow of your bile juice. But if "something better" is offered you, don't buy it, for it may be a calomel (mercury) pill, which loosens teeth, gripes and scalds the rectum in many people. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name and get what you ask for—25c. © 1934, C.M.Co.

BRITISH TROOPS LAND IN FRANCE ON WAY TO SAAR

War Scenes Repeated by Plebiscite "Police."

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

CALAIS, France, Dec. 13.—Scenes reminiscent of the first days of August, 1914, were enacted at this channel port today when the first detachment of English troops disembarked on the way to police the Saar during the Jan. 13 plebiscite.

As at the beginning of the war the first load was materials—400 tons—and the detachment simply organized a base in preparation for the 1,500 others expected here by Dec. 21.

The population again learned that British soldiers are familiarly called "Tommies," and greeted them with the enthusiasm of 20 years ago. The young Britishers, successors of the "old contemptibles," displayed the same yokel amazement as their predecessors at finding themselves in a foreign country.

Landing Continues Next Week.

The landing operations will continue all next week. The men will include the 13th infantry brigade, the 1st battalion of Essexshire, the 1st battalion of Lancashire, and detachments of medical and signal corps specialists besides 120 army trucks and eight heavy tanks.

Another reminiscence of war days was the commanding officer, Maj. Gen. John Edward Spencer Brind, who had a distinguished career in the colonies—the India campaigns and the Boer war—but unlike the British officers in 1914, he actually has had continental experience, acquired in the last war.

He will command the entire force of Saar plebiscite police, which besides the British includes 1,300 Italians, and 250 each of Swedes and Hollanders.

Diplomatic Immunity.

The Saar commission has announced that both officers and men of this "army" will enjoy a sort of diplomatic immunity. Cases of conflict with the civilian population will not be tried in the local courts, but before a high international court of the Saar territory sitting at Sarre Louis.

The Swedes and Hollanders already are reported under way and the Italians are recruiting their force from picked members of the Black Shirts' shock battalions. They are giving preference to candidates who speak a little German, but refuse to accept soldiers of Germanic origin from upper Venetia and south Tyrol, the territory taken from Austria and given to Italy by the Versailles treaty.

Act to Assure Fair Vote.

SAARBRUECKEN, Dec. 13.—(AP)—The Saar plebiscite commission of the league of nations acted today to assure fair balloting in next month's vote to determine whether the territory is to return to Germany, remain under the league or become French.

Regulations issued by the commission require that each voter register and seal his vote alone in a voting booth, and personally hand his ballot to the chairman of the voting commission, who will place it in the urn.

The contents of district urns subsequently will be brought here by neutral officials and counted by neutral tellers under supervision of the commission. The voting papers later will be sent to the league of nations.

Bar Disclosure of Vote.

Voters are forbidden to disclose in the polling places how they vote. A penalty of three months to three years in prison is provided for any one attempting by force, threats, or bribes to discover how any person has voted. If such an attempt should be made by a group the regulations provide that each person involved shall be subject to at least one year in prison.

Regarded weeks ago as involving a crisis of grave importance, the plebiscite's dangerous implications have been considerably liquidated by recent events. Tension between France and Germany because each accused the other of attempts to influence the result of the voting eased suddenly on Dec. 5. France announced it had no desire to send troops into the territory to maintain order prior to and during the plebiscite, and the two nations signed an accord providing for the future of the territory in the event it should choose German sovereignty.

Germany also agreed to pay France approximately $59,400,000 and 11,000,000 tons of coal for title to the Saar mines. It also guaranteed equal rights to all inhabitants of the territory regardless of race, language, or religion.

Legacy of Treaty.

The Saar problem is a legacy of the treaty of Versailles. A clash between France's desire to extend its frontier to the left bank of the Rhine and Germany's determination not to give up the productive industrial area, with its population of 650,000 Germans, resulted in compromise.

The territory, of 751 square miles, was placed under league of nations control for fifteen years, with provisions for the plebiscite at the end of that time.

Residents of the area prior to 1919 are authorized to participate in the voting. Approximately 500,000 residents out of a population of 800,000 are eligible to cast ballots Jan. 13.

During the time the territory has been under league control France has held the right to exploit its mines in recompense for destruction of the mines of northern France in the world war.

AUSTRIAN POLICE RAID NAZIS; STOLEN FOREIGN OFFICE PAPERS FOUND

VIENNA, Dec. 13.—(AP)—Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg's government, grimly arming against the next revolution, lashed out again today at its Nazi foes.

A secret Nazi propaganda office, raided by police, yielded copies of various documents stolen from the foreign office. Two men were arrested.

Earlier the arrest of three officials of the foreign office was announced, and authorities said they were convinced these officials were supplying the Nazis with secret information as to the government's elaborate security measures.

The semi-official newspaper Reichspost said the trio jailed had sold highly important state documents to enemies of the Schuschnigg régime.

Chancellor Schuschnigg departed by train today for Budapest, capital of Hungary for conversations on the question of rearmament and close military and political coöperation with Italy.

LITHS ACCUSE 126 NAZIS OF PLOT TO SEIZE MEMEL

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

KAUNAS, Lithuania, Dec. 13.—Sensational charges of a plot to transfer the Memel territory from Lithuania to Germany by armed force will be revealed in the mass trial beginning here tomorrow before a court martial of 126 Nazis, including several former German ojcers.

All the accused are liable under martial law to sentence of death. They belong, it is alleged, to two rival secret Nazi organizations affiliated with the Nazi party in Germany.

In addition to the charge of preparing to seize Memel, which was handed over to Lithuania in 1923 by the league of nations, they will be charged with terrorism against "traitors." According to the indictment Memel storm detachments carried out secret military exercises including trench digging, anti-Lithuanian meetings, and the distribution of Nazi literature.

GERMAN CABINET TIGHTENS NAZI GRIP ON STATE

Enacts 12 Measures in Year's Last Session.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Dec. 13.—Twelve new laws were decreed today by the German cabinet, presided over by Chancellor Hitler in its last session of the year.

One measure provides prison terms of from three months to two years for those who "harm the state, its leaders, or the standing of the National Socialist party and its affiliations."

Penalty Increased.

Another increases the penalty for persons committing serious crimes against the state while wearing the Nazi uniform to life imprisonment or death. A third law prescribes rules for maintenance of order and discipline in the voluntary labor service.

Compensation may be awarded to "old fighters" of the Nazi party for exceptional losses sustained by them before Aug. 2, 1934, and which "healthy public opinion cannot expect them to bear alone," according to another decree.

One of several new financial measures regulates the movement of capital so as to help thaw out frozen credits. A ban on opening new shops in certain branches of retail trade also will be enforced. This is designed to give the government "an opportunity to test the personal "reliability" of persons seeking to open new shops.

Churches Threatened.

Paul Joseph Goebbels, minister of propaganda, meanwhile reiterated the threat of Wilhelm Frick, minister of interior, to cut off state support in collecting taxes for churches.

"The state has no money to maintain churches," Goebbels said at Trier today. "If the Protestant church wishes to maintain 28 state churches it can do so itself. The Lord helps those who help themselves. The Nazi slogan is pray and work."

Wilhelm Furtwaengler, famed opera conductor, who was recently dismissed from his post because he objected to Nazi regimentation of art, has promised the Nazis to refuse all offers to conduct in America or elsewhere for one year. Only after this pledge was made in addition to a written statement of his loyalty to the Nazi state would the government grant Furtwaengler a passport.

One Nation, One Newspaper.

The slogan of the official newspaper, Voelkischer Beobachter, "one fuehrer, one nation, one newspaper," was brought a step nearer today. It was announced that the Voelkischer will take over Der Deutsche, organ of the German Labor front, on Jan. 1. The Deutsche Zeitung, former Nationalist party organ, will also stop publication on that date.

German university students who fail to attain a prescribed grade in athletics henceforth will not be permitted to continue their studies beyond the third term, it was announced today. Exceptionas may be granted in cases of physical incapacity.

FIRST GROUP OF SAAR LANDERS TO LEAVE TODAY

The vanguard of German-born Chicagoans who will return to their former homes in the Saar district to vote in the plebiscite Jan. 13 to determine the status of that territory will leave today. Approximately 100 men and women, with a few children, will comprise the party which will leave at 9:45 o'clock on the Nickel Plate railroad from the La Salle street station. A second contingent will leave Christmas day and a third on Jan. 3.

WOMAN SEEKING SUPPORT MONEY GETS A DIVORCE

Superior Judge Joseph B. David granted a divorce yesterday in a case where only separate maintenance had been asked.

Mrs. Theresa Graham, 50 years old, 4819 Henderson street, had asked separate maintenance from her husband, Roy, 51 years old, a policeman at the Irving Park station. She accused him of intimacy with another woman. Judge David told her he would give her a divorce if she would amend her bill.

"But then he'll marry that other woman," Mrs. Graham protested.

"That's no excuse," the judge said, leaping to his feet. "He has a right to remarry. I'm opposed to support suits except in special instances. I'll fix this." He turned to the court reporter and dictated a divorce bill for Mrs. Graham, allowing $100 attorney's fees and $15 a week alimony for the support of the Grahams' daughter, Theresa, 7 years old.

Attorney Thaddeus R. Diadul for Graham and Attorney Edwin Podewell for Mrs. Graham protested against the terms of the bill, but to no avail. Judge David ordered the courtroom cleared and court adjourned.

WAR STILL LOOMS IN BALKANS; FOES FAR FROM CALM

League Peace Plan Fails to Satisfy Opponents.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Dec. 13.—Is war still around the corner?

Those who are pulling the strings of destiny in central Europe fear that it is. They believe the league of nations' council's resolution, aimed to relieve the tension between Hungary and Jugo-Slavia, has postponed but not prevented the eventual outbreak.

Neither Budapest nor Belgrade is satisfied with the league's resolution, contact with both the capitals during the last two days has revealed. The governments of both countries on the surface assert they are pleased with the outcome. Nevertheless, Budapest believes Hungary has been humiliated by the resolution, which indirectly accuses her. At the same time Jugo-Slav radical elements are furious that more drastic accusations were not launched against Hungary and they are seeking to exploit the situation against the more moderate elements of the Jugo-Slav government.

[The resolution of the league of nations' council insisted that all responsible for the assassinations of King Alexander of Jugo-Slavia and Foreign Minister Louis Barthou of France be punished. Hungary in diplomatic language was requested to take "punitive action against any authorities whose culpabilities have been established" and report to the council the measures which it takes to this effect.]

Call Situation "Precarious."

Close observers in central Europe contend that the situation is extremely precarious. They see the league's action as only a specious solution which has not settled the difficulty nor quenched the fires that are ready to flame up at any time along the frontier of Jugo-Slavia and Hungary.

Three developments, reported to be shaping themselves in Jugo-Slavia, are looked forward to here with fear.

First of all is the anticipation that internal dissension in the Belgrade government will lead to a cabinet crisis before another week with Gen. Pera Zivkovich, the minister of war and fire eater in the present cabinet, and other generals getting the upper hand over moderate elements represented by Prince Paul, head of the regency, and Foreign Minister Bogoljub Jevtich.

Gen. Zivkovich is smarting under what he feels to be a slight at not having been named a regent by the late King Alexander. It is an open secret in Belgrade that the foreign ministry and the ministry of interior are at outs over last week's expulsions of Hungarians, the foreign ministry having tried to prevent the forced exodus. Some declare the expulsions were engineered by Gen. Zivkovich, the minister of interior, and a clique of generals to embarrass Jevtich.

Fear Mass Migration.

The second development comes from reports that while the expulsions of Hungarians from Jugo-Slavia have stopped at the specific orders of Prince Paul and under pressure of Great Britain, the government nevertheless is about to order a mass migration of 20,000 Hungarians living in Voivodina province on the border of Hungary to southern Jugo-Slavia in Macedonia. It is further reported the Hungarians will be isolated and far removed from contact with their friends across the Hungarian border.

The third pending event from which developments are expected is the fact that every man in Jugo-Slavia between the ages of 18 and 55 has been summoned to report to the mayor of his commune or district on Dec. 16 and swear allegiance to King Peter II., the boy monarch. There is some question as to whether non-Slavs and those elements opposed to Serbian dictatorship accede to this peacefully. This move also is looked upon in Hungary as a sort of mobilization of Jugo-Slav man power and as a test of her strength.

Fears that trouble between the two countries may be only briefly postponed also arise from the fact that the Jugo-Slavs may strike at Hungary later on if they do not consider the investigations Hungary has been requested to make regarding the complicity of its officials with Croat plotters have been effectively conducted.

"Whitewashing" Is Expected.

In the inner circles of central Europe it is regraded as certain that Hungary will not find her officials have done anything amiss and will give them a complete whitewashing. In that case the Jugo-Slav generals may decide to "deal directly" with Hungary.

With no one satisfied, tempers are becoming more bitter and hatreds are running deeper along the frontier. In Budapest they say that the reason Hungary accepted the Geneva resolution was because the big powers told her she would be responsible for another world war if she did not.

Meanwhile, the incident over the expulsion of Hungarians seems on the way to liquidation. There appears no doubt here that the Hungarian foreign office exploited these deportations and highly exaggerated them. At the same time Belgrade admits the deportations were purely for revenge and retaliatory.

The important part is, however, that no physical distress was suffered by any of the deportees, and 600 of them viewed here today appeared to be in a comfortable condition.

The expelled Hungarians will receive indemnity for the property they left behind in Jugo-Slavia. The amount of the indemnity is estimated at 25,000,000 pengoes [about $7,500,000].

A. C. READ JR., FRIEND OF CLAIRE WINDSOR, WORKS IN DIME STORE

Oakland, Cal., Dec. 13.—(AP)—Albert C. Read Jr., for whose affections a Los Angeles jury once assessed movie actress Claire Windsor $75,000, was working in a 5 and 10 cent store today.

The former broker's one time wife, Mrs. Marion Read, sued Miss Windsor for $100,000 for loss of Read's affections and the jury gave her $75,000, which later was compromised out of court.

Mrs. Read sought today to bring Read to court to explain why he was not supporting his two minor children, but the case was continued to Dec. 27 when it was shown Read had a job in the 5-and-10.

NRA BOARD HEAD SEES PRICE RULE ATTEMPT AT END

Williams Gives Forecast of New Legislation.

CALLS OFF LABOR TRUCE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 13.—[Special.]—1resident Roosevelt's proposal for an industrial truce in the interest of business recovery was scrapped today.

Francis Biddle, chairman of the National Labor Relations board, after a conference with the President, practically invited organized labor to ignore the truce and to strike at any time against any employer who is believed to be denying labor its collective bargaining rights under the NRA.

That Biddle should take it upon himself to interpret the President's industrial truce plan immediately after a White House conference was regarded here as proof that Mr. Roosevelt had approved or even prompted the labor board chairman's utterance scrapping the peace plan.

Upholds NRA Labor Elections.

"It is unfair and un-American to ask labor not to strike when employers are breaking the law by refusing labor elections," Biddle declared.

Reviewing the enactment of the NIRA and especially the passage of section 7A guaranteeing collective bargaining, Biddle said the NIRA exempted industries from the anti-monopoly restrictions of the anti-trust laws. Therefore, he explained, it was felt wise to balance this new power for industry with a specific collective bargaining power for labor.

"Then comes the time when the President asks for an industrial truce, because we are all in the same boat and pulling for better times," Biddle continued. "That request is fair if—and only if—the employers obey the law. It is unfair and un-American to ask labor not to strike when employers are breaking the law by refusing elections."

Applies Specially to Rubber.

His remarks, Chairman Biddle said, had a special meaning for the rubber industry. The Goodrich and Firestone Tire companies have refused to abide by a labor board decision calling for an election of collective bargaining representatives by their workers. The companies have secured a temporary injunction blocking the board's proposed election.

"That is an exact example of what I said about employers' attitude," Biddle said, referring to the Firestone and Goodrich cases. "They have refused labor the right to elect under our board the representatives they want."

The labor board chairman's statement was interpreted as a practical invitation to labor to strike against the tire companies or against any other company that, in the view of labor, is not living up to the obligations of the NIRA. His statement is viewed as ending the industrial truce proposal.

Labor Cool to Truce.

Since the President in a radio talk late in September proposed his industrial truce, organized labor has been cool to it, refraining from any open adherence to the White House plan. The President is believed to have instructed Biddle today to junk a proposal which the White House had found increasingly embarrassing to have around. Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins also attended the White House conference which preceded Biddle's statement.

Biddle also disclosed that his board is making a survey of the work done by all independent labor boards, including those labor boards which industries themselves set up under their codes.

Six More Concerns Tangled in State Tyranny Law Web

Six more cases were turned over to state's attorneys in Illinois yesterday for criminal or equity proceedings under the Illinois NRA law. Since this act, sometimes called the "tyranny law," was pushed through the legislature by a slight majority, only eleven cases have been brought under it, including the six. Each case requires the personal approval of the attorney general.

"We have every reason to believe that state officials will bring these cases to court speedily," said Frederic L. Roberts, acting state NRA compliance director. "It has always been the policy of the NRA to attempt to secure compliance with the codes without resorting to courts. However, we have repeatedly announced that willful violators who show no disposition to comply will be brought before the courts with the request that the penalties of state and federal law be imposed."

Four Chicago Cases.

Four of the new cases are against Chicago retail concerns, while the remaining two are against the Modern Chevrolet Sales, Inc., of Beardstown, and Dallas McElroy, doing business as the Pana Motor Sales company in Pana. Both are accused of giving excessive trade-in allowances.

The four Chicago cases were turned over to State's Attorney Courtney. The first is against the Northwestern Engraving company, 720 South Dearborn street, for alleged underpayment of wages under the photo engraving code. An official of the company asserted that the controversy centered on the wages to be allowed an apprentice who claimed he had sufficient experience to qualify for higher pay under the code.

Philip N. Shapiro, secretary of the Progressive Printing and Calendar company, 207 South Green street, admitted violation of wage provisions of the graphic arts code, but said:

"If we are forced to pay NRA wages, we will have to close our doors, throwing 30 persons out of work. Morris Shapiro, president of the company, hasn't drawn a cent in salary. We are hard pressed by creditors on every side, and it is unfair to take the code matter into court."

Calls Burden Too Heavy.

Another printer, A. J. Petrando, manager of the Parkway Press, Inc., 2839 North Halsted street, admitted the charge of violating wage provisions.

"I couldn't stay in business under present conditions if I had to pay our printers the code wages," Petrando said. "I would have to go on relief if I tried to comply. But all my employés are satisfied to work here under existing conditions."

The Viviano Macaroni Manufacturing corporation, 2328 South Western avenue, was charged with misbranding, mislabeling, selling sub-standard goods, and selling below the prices they filed with the code authority. At the company's office yesterday it was said no one was present who could speak for the company.

CHICAGOAN MADE "NO. 3 MAN" IN A REVAMPED NRA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 13.—[Special.]—A Chicagoan today became the "No. 3 man" in the NRA.

D. M. Nelson, vice president of Sears, Roebuck & Co. was promoted to the newly created post of code administration director. In this capacity he will outrank all other NRA officials except S. Clay Williams, chairman of the National Industrial Recovery board, and W. A. Harriman, administrative officer.

For some time Mr. Nelson has been serving as assistant to Chairman Williams. In the position of code administrator Mr. Nelson will be "head man" over all NRA deputy administrators. Actual code administration for each industry is in the hands of these deputies, but Mr. Nelson is charged with coördinating and supervising their work.

In addition Mr. Nelson will initiate and pass upon code revisions. Another one of his tasks will be to speed up the mechanism of code administration, pruning out those trade practices provisions of codes which are cumbersome or unworkable.

NRA VIOLATOR IS FINED $1,500; CASE APPEALED

Harrisburg, Pa., Dec. 13.—(AP)—Fred C. Perkins, York, Pa., battery manufacturer, today was fined $1,500 for failing to pay the minimum "Blue Eagle" wage in his plant. The maximum penalty is $5,000.

Appearing in federal court where he was convicted last week, Perkins withdrew a motion for a new trial in order to speed a test of the constitutionality of the NRA.

Harold B. Beitler, chief defense counsel, filed notice of an appeal to the United States circuit court of appeals in Philadelphia and Judge Albert L. Watson fixed Perkins' bail at $2,000, pending a decision of the appeal.

The case came up today for arguments on the defense motion for a new trial. Beitler stepped before the court.

"I withdraw the motion for a new trial," he said, "because only one point is involved in this case—the constitutionality of the act and we are ready to take an appeal immediately to the Circuit court."

Roosevelt Transfers Two Latin-American Ministers

Washington, D. C., Dec. 13.—(AP)—President Roosevelt today appointed Antonio C. Gonzalez of New York as minister to Ecuador and George T. Summerlin of Louisiana as minister to Panama. Gonzales has been minister to Panama and Summerlin minister to Venezuela.

FIND FOOD BEING WASTED IN N. Y. AS POOR STARVE

Blame Red Tape for Bad Relief Distribution.

New York, Dec. 13.—[Special.—Red tape and inefficiency was blamed today for delay and terrific wastage of supplies for New York relief clients.

The lack of coöperation and the shifting of responsibility between the department of public welfare of the city and the TERA, a state agency, has resulted in the freezing of enough potatoes to feed the entire population of the city for a day—1,400,000 pounds—and the flooding of the city with 9,000,000 pounds of cabbage, 11,000,000 pounds of veal, and 5,000,000 cans of roast beef, little of which is reaching the poor for whom it was intended.

Shipped by U. S. to TERA.

The foodstuffs were shipped to the TERA by the FERA, the federal organization. The TERA is a state body, creature of the FERA, and coöperating with it. Alfred H. Schoellkopf is its chief.

The impasse in the distribution of the vast quantities of food was discovered by the aldermanic investigating committee, and the facts so shocked Aldermanic President Bernard S. Deutsch that, head in hands, he shouted disgustedly, "This investigation has only just started!"

"Don't you think it's an outrage?" cried the aldermanic president. "With millions crying for food, there's no distribution."

The climax of the disclosures came when Carl Anderson, head of the food and clothing division of the department of public welfare, revealed that the TERA was shipping such quantities of food into the city for distribution to the poor that he "refused to inspec it" and refused to take responsibility for its storage or distribution as it was "not my property."

Tells Story of Cabbage.

Anderson related how the TERA had asked him whether he could use any cabbage. He ordered 300,000 pounds. Later, he received word that 388 carloads—9,000,000 pounds, enough to provide each resident of the city with a cabbage and a half—were en route.

Because TERA rules forbid the processing of cabbage into sauerkraut, most of the cabbages may go to waste because the city has no place to store them. Its warehouses are jammed with food, most of it unmoved.

With bread lines all over the city, there is 11,000,000 pounds of frozen veal stored in the Bronx Terminal market and unused because the city lacks the heavy machinery to cut it. Machines had been ordered, Carl W. Kimball, deputy commissioner of markets, reported, but when they arrived they were not heavy enough to cut the frozen veal. A delay of several weeks may be lengthened while other machines are ordered.

HOLD SCHOOLGIRL IN KNIFING.

Ruth Bankhead, 16 years old, of 6624 St. Lawrence avenue, colored, a pupil at the Englewood High school, was held by juvenile authorities yesterday after she had cut two other colored girls with a knife during a quarrel in the lunchroom of the school.

MRS. MATHILDA STEIGER MARKS 107TH BIRTHDAY

Mrs. Mathilda Steiger of Park Ridge observed her 107th birthday yesterday in the home of her daughter, Mrs. Bertha Deering, 104 North Chester avenue. Because of Mrs. Steiger's infirmity there was no public celebration, such as has often been accorded her in the past.

Mrs. Steiger was born in Germany. She came to this country in 1888. Her husband died in 1912. Besides Mrs. Deering, Mrs. Steiger has two other daughters, Mrs. Herbert Schuneman and Mrs. Augusta Bischoff, twelve grandchildren, thirty great-grandchildren, and four great-great-grandchildren.

WATCH KIDNEYS SAME AS BOWELS
Wash Out Your 79,200 Feet of Kidney Tubes

Your bowels contain only 27 feet of intestine, yet the kidneys contain nearly 10 million tiny tubes or filters which would measure 79,200 feet if laid end to end. Therefore, it is just as important to watch the kidneys as the bowels. Kidneys are working all the time and are Nature's chief way of taking the acids and poisonous waste out of the blood.

Healthy persons pass 3 pints a day through the bladder which contains nearly 4 pounds of waste matter. If you pass less than this amount, your 79,200 feet of kidney tubes may be clogged with poisonous waste. This is the danger signal and may be the beginning of nagging backache, leg pains, loss of pep and vitality, getting up nights, lumbago, swollen feet and ankles, rheumatic pains and dizziness.

Kidneys should be watched closely and need cleaning out the same as bowels. Ask your druggist for DOAN'S PILLS, an old prescription, which has been used successfully by millions of kidney sufferers for over 40 years. They give quick relief and will help to wash out your 79,200 feet of kidney tubes.

But don't take chances with strong drugs and so-called "kidney cures" which claim to fix you up in 15 minutes. Your common sense will tell you that this is impossible. Treatments of this nature may seriously injure and irritate delicate tissues. Insist on DOAN'S PILLS, the old reliable relief that contains no "dope" or habit-forming drugs. Be sure you get DOAN'S PILLS at your druggist.

AGENCY SET UP TO REHABILITATE RURAL FAMILIES

Transplanting Project to Involve 1,500 Acres.

Formation of the Illinois Rural Rehabilitation corporation to carry out, along with other plans, the program of transplanting farmers from submarginal lands to areas where they may be able to support themselves, was announced yesterday by the Illinois Emergency Relief commission.

The federal program for rural relief families tends toward measures designed to make them self-supporting. Since capital loans are to be made with provision for repayment, state relief administrations were instructed to create corporations to handle the transactions.

Incorporation Papers Issued.

A certificate of incorporation for the Illinois organization has been issued by the secretary of state. Incorporators, as required by orders from Washington, are Howard O. Hunter, regional representative of the Federal Emergency Relief administration; Wilfred S. Reynolds, executive secretary of the state relief commission; and C. H. Humphrey, director of rural rehabilitation in this state.

The transplanting project, which is regarded as being experimental to a greater degree than any of the other plans, involves 100 farm families occupying hill farms in the southern part of the state.

It is proposed to move these families to bottomland plots with a total area of 1,500 acres, or 15 acres per family, although at present they occupy a total of about 15,000 acres.

Cost Set at $180,000.

The cost of the new land and improvements is estimated at $180,000. Further expenditures will be made to reclaim the abandoned hill farms by reforestation, and erosion protective works. Some of the land will be used for grazing.

At an organization meeting of the new rehabilitation corporation yesterday, the board of ten directors appointed Mr. Humphrey as secretary and E. A. Schroeder as treasurer. The board also elected an executive committee consisting of Dean H. W. Mumford of the University of Illinois college of agriculture; Walter W. McLaughlin, director of the state department of agriculture; and L. R. Schoenmann, regional director of the land policy section of the Agricultural Adjustment administration.

Mr. Reynolds was elected temporary president of the corporation to serve until a permanent executive is chosen.

MORTGAGE TEST CASE HEARING IS SCHEDULED DEC. 27

Circuit Judge Stanley H. Klarkowski yesterday set for Dec. 27 a full hearing on the mortgage foreclosure case in which County Treasurer Sweitzer and Mortimer Flynn, owner of the property covered by the mortgage, are contending that the University of Chicago has no right to foreclose because it has never paid personal property taxes on the mortgage.

The case is regarded as important because a favorable decision may make it possible to schedule for personal property taxation all the mortgages in foreclosure in Cook county courts. L. Dow Nichols Jr., attorney for the university, yesterday entered a motion to dismiss the county treasurer as a defendant.

Mr. Nichols also charged to Judge Klarkowski that a newspaperman had informed university authorities that if the university promised not to obtain a deficiency judgment against Flynn in the foreclosure, Treasurer Sweitzer and the state's attorney's office, which represents him, would drop the personal property tax action.

"No newspaperman would be foolish enough to do that," replied Assistant State's Attorney William Crilly. "Furthermore, no one can speak for the state's attorney's office in that manner."

PRESIDENT AND AIDS CONFER ON BUDGET; RELIEF ONE PROBLEM

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 13.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt today settled down to the serious business of determining just how much money the New Deal will spend for relief and public works during this winter and during the next fiscal year.

Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau, Budget Director Daniel W. Bell, Public Works Administrator Harold L. Ickes, Relief Administrator Harry L. Hopkins, and Thomas MacDonald, chief of the public works bureau, were summoned to the White House as the conferences began.

Stephen T. Early, secretary to the President, described today's conference as the first of a series to "build up the budget."

The budget bureau under Bell, however, has already completed the routine department's budget, and Early's statement was taken to mean that the President in the course of his budget making has finally come to grips with the crucial emergency section of the budget. The presence of Ickes and Hopkins at the conference gave weight to this interpretation.

President Roosevelt must lay his budget before congress on Jan. 4 or 5.

Revenues are said to be estimated at approximately 3 billion 500 million dollars for the 1935-'36 year. The routine expenditures are said to total between 2 billion 700 million and 3 billion 500 million.

If Secretary Ickes is granted his request for between 3 and 5 billions a year for public works, the total emergency and routine expenditures in the President's bulget will aggregate between 8 and 10 billions.

MORE FAMILIES ON RELIEF ROLLS SINCE OCTOBER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 13.—[Special.]—Relief Administrator Harry L. Hopkins announced today, on the basis of preliminary reports, that the November case relief load would show an increase of only 1.5 per cent over October. That would add about 60,000 families for the nation as a whole, compared with 355,000 families added from October to November last year.

Even if the preliminary estimates prove correct, however, the November family load still would be above that of November in 1933. There were 3,010,316 families on relief in October, 1933, and there were 4,010,572 in October this year. He said that relief and RFC funds were available up to mid-February.

Administrator Hopkins, nevertheless, said he had expected an much greater November increase and was pleased with the results. He ascribed the smallness of the increase to cotton picking in the south and to some increase in employment generally.

Hopkins said on Jan. 10 the Federal Emergency Relief administration would have about 200 million dollars left for distribution to the states. That sum, with funds available from the Reconstruction Finance corporation, would carry through to the middle of February. Obligations for September were $141,412,597 and for October $156,597,958.

Illinois' case load relief increase from October to November was 1.2 per cent and the increase in obligations was 1 per cent. The number of families on the relief in Illinois in October was 286,908, as compared with 283,626 in September.

N. Y. MAY DEDUCT SALES TAX FROM U. S. INCOME LEVY

Illinois Consumers Are Denied Privilege.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 13.—[Special.]—When New Yorkers make out their federal income tax next March they will be allowed to deduct their new 2 per cent sales tax, but Illinois, which also has a 2 per cent sales levy, will not be allowed a similar deduction.

This fact was disclosed at the treasury department today through a review of those taxes which the federal government classifies as deductible for income tax purposes.

The treasury has held formally that Illinois consumers cannot deduct the state's 2 per cent sales tax even though retailers pass the tax on to the purchasers. In this respect Illinois is on an equal footing with 12 other states having sales taxes, but New York City evidently will enjoy a special status.

Assessed Against Consumer.

The New York City sales tax is assessed against the consumer whereas the state sales taxes, including that of Illinois, is levied against the retailers or wholesalers. Therefore, consumers in New York City will be allowed to deduct the tax on their federal income tax returns, whereas the merchants, rather than the purchasers, deduct the taxes in other states.

Under the treasury's general rule, state and federal excise taxes may be deducted for income tax purposes by those persons against whom, as a matter of law, the tax is levied regardless of who pays the tax in the end. For example, the federal gasoline tax is levied against the refiners. Therefore, the refineries may deduct this tax from their gross income while the consumer of gasoline, who actually pays the tax, cannot deduct it.

List Individual Taxes.

A list of those taxes which are levied against the individual and which, therefore, the ordinary income taxpayer may deduct from his gross income includes: Real estate and personal property taxes [except special improvement levies], state income taxes, federal and state inheritance tax, tarif duties, federal taxes on theater admissions, the federal tax on bank checks, state and city automobile taxes, the federal tax on telegrams, cables, telephone calls, and radio messages.

In addition, the old federal tax on dividends is deductible, and the tax on electrical energy, collected up to Sept. 1, 1933, is deductible by the consumer.

The list of taxes which business houses may deduct but which the consumer may not deduct even though the taxes are passed on to him is even longer.

Liquor Tax Not Deductible.

Federal and most state liquor taxes are not deductible because they are levied on distillers and brewers rather than on consumers. Similarly the agricultural adjustment processing taxes, even thought they add to the consumers' price, are deductible by the packers and millers rather than by the consumers. The federal gasoline tax and most, but not all, of the state gasoline taxes are levied against the refiners and are deductible by them rather than by the consumer.

The treasury followed this general rule in declaring that the retailers rather than the consumers in Illinois may deduct the 2 per cent sales tax. The department pointed out that the tax is levied against the merchants and is deductible by them regardless of who pays it. The treasury, however, forces the merchants to include all amounts collected under the tax as part of their gross revenues.

In 12 other states the federal government has made similar rulings on their sales taxes. These states are: Ohio, Iowa, California, Kentucky, West Virginia, Nebraska, Arizona, Pennsylvania, North Carolina, Oklahoma, Michigan, and New York. The New York City sales tax apparently will be the first exception, but it has not yet been ruled on formally.

DAMAGE BY FROST FAILS TO DAMPEN FLORIDA OPTIMISM

BY HAL FOUST.

Miami Beach, Fla., Dec. 13.—[Special.] — Notwithstanding a $2,000,000 frost damage to its agricultural crops, Florida's anticipated seven hundred million dollar winter resort and travel industry is maintaining sunshine optimism in this state.

After two freezing nights, the mercury is scheduled to dip again before tomorrow morning, but not as low as the 26 degrees recorded at the air port near here early this morning. There was a chilly breeze accompanying a 61 degree temperature this afternoon.

In addition to the favorable outlook for a record tourist business this winter, the natives and adopted sons are also talking of real estate sales, a subject general conversation has avoided for several years.

Florida real estate, as a whole, has been dormant since the billion dollar crash of land values ending the Florida boom in 1926. Half a million nonresident investors lost paper profits and actual capital in the deflation of eight years ago. About 200,000 of these were from the Chicago section of the country, which contributed heavily to the "sucker" lists.

The trend of prices in the last twelve months has been upward. It's nothing like a boom and the prices are only a small fraction of the inflated value of 1925 and '26. But it's probably news to the half million victims of the notorious bubble that Florida real estate men are beginning to breathe naturally again.

'FIXER'S' APOLOGY WINS PROBATION —WITH $25 FINE

Sam Faber, 3849 West 15th street, milkman, who spent Wednesday night in jail because he attempted to "fix" a summons to the Trafic court, was arraigned there again yesterday on a charge of improper parking of an automobile. He apologized for his attempted "fix," and he and his wife, Minnie, pleaded for leniency because of their three small children, one of whom, they said, is critically ill. After lecturing Faber, Judge John P. Gutknecht fined him $25 and placed him on six months' probation.

ROBBED IN LOOP ALLEY.

Three bandits pulled Grover Wilkins, 25 years old, of 4049 Magnolia avenue, into an alley off Van Buren street between State and Dearborn streets early yesterday and robbed him of $20.

FIND FIRE BEGAN IN THE ROOM OF HOTEL MANAGER

Death Toll Reaches 30; Hunt for More.

BY PERCY WOOD.

Lansing, Mich., Dec. 13.—[Special.]—The disastrous fire which took thirty lives when the Hotel Kerns burned to the ground early Tuesday started in the room of Manager David Monroe, officials of the state fire marshal's office are convinced.

In an announcement made tonight after they had questioned the three men comprising the staf of the hotel when the fire began, the authorities declared that if so much time had not been spent in trying to arouse Monroe less loss of life would have resulted. Monroe perished in the fire.

The unexpected announcement came just after firemen had removed two more charred bodies from the ruins, bringing the toll to 14 taken from the still smoking hulk. Thirteen others died in hospitals. One of tonight's bodies was identified as that of J. H. Byrnes of Grand Rapids. The other was a woman, perhaps Mrs. Elsa Robbins of Saginaw, employed at the state capitol.

Expect to Find More.

Although only 196 persons have been accounted for, firemen do not believe that they still have to locate 34 bodies in the wreckage. They feel they will find several more but are inclined to believe that a number of persons were registered who have not, for one reason or another, revealed they were inside when the fire began.

Events today, however, indicated that several persons, of whom no record previously existed and concerning whom no inquiries have been made by relatives, may have perished.

Blackened little heaps of jewelry taken from the ruins furnished the new clews. A watch bore the name of P. L. Bartlett, a set of Masonic cuff links were inscribed M. O. Ulm, and a D. K. E. fraternity pin had "W. D. Bryant, 1911," on it.

Watches found in the wreckage had stopped all the way from 5:01 to 5:20 o'clock, indicating that the blaze might have been going furiously almost thirty minutes before the alarm was sounded. Prosecuting Attorney Dan McCullough, who sat in with the questioners tonight, said he intended presenting all available evidence on the delay in sounding the alarm before the coroner's jury which will resume its investigation Monday.

Employés Tell of Delays.

The investigators told their findings after quizzing Cleo Evans, night porter and bell boy, William Blank, scrub man, and Isaac Jones, night clerk.

Evans' story was most startling. He said, according to the four examiners, that he took sandwiches to Manager Monroe's room—No. 134—at 4:30 a. m., where there had been a party. Monroe was alone and sober at that time, Evans said.

Within half an hour, or shortly after 5 a. m., Evans continued, he went to the second floor in response to a call that there was a fire. Who made the call he did not know. He found smoke outside room 234, he claimed, and running downstairs found flames coming from the transom of 134, Monroe's room.

Had the alarm been given at that moment the investigators declared there would not have been such loss of life. Instead, they insisted, the following ten or fifteen minutes was spent in trying to awaken Monroe and his brother Douglas, who lived next door. Douglas escaped; David was burned to death. His body has been identified.

Seventh Legislator Dies.

Several legislators lived at the Kerns, and one senator and six representatives are among the dead, the latest to die being Representative D. Knox Hanna, 60, of Caro, who suffered broken arms and a crushed chest when he leaped from the flaming building. He died in a hospital this morning.

It has been reported that several parties were in progress at the Kerns during Monday night and early Tuesday. All the rooms were taken and applicants had to be turned away. When the injured have recovered sufficiently to talk, they probably will be asked to tell what they saw of revelry around the place.

Community memorial services for the dead will be held Saturday. Mayor Max A. Templeton requested the tribute today and the tolling of Lansing church bells early Saturday afternoon will signal a two minute period of silence in memory of those who perished. Extended services will be held in several of the churches. The Lansing chapter of the Elks lodge today offered the use of its home for a mass funeral for any bodies not claimed.

WIDOW STARTS STORY OF HELPING PASTOR; NOW CALLED SLAYER

Lebanon, Ind., Dec. 13.—[Special.]—Mrs. Neoma Saunders, 35, on trial here charged with causing the murder of her husband, Gaylord V. Saunders, former Methodist Episcopal minister at Wabash, Ind., testified today in her own defense.

Just before court closed for the day she began the story of events which preceded the killing. The ex-minister was shot while in Indianapolis last February. The state charges she has admitted paying $10 for the shooting.

Mrs. Saunders said her father is living in Kansas City and her mother died three years ago. She said she met Saunders at New Albany in 1917. She was married to him a year and a half later. She formerly lived at Akron, O. She told of her husband working in two places at Newcastle. She said she kept their small home, and had lived with her relatives, earning $7 weekly to pay for his education for the ministry at Taylor university at Upland, Ind.

William H. Haines, 79, self-styled foster father of Saunders, a witness before the widow, wept as he testified that he believed Saunders had been insane for some time prior to his death. Haines said at one time the sound of Saunders beating one of his sons with a piece of rubber hose was: "Like a man beating a horse in a stall."

Commander MacMillan, Explorer, Under Knife

Rockland, Me., Dec. 13.—(AP)—Commander Donald B. MacMillan, polar explorer, today underwent an appendectomy operation at the Knox County General hospital. His condition was reported later as "good."

BRITAIN'S FLEET QUITS SINGAPORE FOR SHAM WAR

Strength of Port Will Be Tested in Maneuvers.

SINGAPORE, Dec. 13.—(AP)—Twenty British naval vessels moved out of Singapore tonight to take up their positions at sea for the most extensive war maneuvers the port has ever witnessed.

Their plans enshrouded in secrecy, army, navy, and air forces prepared to test the vulnerability of the port, Great Britain's strongest outpost and its gateway to the far east.

Especial significance was attached to the maneuvers in view of the major operations which have been going forward to make Singapore one of the world's strongest naval bases.

Study Air Base Possibilities.

Its potentialities as an air base, emphasized at the time of the England to Melbourne air Derby, also occupied the attention of the experts directing the activities.

The port was ordered closed to all shipping during a portion of each day to eliminate the possibility of interference with the maneuvers. Rumors circulated that unusual precautions had been taken to obstruct possible foreign espionage.

The death of a Japanese, Y. Nishimura, a leader in the Japanese colony and president of the Japanese Singapore association, while he was under questioning by secret service operatives created a considerable stir. His death, it was disclosed, was due to poison, apparently self-inflicted.

Disappear Into Darkness.

An unusual force of naval craft was concentrated here for the practice. The vessels which put out to sea tonight included the aircraft carrier Eagle, carrying twenty-four planes and eighteen destroyers. Simulating as nearly as possible conditions of actual battle, they disappeared into the darkness without running lights to betray their destination.

The climax of the maneuvers is expected Sunday night, when a sham attack is to be made on the port from the sea and air.

Four reconnaissance flying boats and twenty-four torpedo bombers are to go aloft Saturday afternoon in an attempt to spot the raiders and frustrate their attack by bombing them from the air.

Whether or not the theoretical aerial defense succeeds, the attackers will be allowed to approach the shore and endeavor to land in the face of a defense force of 4,000 fully equipped troops, including a volunteer corps.

Mrs. Barbara Patchen Files Third Suit to Annul Divorce

Another attempt of Mrs. Barbara Patchen of Winnetka to have set aside the divorce decree granted in 1932 to her former husband, Gordon Patchen, an employé of the Standard Oil company, was made yesterday before Superior Judge Rudolph Desort. Mrs. Patchen, through her attorney, Lloyd Faxon, filed a petition charging that Judge Desort was without jurisdiction when he signed the divorce decree while sitting as a judge in the Criminal court. Two similar attempts to vacate the divorce decree have failed.

YOUNG AUTOIST IS KILLED.

Rockford, Ill., Dec. 13.—[Special.]—Robert Engleson, 22, was killed this morning when the car which he was riding crashed into an electric light pole.

TWO HIGH SCHOOL BOYS TRY TO END THEIR LIVES; FAIL

Two pupils of Crane High school were recovering yesterday after suicide attempts due, they declared, to trouble with their teachers. Neither knew the other had tried to end his life. Both are first year pupils.

The first to attempt to take his life was Burton Wiener, 15 years old, who swallowed poison Wednesday night in his home at 2648 Hirsch street. The other was John Pierce, 15 years old, 3803 Ohio street, who took poison the same night.

Burton told County hospital attendants that he didn't want to go to school because he had been made to take a technical course when he preferred to "study electricity." John said he had had a misunderstanding with a teacher who had telephoned his mother that he had missed class when in reality, he added, he had been in another class.

Woman, 41, Dies from Burns Incurred Lighting Cigaret

"Boy! How the Blizzard Raged!"

"My brother shoveled coal in vain! While at my home the gas furnace kept the house as warm as toast"

Earl J. Leary, of 7759 St. Lawrence Avenue, tells what gas heat has meant to his family in winter-time comfort.

"LAST winter," writes Mr. Earl J. Leary, "we left home one morning to visit my brother a few blocks away. When we left home the weather was pleasant. While we were at my brother's house the worst blizzard of the year struck without warning. My brother shoveled coal in vain. But he couldn't keep his house warm. While at my home the gas furnace automatically speeded up. And when we got home that night the house was warm as toast."

Gas heat beats Chicago's changeable weather

How many people can guess accurately what the weather is going to be each day? How many furnace tenders know, when they fire in the morning, just how full of coal the furnace should be? Too often a sudden rise in temperature can catch you with an overstuffed furnace sending out wasted blasts of uncomfortable heat. While a sudden drop in temperature could mean a race between an overworked coal shovel and a dangerously chilly house.

Gas heat insures you against changeable Chicago weather. It gives you the supreme comfort . . . the health protection of always having your home warm and cozy. No matter how sudden the drop in temperature. No matter how far away the man of the house may be. That's one reason thousands prefer it to any other kind of heat.

But there are other reasons, too. Gas heat does away with coal shoveling—with hauling ashes—with the need of constant and expensive redecoration of walls. It is so clean it makes a different thing of housekeeping in winter. It makes it unnecessary, too, for the woman of the house to run up and down stairs worrying over the fire, struggling with heavy shovels. Instead, you simply set a little thermostat on the wall . . . and your heating worries for that winter are over!

The only heat you can try before you *buy

And, best of all, you can try gas heat without investing one cent for equipment. No other fuel makes this offer. No other fuel says "go ahead and try it, and if you don't like it . . . we'll remove it without asking you to buy a nickel's worth of heating plant."

To those who think gas heat is expensive our answer is . . . thousands of satisfied users, from all groups of income, now heat with gas. And, remember, gas heat rates are now one-half of what they were a few years ago.

Compare this offer with those made by other fuels

Here's what we'll do to enable you to try it. We'll install a burner in your present furnace or boiler at our expense. You do not pay one cent for equipment. You try it for a month two months, or a year. While you are trying it you pay only a small rental during the heating months—only $3 a month for the burner in the average home. This charge is included with the bill for the gas you use. If within the year you decide you don't like gas heat, we'll take it out at our expense and replace your former equipment in good workmanlike order. But if you decide to keep it, the rental you have paid applies on the purchase price of the equipment.

Act now—before the cold weather sets in

Write or phone your nearest gas office for complete details of this liberal offer and for free estimate of cost of heating your home with gas.

HOW GAS COOKING CAME TO CHICAGO

"Step right this way, ladies, and see the wonderful stove that cooks with gas!"

Crowds gathered around the salesman's horse and wagon that summer day in 1898. He was selling gas stoves and, having hit upon the novel idea of attaching a rubber hose to the nearest street lamp, was giving open air demonstrations. He brought in orders for the stoves faster than they could be filled.

Even with those early-day stoves—crude forerunners of today's attractive insulated and automatic ranges—the superiority of gas was apparent. By the thousands, the tens of thousands, and finally hundreds of thousands, housewives turned to this better way of cooking.

Today, gas cooks the meals in practically every Chicago home because, through the years, its convenience, cleanliness and economy have remained unsurpassed.

YOU INVEST NOTHING
To Try Gas Heat

Gas heat can be installed without your investing one cent for equipment. To prove that every home can now afford to heat with gas, we'll install it at our expense—remove it at our expense, if you don't like it. Accept this startling offer. Phone your nearest gas office TODAY.

WILKIE, FORMER HEAD OF SECRET SERVICE, IS DEAD

Surface Lines Official in Recent Years.

John E. Wilkie, assistant to the president of the Chicago Surface Lines, vice president of the Chicago Railway company, died yesterday in his home at the Edgewater Beach apartments. Mr. Wilkie was for a number of years city editor of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, and for fourteen years he was chief of the United States secret service. He was 74 years old.

For the last five weeks Mr. Wilkie had been confined to his home with heart trouble. Until his recent illness he was active in business affairs.

Fights Spanish War Spies.

As the son of a newspaper writer, the late Franc B. Wilkie, who used the pen name of Poliuto, young Wilkie began newspaper work on the old Chicago Times in 1877, and was twice sent abroad as its representative. He joined the staf of THE TRIBUNE in 1881 and became its city editor and then commercial editor, serving until 1893. Then he went to London and engaged in the banking and steamship business until 1896.

In 1898 he was appointed head of the secret service and organized a force to checkmate Spanish spies during the Spanish-American war, arresting many and driving many Spanish emissaries from the country.

As head of the secret service Mr. Wilkie had two major duties, protecting the life of the President and warring on counterfeiters. His adventures were many and his successes numerous. In recent days he liked to recall how he had run down a gang of 13 Philadelphia counterfeiters who had printed and were circulating bogus bills amounting to $100,000,000.

He broke up that gang by opening an engraving office and advertising for expert engravers, thereby getting in contact with the engraver who made plates for the gang. As a result all members of the band were sent to prison.

Advertises for Expert Engravers.

From 1910 to 1913 he was supervising agent in charge of special agents of the customs service at home and abroad. He then returned to Chicago and became an official of the street car company.

Mr. Wilkie was born in Elgin on April 27, 1860. On April 27, 1882, he married Jennie Ormsbee, who survives him. There are two children, Donald W. Wilkie and Mrs. Ira June Owen. Funeral services will be held tomorrow at 3:30 p. m. in Graceland cemetery chapel.

UPHOLDS CLAIM UPON ESTATE OF KNOWLTON AMES

Circuit Judge Daniel P. Trude yesterday upheld a ruling of the Probate court and allowed a claim of $411,816, brought by the brokerage concern of Farnum, Winter & Co., to stand against the estate of the late Knowlton L. Ames, chairman of the board of the Booth Fisheries company. The court ruled that transactions with the brokerage house on an open account by Ames were not of a gambling nature and constituted a legal claim against the estate.

Claims totaling $5,926,634 have been filed against the estate of Ames, who left little more than $50,000, according to his will, which was filed shortly after his death in 1932. He also left an insurance trust of $1,000,000 for the benefit of his children. Efforts of creditors of the estate to attach the insurance trust to satisfy claims have been unsuccessful, the Illinois Supreme court holding recently that such trusts were inviolate.

UNION OFFICIAL DIES OF WOUND FROM OWN GUN

William T. Collins, 45 years old, 5526 South Ada street, died in St. Bernard's hospital last night of a wound suffered accidentally in the Horn Palace restaurant, at 4189 South Halsted street, on Dec. 4. Collins was an organizer for the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen of America.

Collins and another man, believed to have been connected with the union, were in the restaurant together and, according to witnesses, had shotguns concealed under their overcoats. A third man, also unidentified, who was a patron, cried out to a waitress that Collins and his friend intended to shoot him and begged for help.

In the confusion that followed Collins' weapon was discharged. He was struck in the left leg and foot. The police took Collins to the Bridewell hospital, from which he later was released on a writ of habeas corpus. He was then sent to St. Bernard's.

The police have been unable to find the other armed man or the one who cried that he was going to be shot.

News of the Radio Stations

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

The Musical Clock, off the air since KYW moved to Philadelphia Dec. 3, will reappear next Monday morning on WBBM under the sponsorship of the State Street store which has maintained it for almost five years. Halloween Martin will continue to act as the voice of the clock, giving the time, weather reports and announcing the musical selections for the two hour period from seven to nine each week day morning. Parker Wheatley will continue to make commercial announcements.

The Musical Clock presents during its first hour and a half a varied program of selections—better known popular songs, dance music, old favorites and classics. The last half hour is devoted entirely to classical selections.

They're calling Announcer Bob Brown "The Singing Gentleman" at NBC studios these days. For a couple of evenings now Bob has been pinch-hitting for Ireene Wicker, the Singing Lady, who was suddenly stricken with an attack of laryngitis that left her voiceless. Brown is the regular announcer on the program and has had a lot of opportunity to watch Ireene's technique. In addition to singing Ireene's songs Bob also is telling the youngsters Indian stories. W-G-N is the local outlet for the Singing Lady programs.

Soloists for the second 13 week series of NBC Sunday night symphony concerts were announced yesterday by Alfred P. Sloan Jr. The new run will see the radio debut of Composer Igor Stravinsky, Pianist Artur Schnabel. Other soloists: Gladys Swarthout, Yehudi Menuhin, Feodor Chaliapin, Paul Whiteman, George Gershwin, Myra Hess, Lauritz Melchior, Lotte Lehmann, Elisabeth Rethberg, Nathan Milstein, Jan Kubelik, Tito Schipa and Bronislaw Huberman.

Morton Downey will try to recreate the atmosphere of his former program, in which he appeared with Tony Wons and Jacques Renard, in his new show beginning Sunday. Guy Bates Post has been engaged to handle the homely philosophy department. A few days back the news leaked out that Kate Smith would get $5,000 a week for her new CBS show. Swiftly thereupon NBC announced that Morton Downey, a former CBS performer, would get $6,000 for his new job. In so doing NBC waived a rule that salaries must be kept a deep secret. Perhaps there was a little object lesson in this maneuver.

OPEN NINE HOUR AIR SERVICE TO MIAMI TUESDAY

Eastern Lines Hope to Shorten Schedule.

BY WAYNE THOMIS.

Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker announced here last evening that the inaugural flights of passengers, mail, and express on a direct air line between Chicago and Miami will be made next Tuesday by Eastern Air Lines planes. The new service will open with one round trip daily on a nine hour schedule each way.

Fourteen passenger, twin motored, Douglas DC2 liners, which airmen agree are the finest ships of their type, constitute the equipment, according to Capt. Rickenbacker, who is vice president of Eastern Air Lines. The trip is to be known as the Florida Flyer, and the company has already had more than seventy applications for seats on the southbound planes, he said.

Sumbit Schedules to U. S.

Complete details of departure and arrival times have not yet been worked out because postal authorities have not approved tentative schedules submitted by the company. This approval is essential since the planes are to carry substantial cargoes of air mail on each trip.

An attempt by Eastern Air officials to make the new service a one stop "speed special" flight with a 7 hour and 30 minute elapsed time for the 1,257 mile journey, has been blocked by the postoffice requirements that the plane must stop at Louisville and Jacksonville, in addition to Atlanta as proposed by the air line.

Travel experts have pointed out that a demand exists for a really fast service between Chicago and the southern playgrounds. However, if travelers are to ride what is virtually a "milk train schedule" with frequent stops which cut down flying time to such a great extent, the tendency will be, observers say, toward a refusal to bear the extra expense of air travel.

The service which Chicagoans are willing to support, it has been stated, would involve flying time of not more than seven hours between this city and Miami, with a stop at Atlanta, the gateway to South Carolina and Georgia resorts. The speed and range of the Douglas remove all technical difficulties which might prevent such schedules.

Will Use Nine Planes.

When the new service opens on Tuesday, Eastern Air Lines will have nine Douglas liners flying over their Chicago-Miami and New York-Miami routes. As soon as the full contingent of fourteen of these ships has been delivered, a night trip between Chicago and Miami will be flown, officials said.

It is hoped, they said, when the night trip is begun that one of the two flights can be made an express run. An effort will be made to open the night schedule and the special speed flight by the first week in January, when the railroads begin bidding for "seasonal" trafic.

PRINCE OF WALES DONS SPECTACLES WITH HORN RIMS

LONDON, Dec. 13.—(AP)—The Prince of Wales has taken to wearing horn rimmed spectacles. The 40 year old heir to the British throne appeared with them for the first time in public today. He read the agenda at the annual meeting of the League of Mercy.

There is no danger of the prince setting a fashion in eyeglasses, however, for his father, King George, beat him to it by many years. The king once appeared at a Wembley exhibition wearing horn rims, momentarily shocking the monocle loyalists who followed his example by stowing away the single lens.

The prince has been wearing glasses for several weeks for reading. They give him a serious and somewhat staid look. Although becoming, they make him look older.

PRECIOUS BERYL IS USED TO MAKE A BETTER ALLOY

D. K. Crampton Tells of New Bronze.

Cleopatra, who made a precious drink by dissolving pearls in vinegar, has a modern counterpart in metallurgists who cast a semi-precious stone into their melting pots to make an improved industrial alloy.

The story of the new alloy, beryllium bronze, was told to the Chicago chapter of the American Society for Metals last evening in the Medinah club by D. K. Crampton, director of research of the Chase Brass and Copper company.

Has Many Uses in Industry.

In its physical properties beryllium bronze is an improved substitute for phosphor bronze, an alloy of copper, tin, and a small amount of phosphorus. It has a wide range of industrial use in springs and bearings which must resist corrosion or are required to be good electrical conductors. Its cost, however, is at present nearly three times as great as that of phosphor bronze.

The element beryllium takes its name from a semi-precious stone, beryl, in which it was first found by chemists. Beryl is still the principal source of the metal. Just as three-fourths of the diamonds found are unfit for gems and find their use in various industrial grinding and boring tools, so considerable quantities of beryl are found which because of flaws or impurities cannot be cut as gems.

Metal Costs $40 a Pound.

It is this beryl which the metallurgists get, but even that is difficult to find, and when found is in small quantities and widely scattered. Furthermore, the process of reducing from the beryl the metal beryllium, the form in which the element is combined with copper to make the specialized bronze, is a complicated and expensive one.

Improvements in this process have reduced the cost of the metal to about $40 a pound. Only 2 per cent of beryllium is needed for the alloy, putting the cost of the bronze in the neighborhood of $1.50 a pound. Further lowering of the cost, with consequent expansion of the field in which beryllium bronze may be used economically, depends largely on the discovery of new and larger deposits of beryl, Mr. Crampton said.

CHARGES MATE WITH THEFT OF $53,000 IN BONDS

The police began a search yesterday for Jack Rose, 44 years old, after his wife, Thelma, and stepdaughter, Lena, had sworn out warants, charging him with the larceny of $53,000 worth of bonds.

The wife, who lives at the Southmoor hotel, 67th street and Stony Island avenue, told Sergt. James Coleman that Rose had left home ten days ago, saying that he would be gone for some time on a business trip.

Then, the wife declared, Rose wrote to a friend saying that he had taken the bonds from the safety deposit vault of a loop bank. The friend, who was not identified, told Mrs. Rose. She investigated and found them gone.

Of the bonds, $18,000 worth belonged to the stepdaughter.

REVIEW BOARD CUTS WAUKEGAN UTILITY'S LEVY

For the second time in two years, a Lake county board of review yesterday drastically reduced the assessed valuation of the Waukegan Generating company's personal property.

The valuation for 1934 tax purposes was fixed yesterday at $1,189,800, a reduction of $2,951,105 from the figure of $4,140,905 fixed by Assessor Russ Alford of Lake county. The preceding board had reduced the 1933 valuation from the assessor's figure of $3,116,800 to $1,200,000, a cut of $1,916,800.

Announcement of the new cut was made in a majority report signed by Harold D. Kelsey, chairman, and James F. King, Republican members of the board. They pointed out that if the assessor's figure were allowed to stand, the company, which is a subsidary of the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois, would pay 66 2-3 per cent of the total personal property tax bill for Lake county. Frank McDermott, third member of the board, in a minority report declared the proper valuation would be "nearer $3,000,000."

FALLS OFF AUTO RUNNING BOARD; KILLED BY TRUCK

Elmer Hoffman, 40 years old, 6038 Princeton avenue, was killed last evening when he fell from the running board of an automobile and was crushed beneath the rear wheels of a passing truck at 31st street and Wentworth avenue. His death and three others yesterday increased the Cook county automobile toll for the year to 1,191. The other victims:

Albert Wolanski, 46 years old, 1942 Wilmot avenue. Died in the Presbyterian hospital after he was struck by an automobile as he alighted from a street car at Harrison street and Ashland boulevard.

Vergne Dray, 34 years old, 3317 Maypole ave. Died in the West Side hospital of injuries suffered Dec. 1 when he was struck by an automobile at Madison street and Racine avenue.

Miss Katherine Herbert, 76 years old, 4040 West Congress street. Died in the Garfield Park hospital of injuries incurred when she was struck by an automobile Wednesday night in front of 414 South Pulaski road.

... and now Bottled-in-bond OLD OVERHOLT is back again!

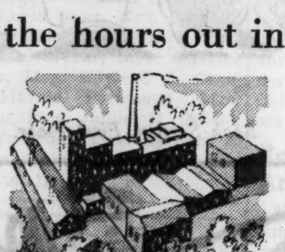
We've been watching the calendar, counting the hours out in Broad Ford, Pa.



Thousands of cobwebby barrels, locked in our bonded warehouses, waited, as other barrels have waited during the past 124 years, for that day when the amber clear fragrant liquor they contained would reach "bonding age."

Four years, says the U. S. government, is the time a whiskey must wait and mellow and ripen before it can win that official seal of approval, the federal bottled-in-bond stamp.

And now, the time has come! That famous old Pennsylvania rye with the proud signature of A. Overholt upon it — distilled with the same patient skill which has made it known and prized for more than a century — has now reached full bonding age.

There isn't much more we need say than that, is there? Except that alert dealers will be able to supply you this long-awaited treat, wherever distinguished whiskies are offered for sale.

Finds Concert of Orchestra Unusual One

BY EDWARD MOORE.

In some respects the program assembled by Frederick Stock for the Chicago Symphony orchestra and conducted by him last night at Orchestra hall was an extraordinary one. From the beginning it was brilliant, intriguing, at times inspiring music, yet with one exception, the final number, it was music that for one reason and another did not quite strike the center of the target.

It was by no means a program of futilities. It can best be described as a set of music whose composers at other times probably would have done things differently, yet in each case it afforded a chance for magnificent playing by the orchestra. The final number, by the way, was the bacchanale and finale from Wagner's "Tannhäuser" Overture.

The first composition was Moussorgsky's "A Night on the Bare Mountain," a piece left uncompleted by the composer, and revised, edited, and orchestrated by Rimsky-Korsakoff. Then came Loeffler's "The Devil's Villanelle," and one could readily understand why Mr. Stock has allowed twenty-two years to elapse since the last time he played it.

This was followed by Saint-Saëns' Third Symphony, also somewhat annoying, since with all its glorious passages there were so many spots where the composer failed to emphasize the best points of the material under his hand and permitted himself to go straying after thinner and less inspiring stuff.

After the intermission came Richard Strauss' "Macbeth." Here was the young Strauss, just beginning to develop into the Strauss we know best, but not quite at artistic maturity.

By the way, it would be well for orchestra lovers to do as I did at this point and listen to the performance from the last row of the top gallery. Here you will find the orchestra at its most brilliant, most distinct, and most stirring. It is the best point in all Orchestra hall.

Splendid Program

Mrs. Cornelius Crane, pictured above, was one of the artists who gave the program at a musical the Friends of Opera enjoyed yesterday afternoon in the Drake hotel ballroom. Looking as if the Spanish in which she sang might be her native tongue—she is an American, though—she sang two songs which were received enthusiastically by the large audience. Mme. Sonia Sharnova, Mme. Anna Turkel, John Pane-Gasser and Chase Baromeo, all of the Chicago Grand Opera company, were the other artists who contributed to the delightful program.

Some of those who attended the musical and the tea that followed were Mrs. Arthur Meeker, who presided; Mrs. Charles H. Swift, program chairman; Cornelius Crane and his mother and aunts, Mrs. Richard T. Crane Jr., Mrs. Joseph M. Patterson and Mrs. E. Crane Chadbourne, Mrs. Charles H. Chadwick, Mrs. John R. Winterbotham Jr., Miss Peggy Hambleton, Miss Kate Buckingham, Mrs. Harry H. Shearson, Mrs. Thomas W. Hinde, Mrs. James Hamilton Lewis, Mrs. J. Ogden Armour, Mrs. William J. Chalmers, and Mrs. John Alden Carpenter.

Others present were Mrs. Arthur A. Small, Mrs. Jacob Baur, Mrs. Bartholomay Osborne, Mrs. Frederick T. Haskell, Mrs. John Crerar, Mrs. Charles W. Dempster, Mrs. Edward C. Crossett, Mrs. Harold Pyncheon, Mrs. Helen Walton, Mrs. James R. Offield, Mrs. Mark W. Trude, Mrs. Bernard J. Mullaney, Mrs. George Rasmussen and Mrs. Edward A. Leight.

Hold Assembly Tonight; Event of Social Year

Most Exclusive Party Will Be at Blackstone.

BY JUDITH CASS.

By this time next week the younger members of society will have stepped into the social limelight, there to remain during the entire holiday season, but tonight belongs to their mothers and fathers, for it is the night of the most formal and dignified ball of the winter, the Assembly. It isn't too formal nor dignified, however, to be a jolly affair and the spirit of informality which characterizes all social functions of today has replaced the elegant formality of former days even at this most exclusive ball of every winter.

Around "elevenish"—11 was the hour on the invitations—the wives of the governors will start arriving at the crystal ballroom of the Blackstone hotel, and after unwrapping the lovely bouquets the governors will send their wives to carry, and drawing on long, snowy white gloves, the women will take their places in the receiving line. Until several years ago there were two Assemblies each winter, with the wives of the older governors receiving at the first one, early in December, and the wives of the younger governors acting as hostesses at the second ball in January.

Since 1932, when there was no Assembly, there has been only one each winter, so the receiving line is a fairly long one. Tonight Mrs. Arthur Meeker, whose husband is chairman of the board of governors; Mrs. John A. Stevenson, Mrs. Albert A. Sprague, Mrs. William R. Odell, Mrs. William H. Mitchell, Mrs. William McCormick Blair, Mrs. Lester Armour, Mrs. Stanley Field, Mrs. Robert A. Gardner, Mrs. Howard F. Gillette, Mrs. Morris L. Johnston, Mrs. Eames MacVeagh, and Mrs. Dexter Cummings will receive the 650 guests who are expected to attend the ball. Harold F. McCormick also is a governor.

Ambrose C. Cramer Designs Decorations.

Ambrose C. Cramer, Mr. Meeker's son-in-law, has planned the decorations of the ballroom. Two orchestras will furnish music and at 1 o'clock supper will be served in the main dinnig room. Supper more properly might be called breakfast since scrambled eggs and sausage or bacon are on the menu, but the governors of the Assemblies have not broken away from tradition enough to provide a floor show during supper.

There will be dozens of dinner parties before the ball and the Casino, the most popular place for pre-Assembly dinners, would have had at least 150 more diners had it been large enough to accommodate them. There will be no more excited persons at the Casino than Miss Louise Forgan, a debutante of last year, and her guests, at least the feminine ones, for they all will be going to their first Assembly. Only about ten or twelve second year girls, and no debutantes, are invited to the Assembly, for as a rule only daughters of members are added to the list each year. Miss Eleanor Wheeler, who has attended two Assemblies already, also will be dinner hostess at the Casino.

Mr. and Mrs. James Ward Thorne, Mr. and Mrs. John T. McCutcheon, Mrs. George R. Nichols, the Willard Boydens, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Williams, the Wesley Dixons, the Woodbury Obers, the junior Charles C. Haffners, the John L. Cochrans, and the Calvin D. Trowbridges are among others entertaining at dinner.

THE slim woman you see walking so rapidly toward Lincoln park every day is Eugénie Leontovich. Mme. Leontovich, who is appearing in "Romance" at the Blackstone theater, walks from the Ambassador hotel, where she is stopping, to the zoo in Lincoln park and back every day. If you've been wondering how she stays so slim that is the explanation, not dieting. Then, when she gets to the zoo she goes in and sees the lions and tigers and watches them for some time. It's her formula for getting her mind off herself. Calms and soothes her to see their beautiful, sleek, muscular grace.

Shops Unpack Stylish Clothes for Vacationists

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Previews of the newest midwinter vacation clothes for those heading south stress three C's—color, crinkles, and cords. Most of the cottons are corded or crinkled, so are all the silks.

Evening dresses made in the slim smooth silhouettes of the satins and dull crêpes that stay at home come in fascinating new crinkles, stripes of the wrinkles in varying widths. Dull white cotton crinkled in such a manner fashions the most bewitching of dance and dinner dresses especially when the models are made with slit skirts and smoothly fitting bodices cut low to show winter sun tans to the best advantage.

Simple one piece frocks for daytime wear are of clinging soft silks in white and pastel shades, and most of the materials used in these super smart affairs are of corded textures, wide, moderately wide and narrow cords like the fine ribs of corduroy.

Other textures extremely popular in the new collections have surfaces copied from fuzzy and smooth woolens or diagonal weaves copied from street tweeds, and while smooth dull materials are still smart and are used, these newer textures are stealing the spotlight.

Again the designers are using linen, linen for suits, dresses, active and spectator sports clothes and separate jackets, but linen that doesn't wrinkle, linen that is as cool and smooth as it is fashionably smart and exquisitely easy to cut and tailor.

Colors are fascinating! Raspberry red, clear strong yellows, cornflower blue, peach coral, leaf green and soft yellowish browns that anybody can wear. Color contrasts are subtle get-togethers that show ingenuity and artistry, nothing bold or blatant, even though the combines are all unusual and distinctively effective.

Such a color combination is used in the two piece daytime dress in the fashion photograph on this page. The bows marching down the center of the short sleeved blouse are of pale green and sapphire blue. The dress is of corded dull white silk.

The white felt hat has a very dashing crown of many colored ribbon knotted in a lattice effect as color contrast for the white of the felt brim. Both hat and dress from a newly unpacked collection of southern vacation clothes.

Good Morning!

Well—you may not believe in taking your children downtown, but home will be far from sweet if you keep them away from the Roosevelt, where "Babes in Toyland" is playing!

It's been many a long day since I've had so much pure [and I MEAN pure!] fun as I had watching this picture.

Against the lovely background of Victor Herbert's music, Toyland is revealed, quaint and fantastic—populated with its beloved "Mother Goose" characters, busily engaged in living a life that is apparently very real and very earnest to them.

There is Mother Peep, shown as the Old Woman Who Lived in a Shoe. Little Bo Peep is her eldest daughter. And with Little Bo Peep, so unlucky with her sheep, the course of true love doesn't run smoothly.

You see, she loves Tom-Tom, the piper's son—BUT—Old Mr. Barnaby, who holds a mortgage on the shoe, has demanded she wed him, unless she wants to see her mother and all her little brothers and sisters and the two boarders turned out into the streets.

Mr. Barnaby is all the Dickens and Dixiana showboat villains rolled into one. AND—you learn something not revealed in the rime which ran thus:

Tom, Tom, the piper's son,
Stole a pig and away he run . . .

You discover that Tom-Tom really DIDN'T steal the pig [that dumb little Walt Disney porker that lived in a house of straw], but that Old Man Barnaby perpetrated the foul deed and "framed" Tom-Tom!

Mother Peep's two boarders are Stanley Dum and Ollie Dee, who work in the toy factory. A terrible mistake they make, re an order given the Toy Maker by Santa Claus, results in their dismissal. BUT—it also results in the army of wooden soldiers that so effectively, in the last reel, do things to the raiding Bogey Men. Dum and Dee are no laggards in the war, either! What Dum accomplishes with pee wees you'd never believe.

Laurel and Hardy are awfully funny this trip. For an especially juicy moment of humor I refer you to the wedding of Mr. Barnaby to the supposed Bo Peep, whereat the mortgage is torn in little pieces by the best man, Mr. Dee. When Barnaby raises her veil to kiss his bride—O, WHAT a laugh for Toyland!

That march of the wooden soldiers . . . ! Honestly—you want to stand up and cheer!

The players are all perfectly cast. Nary does any one of them play down to his rôle. They take their parts in perfect good faith and, so, make them seem sublimely, ridiculously real to you.

Young Felix Knight, who plays Tom-Tom, made a hit with me. Never saw him before that I know of. He has a warmly magnetic personality and a splendid voice. His scenes with Charlotte Henry are charming.

"Babes in Toyland" is rich with humor and whimsy. It has been directed with perfect sympathy and good taste. Though preceded by no fanfare, it has "Alice in Wonderland" backed off the boards as entertainment.

If it doesn't remain at the Roosevelt through the holidays—why, I'm going to be ashamed of the Legion of Decency—that's all! Barring bad pictures isn't enough. They've got to prance out and SUPPORT good ones! Or else . . .

See you tomorrow.

Crippled Children Guests at Intimate Opera Morning

A tabloid presentation of the opera, "Manon," with an interpretation by Hope Hampton who made her operatic debut here Monday night, was enjoyed by fifteen children from the Spalding School for Crippled Children yesterday in the Blackstone hotel. The children were selected because of their aptitude and interest in music and were special guests of Mrs. Ernest R. Graham in the sixth of the Intimate Opera Mornings she is sponsoring to popularize opera in Chicago. Miss Edna Kellogg presented the tabloid.

PEOPLE SIMPLY DON'T OUTGROW LOLLIPOP LURE!

Adults Still Get Thrill from Candy Sticks.

"Candies That Are Fun to Make," a booklet containing 28 candy recipes, is on sale at the Tribune Public Service office, 1 South Dearborn street, and Tribune Tower, for 3 cents. By mail, 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address mail requests to Mary Meade, Chicago Tribune.

BY MARY MEADE.

If you think that because you've put up your hair you have outgrown lollypops—just think again! One of the most entertaining hostesses I've ever met decided recently that if "life begins at forty" she still had several years in which to enjoy all-day suckers—and she proceeded to delight her guests with a fat apple porcupine bristling with lollypops made in her own tuck-away kitchenette! Her suckers were simple ones—fun to make and even more fun to crunch upon. So why not spring them upon the next gathering at your house of folks who decline to grow up?

Lollypops.

2 cups sugar
2-3 cup white corn sirup
1 cup water
Red or green vegetable coloring
½ teaspoon oil of peppermint

Combine the sugar, sirup, and water in a saucepan over low heat, stirring until the sugar is dissolved. Cook, without stirring, until the sirup when tried in cold water is decidedly brittle (310 degrees F.). During the cooking wipe the sides of the pan frequently with a damp cloth to prevent crystals forming in the sirup. During the last part of the cooking turn the heat low to prevent discoloration of the sirup. When done remove from the burner and stir in just enough coloring to give a delicate pink or green. Add the flavoring, stirring only enough to blend. Drop the candy from a tablespoon onto a smooth, oiled slab or a greased baking sheet. Press one end of a woodpin or small skewer into the edge of each lollypop. Loosen the candies from the pan or slab when they become firm, but before they grow entirely cold.

Another party delicacy arrives in the form of crunchy

Fruit Flakes.

2 eggs, slightly beaten
1-3 cup corn oil
1 cup light brown sugar
2 cups cake flour
½ teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon soda
½ cup chopped dates
1 cup chopped nuts
2 cups corn flakes

Combine the eggs and oil, add the sugar, and beat well. Add the flour, baking powder, salt, and soda, which have been sifted together twice. Fold in the nuts, dates, and corn flakes. Mix well, then drop the batter from the end of a spoon onto an oiled baking sheet. Flatten the cookies somewhat and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for fifteen minutes.

Have you perhaps always thought of that smooth, bland dessert, junket, as something to be dished up to children and invalids, but hardly husky enough for a healthy grownup? Then here's a pleasant something to give you a change of heart:

Lemon Cream Junket with Cranberries.

1 package powder for lemon junket
1 cup milk
1 cup coffee cream
1 cup raw cranberries
½ cup water
½ cup sugar

There are two halves to this recipe—the cranberry sauce and the junket. To make the sauce, simply boil the sugar and water together for five minutes. Add the cranberries and cook without stirring until the skins pop (about five minutes). Remove from the stove and let the sauce cool. In the meantime prepare the junket according to the directions on the package, using the one cup milk and one cup of cream instead of the two cups of milk suggested on the box. Pour into individual sherbet glasses. Chill the junket in the refrigerator and, when set and ready to serve, spoon a tablespoon of chilled cranberry sauce over the top of each sherbet of junket.

FOOD ESTIMATE OFFERS GUIDE TO HOUSEWIVES

Survey Tells Changes in Supplies.

Disastrous as the drouth was, there still is enough food in the aggregate to meet the normal needs of consumers in the United States this winter, according to reports from the extension service of the University of Illinois.

Estimates of food supplies throughout the country will serve housewives as a guide to wise buying. A brief summary of the estimates for the different classes of foods follows:

Fluid milk. Supply will not be greatly different from that of previous year.

Dried Fruits Scarcer.

Fresh fruits. As a whole supplies promise well.

Dried fruits. About 5 per cent below last year and 9 per cent below the average in recent years. However, a large proportion of the pack of dried fruit usually is exported, and exports have been declining.

Commercially canned fruits. Both new and old supplies are about 4 per cent larger in quantity than in 1933 and about equal to the average in recent years. Demand is expected to be greater because of less home canning this last summer.

Fresh vegetables. Ample supplies are expected. Late crops of carrots, onions, cabbage, potatoes, and sweet potatoes were 17 per cent above the 1933 production and 4 per cent above average. Snap beans, lettuce, green peas, tomatoes, and spinach are likely to be plentiful from southern states after the first of the year.

Canned Vegetables Under Average.

Canned vegetables. Total supply will probably be 11 per cent below the average of recent years, although 11 per cent above the 1933 supply. Canned sweet corn will be about 25 per cent below average, canned spinach 21 per cent below, and green peas and snap beans 11 per cent under average. Canned green lima beans and tomatoes will be plentiful.

Potatoes. White and sweet combined promise to be more plentiful than last year. Supplies of white potatoes are about average and are particularly abundant in eastern and central states.

Dry edible beans—Carryover stocks and this year's crop combined amount to about 13 per cent below average.

Egg Quantity May Be Smaller.

Meats. Supplies for the rest of this year will be fairly abundant, but supplies in 1935 will be curtailed sharply and meat production for the entire year from August, 1934, to July, 1935, probably will be the smallest for more than a decade.

Fish and fish products. Plentiful as usual.

Poultry—Number of eggs laid is likely to be 10 to 15 per cent smaller than 1933, while storage stocks were about 5 per cent below five year average on Sept. 1.

Cheese. Stocks are likely to be ample.

Wheat supplies. Flour for bread, cereals, and other wheat foods will be sufficient for usual needs.

Rice—Supplies are abundant.

Butter. Domestic creamery supplies from November to April may be 15 to 20 per cent less than the large amount of last year.

Sugar. Available as usual.

Lard and cottonseed oil. Supplies will be about 25 per cent under average.

Household Hints

To reheat meat loaf slice it thick, top with bacon strips, and grill in a broiler.

Coconut snowmen are clever as holiday table decorations—and edible, too. Bake a cake in a sheet pan and from it cut circles of three different sizes. Frost each circle and roll in coconut, rounding them slightly with the hands. Put the little snowmen together with toothpicks. The largest circle is the base, the medium one the body, and the smallest is the head. Use cloves for eyes, nose, and mouth.

Show Green Bottles Aid in Keeping Fruit Juices

Experiments have shown that fruit juices stored in green glass bottles keep their color and improve in flavor. Grass-green bottles also help to keep milk sweet. A particular shade of green, the grass-green, and black are the only colors so far discovered that keep out the light rays which promote spoilage in food.

LEG OF VEAL IS RECOMMENDED AS ECONOMICAL BUY

The committee on marketing information of the Meat Council of Chicago yesterday issued the following report for the guidance of housewives purchasing meat in Chicago retail meat stores:

"Roast leg of veal is recommended to housewives as an unusually economical meat buy in Chicago meat stores over the coming week-end. Pot roast of beef and meat for beef stews also are selling at attractive price levels."

FLORIDA FREEZE TO RAISE PRICES ON SOME FRUITS

Winter Foods Are Among Week's Bargains.

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

Increases in prices of a few fresh fruits and vegetables will soon begin to show up in Chicago as a result of recent freezes that wilted and killed crops in winter gardens and groves in Florida. Every year truckers and fruit growers gamble with the weather in their effort to produce fresh, perishable crops in the winter gardens of the south. Florida growers are expected to lose heavily on their early winter garden crops and citrus fruits which were being produced for early winter market.

Early estimates of the damage caused by the Florida freeze indicate that in some counties 80 to 100 per cent of the tangerine crop has been destroyed. The tangerine has a thin skin and is more susceptible to damage from cold weather than other citrus fruits. Oranges also were damaged by the freeze in Florida, but not as extensively as was the tangerine crop.

Damaged Fruit to Be Culled.

Florida shippers have promised Chicago buyers that the damaged fruit will be culled out before the fruit is shipped. If the damage in the Florida citrus groves is as serious as early reports indicate, market experts expect a shortage of tangerines for the Christmas holidays.

It is reported that thousands of acres of vegetables were killed by the unusually low temperatures in Florida within the last week. Green beans, cucumbers, green peppers, and spinach are among outdoor garden crops that were heavily damaged.

A survey made yesterday of the retail stores in the city and surrounding suburbs revealed that so far no appreciable changes in the price of fruit. But on the green vegetable counters in many stores such items as green beans were nearly double in price, as compared to a week ago. Spinach is also higher as a result of the Florida freeze. Citrus fruit coming from other parts of the country is helping to keep down prices of oranges and similar fruits.

Cold Changes Eating Habits.

The freak cold wave that recently hit Chicago and left the city under a blanket of snow is changing the eating habits of consumers, who are turning to such heat producing foods as potatoes, hominy, dry and canned beans, and meats and to the heavier breakfast foods, including pancakes, sausage, bacon, ham, and eggs.

Many of these foods are to be found on the lists of the lower priced foods that will be offered today and tomorrow. In many stores shoppers will find on sale during the next two days such articles as crackers, broccoli, cauliflower, flour, sugar, certain cuts of meats, bananas, beans, and corn.

A 24½ pound sack of flour will be from 5 to 8 cents a bag less than it was a week ago in many stores.

Sugar a Fraction Lower.

The price to be asked for sugar today and tomorrow is a fraction of a cent a pound less than it was this time last week. Bananas are about 1 cent a pound off. Retailers generally are asking about ½ cent less for grapefruit. On the canned goods bargain counters pork and beans, corn, and corned beef are to be found in some stores.

Meat shops in many parts of the city and in several suburbs are offering at lower prices than a week ago fresh loin, chops, and roasts of pork; chops, cutlets, and leg roasts of veal; medium quality steaks and roasts of beef, and fresh fish, such as trout, perch, and herring.

Best Cuts of Beef Cost More.

The best quality cuts of beef are higher in many shops. Within a few days lamb prices are expeced to be higher, in line with the advance in the wholesale market. The price of head lettuce is about the same per head, but the quality is not as high as it has been within recent weeks. Some stores are asking a few cents a pound more for eating apples, while others have not raised their prices in line with the wholesale advances. Supplies of Jonathans are running low, but storage houses are beginning to come out with Winesap apples, which are not expected to be as high in price as the Jonathans have been.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

Thick, sticky liquids or sirup, such as molasses, corn sirup, or honey, should be poured into the measuring spoon from the container or from another spoon. Dipping the measuring spoon into such liquids causes too much to cling to the under side of the spoon.

VALUE OF PEANUT AS AID TO MENU TOLD BY EXPERT

Quality of Protein Is Superior to Wheat.

Pointing out that peanuts, of which there were 1,050,000,000 pounds produced in the United States this year, are legumes like peas and beans, Miss Aneta Beadle, Purdue university nutritionist, recommends that they be included in menus.

"The quality of the protein in peanuts is superior to that of wheat and when used to supplement wheat protein, it makes a particularly nutritious combination," says Miss Beadle. "The peanut also has other food values such as fat, is a rich source of vitamin B, and will also supply phosphorus and iron."

Two Types in U. S.

Two types, the Virginia and Spanish, are grown in this country. The Spanish peanut is much smaller and more oily than the Virginia, with a kernel more nearly round. The best peanut butter is made up of a mixture of the two types. The nuts are roasted, blanched to remove the skins, and the "heart" or germ is removed to prevent the butter from becoming rancid too easily. They are put through the grinder and about 3 per cent of salt is added. That is the only ingredient, other than the nuts themselves, in peanut butter.

Sandwich Filling.

One popular sandwich filling is peanut butter, or finely ground peanuts moistened with a little milk, mixed with chopped raw carrots or onions. Another good combination is peanut butter or ground nuts with chopped raisins, prunes or dried apricots.

She recommends the following recipe for the use of peanuts, or peanut butter:

Peanut Biscuits.

2 cups sifted flour
¾ teaspoon salt
4 teaspoons baking powder
4 tablespoons peanut butter, or ½ cup ground peanuts
2 tablespoons fat
Milk

Sift the dry ingredients, and rub the fat and peanut butter or ground peanuts into the flour with the tips of the fingers. Make a well in this dry mixture and, stirring from the center, add slowly enough milk to make a soft dough. Knead slightly and pat to about one-half inch thickness on a lightly floured board, and cut in rounds. Bake in a hot oven [400 deg. F.] for 12 to 15 minutes or until light brown. Serve at once.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

Decorating the Christmas tree is more fun when the decorations are home made and edible ones. Strings of popcorn and candied cranberries, confetti popcorn balls, and cookie stars are applicants.

DISEASE LURKS IN UNDERCOOKED AND RAW PORK

Trichinosis Is Fatal in Numerous Cases.

To eat raw or undercooked pork is to run the risk of a dangerous and sometimes fatal disease known as trichinosis. Cases of this disease have been rather frequent in recent years, yet it is easily avoided by strictly avoiding pork in all forms that has not been thoroughly cooked.

Trichinosis is caused by a tiny worm, too small to be seen without a microscope, which lives in the flesh of infected hogs, and if not killed by cooking infects the person eating the meat from these animals. Trichinosis affects persons of either sex and all ages, regardless of nationality. Recent studies by the University of Minnesota show that the infection is much more common than has been supposed.

While a light infestation is often manifested merely by intestinal pains and diarrhea, with a light fever, heavier infestation results in serious and long continued illness and not infrequently in death.

Most cases of trichinosis seem to result from the eating of uncooked summer sausages and raw or imperfectly cooked smoked meats, though any part of an infested animal is equally dangerous. Ham should be cooked the equivalent of at least an hour in boiling water for each four pounds. Other cuts should be given an equally thorough cooking.

AMERICANS FAIL TO MAKE USE OF CHEESE AS FOOD

Consumption Fraction of That Abroad.

Americans have never taken full opportunity to improve their diet by the use of cheese, averaging only about four and one-fourth pounds annually for each person in this country. In Switzerland the average individual yearly consumption of cheese is approximately twenty-six pounds, while in other European countries it will vary from eight to fourteen pounds.

Of the long list of cheeses which may be purchased for holdiday meals, a few of the more common include:

Cheddar, or American, which originated in Cheddar, England.

Swiss, or Emmenthal, originated in Switzerland, but also made in this country.

Edam, a Holland cheese, recognized by its spherical shape and red jacket.

Bergquara, a Swedish variety similar to Gouda cheese, which is made both in Holland and in this country.

Pineapple cheese, originated in Connecticut.

Limburger, developed in Belgium, but now made in the United States. The characteristic flavor is caused by bacterial fermentation of the protein.

Brick cheese, an American product with a flavor midway between Limburger and Cheddar.

Roquefort, developed in France and originally made from sheep's milk.

Stilton, an English cheese with a piquant flavor caused by a green mold which develops in the cheese during curing.

Isigny, the result of an American attempt to reproduce the French Camembert. It is a few degrees stronger than Limburger in flavor.

In addition there are many kinds of processed cheese sold under various trade names. Most of them are made by grinding ripened cheese, adding a small amount of moisture and pasteurizing to produce a smooth, plastic mass.

DON'T LET CHILD PASS UP FATHER IN YULE GIVING

He Really Does Feel Hurt if Left Out.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

"O, never mind about me, I don't care about presents," the father of the family is quite apt to say when one of the children pesters him about what he wants for Christmas. I've heard them protest that, quite vehemently.

But don't take them at their word. They think they mean it, but deep down in their hearts they feel hurt if they draw a blank when the big day comes—like the mother who warned all her children, "Now don't send me any flowers, or candy, or anything on Mother's day. I don't believe in those observances. I know you love me and that's enough"—and then when Mother's day came with no remembrance of any kind went around nursing in secret her injured feelings. Too many men have a little sore spot way off out of sight where they sometimes refer to themselves as "only the provider," or "only a meal ticket"—a feeling sometimes, alas, justified, but just as often not.

It's always hard to think of things to give the man of the family, but help the children to do so and don't let them overlook him, first for his sake and second, for the sake of the feeling they have for him, which should have expression in "doing" for him.

As this is to be a day of miscellaneous suggestions, let me now add the next one:

Decorate your house early this year, or put up a week or so ahead of time some at least of the bells, or ropes, or wreaths that give the house that festive "before Christmas" look. This means a lot to the children and is better than making it part of the Christmas eve scramble when there are always too many things to be done.

Suggestion three is especially for those children who are clever or really talented artistically. Let them make some of their own Christmas cards. They can either create their own simple designs or else get ideas by looking over cards in the stores. When all is said and done, not the bizarre and snappy but the traditional is most satisfying at Christmas time.

What is, after all, lovelier than stars, and skies, and evergreen trees, and candles, and snow? Cards or drawing paper cut to taste, crayons or paints [preferably tempera or poster colors], brushes, or pencil, or pen and ink with perhaps gold or silver colored papers are the materials to choose from. Don't criticize if the results are crude—the important thing is that they are their own handiwork and the fruit of their own effort.

Direction for making Christmas cards will be sent on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

WOMAN YAWNS FOR 100TH HOUR; UNABLE TO EAT

Round Grove, Ill., Dec. 13.—(AP)—Suffering from exhaustion and hunger, Mrs. Harold McKee, farm housewife living near here, passed the 100 hours mark tonight with no sign of relief from the uninterrupted attack of yawning with which she was seized Sunday at 4 p. m.

Dr. H. L. Petit, her physician, and consultants from nearby towns declared today the case is unparalleled in medical journals to their knowledge. It is similar to the more common spells of protracted hiccoughing and probably was induced, they said, by extreme nervous strain.

Hour after hour the yawns have followed, one as fast as that preceding is completed, at the rates of 10 to 12 per minute, Dr. Petit said. Mild sedatives and exercise of will power failed to bring relief. Mrs. McKee cannot eat. When she tries to swallow the yawns choke her and even the administration of strong opiates has been only partially successful in inducing sleep."

RAZOR BLADE IN JOHNNY'S TUMMY DOES A "JONAH"

SOUTH SHIELDS, England, Dec. 13.—(AP)—John George Hunter, 10, played with a safety razor blade in school today. He swallowed it.

John George told his teacher, who sent him home with a companion. On the way the boy confided in a policeman, who hurried the lad to the infirmary.

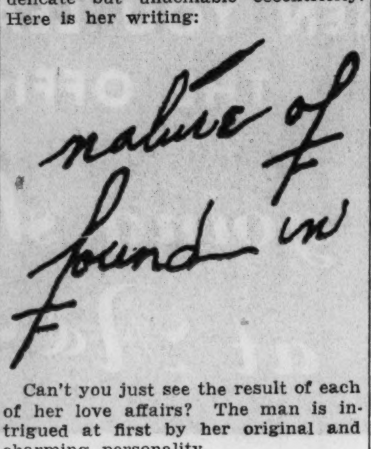
An X-ray revealed the blade in John George's "tummy." While doctors made careful preparations for a difficult operation John George became sick at his stomach. Up came the blade.

Handwriting Explains Failures of This Bright Girl's Romances

BY MURIEL STAFFORD.

She said, in a troubled voice, "It is strange that I can never seem to get along with a man for very long. There have been three in whom I've been definitly interested. Yet they lost interest in me and I don't know why."

After a brief study of her handwriting I felt sorry for her and for each of the men whom she had mentioned. She was so clever, so unusual, so individual that the total result was a delicate but undeniable eccentricity. Here is her writing:



Can't you just see the result of each of her love affairs? The man is intrigued at first by her original and charming personality.

She is responsive, intelligent and "different." As you can see, she has a sincere and idealistically affectionate nature, although there is much reserve. But the letter "f," the letter "d," the "t" crossing all betray an innate eccentricity. She expresses herself unusually in everything she says or does. She can't help it.

Each man likes the unusual at first. It attracts him. He feels that is a superficial allure, put on for his special benefit, and he is flattered. When he finds that this is not so, that eccentricity is part of the woman's very self, he is disconcerted and perplexed. He doubts her sincerity. His interest lags. He turns to some one whose manner of thinking he can comprehend.

Eccentricity is much more common in the handwriting of women than in that of men, for men are both direct and conventional as a rule. They expect women to be puzzling, of course, but not to the point of eccentricity.

And so another romance tumbles and the eccentric, unusually clever person wonders why the very things that seemed to attract him at first make him irritable and impatient after a few months of association.

If some one attracts you by unusual personality, you'd better look for signs of eccentricity before you become too deeply involved.

It may save you much unpleasantness and perplexity later on. There is just one rule. An eccentric style of writing with repeatedly eccentric letter formations such as the letter "f" in today's specimen always indicates eccentricity to some degree. Don't expect to understand these people. Just take them as they are. Often, too, you will discover many fine qualities underlying the eccentricity, as in the handwriting illustrated.

POPULARITY MAY THWART CHANCE OF MATRIMONY

Girl Should Concentrate on Choice.

BY DORIS BLAKE.

The girl has had attention from men all her grown years. They've been nice men. She's had a grand time, rarely missed a dance or other function she wanted to attend. Escorts always were handy. But lately the story is changed a bit. Some of the old pals have married. The others are engaged. She, who was the most popular, has neither ring nor hope of one. It's not so easy getting a chap to spend on her now. And she's running up against "propositions" that she never met in the earlier years, and which are extremely distasteful. Married men, even, suggest that she's been around et cetera.

So runs the not unfamiliar tale of the popular belle who let the good years slide by without concentrating on one good capture. It's the tale of a girl who wanted beaus and lots of them rather than one good old reliable with whom she'd share family responsibilities. It's a common happening that this type of maid finds herself still groping around while her contemporaries have themselves comfortably installed in slick little apartments or suburban settings. It's all right if she's the kind of girl who can laugh and say: "Oh, well, I had my day." But girls used to attention are not well equipped either in humor or fortitude to meet the crisis.

The moral is to make up your mind, girls, when you are of the desirable age, whether you want to marry or whether your idea of success is to have all kinds of beaus floating around. If you want to marry you'll concentrate on one so that he, in turn, may concentrate on you. That is, of course, after he's given you the necessary encouragement. Everybody's sweetheart may be a nice professional handle for a movie star, but men somehow seem to require personal attention to be convinced into marriage.

SOCIETY WOMEN LOSE BERMUDA SUFFRAGE FIGHT

HAMILTON, Bermuda, Dec. 13.—(AP)—Two society suffragettes have lost the first round of their fight against "taxation without representation."

Mrs. W. E. Tucker and her sister, Mrs. Henry Lockward, refused to pay parish dues because, as women, they did not have the right to vote.

This morning they were arraigned in Magistrate's court. Still refusing to settle the tax bill, they were given until noon to make payment or be sentenced to one month's imprisonment for contempt of court.

At the last moment the bishop of Bermuda, the Rt. Rev. A. H. Browne, came forward to pay Mrs. Tucker's indebtedness and Dr. W. E. Tucker paid up for Mrs. Lockward.

Women Will Test Skill of British Female Autoists

LONDON, Dec. 13.—(AP)—Women examiners henceforth will conduct driving tests for women motorists in England. The new highway code demands that all motorists who have taken out licenses since April shall pass new tests of efficiency. About 200 examiners will be appointed, the women's salaries ranging from about $1,000 to $1,100, slightly lower than the salaries for male inspectors.

Hold Assembly Tonight; Event of Social Year

institute between 3 and 5:30 this afternoon. The institute is to have a reception marking the rearrangement of the painting galleries, including important recent additions and several temporary exhibitions.

Tea tables, attractively decorated with lovely linens, silver, and flowers, will be spread in each one of the galleries and members of organizations that take an active interest in the institute will preside at them. Mrs. Joseph Medill Patterson, Mrs. Walter S. Brewster, and Mrs. James Ward Thorne, representing the Antiquarian society of the Art institute, and Mrs. Howard C. Phillips, Mrs. Alfred E. Hamill, and Mrs. John W. Gary, representing the Fortnightly, will take turns pouring tea at the table in gallery 25.

In gallery 48 there will be Mrs. Charles W. Dempster, Mrs. John U. Nef, and Miss Lucie Hartrath of the Arts club; Mrs. Charles S. Reed, Mrs. John Shaw Broeksmit, and Mrs. Grant H. Laing of the Contemporary club, and Mrs. John Paul Welling, Mrs. William G. Hibbard, and Mrs. Edward L. Hasler of the Friday club.

Another exhibition that will attract some of the city's most distinguished patrons of art this afternoon will be the private showing of the original etchings of Redmond Stephens Wright from 3 to 6 o'clock in the Albert Roullier galleries at 410 South Michigan avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Wright (the former Glee Louise Viles) are in the city at the Ambassador East until Monday, when they will go back to New York. Before the Assembly tonight they will dine as the guests of Dr. and Mrs. Arthur Bissell.

Howard-Blair Engagement Told.

Yesterday from Philadelphia came the announcement by Mrs. William Wilkins Carr of the engagement of her daughter, Mrs. Helene Martin Howard of Lake Forest, to William Mitchell Blair of Chicago, son of Mrs. Chauncey J. Blair of New York, formerly of Chicago.

The announcement, while of great interest, is not a surprise to any of their friends for Mr. Blair's devotion to the stepdaughter of Mrs. William P. Martin has been well known. Mrs. Howard, who with her youngest child, a son, is living at the Whitehall this winter, was divorced from her first husband, Joseph Poett Howard Jr. of San Francisco. They have two other children, Helena and Joan, who are in school in San Mateo, Cal.

Mr. Blair belongs to one of Chicago's oldest and best known families. His mother, born a Mitchell, sister of the late John J. Mitchell, and her daughter, Italia, Marquise d'Ivanrey, who recently landed in New York, will be in Chicago next month en route to California.

Mr. Blair's first wife was the former Martha Granger, who now lives in Washington with their two sons, Bobby and Billy. The boys are coming to Chicago on the 29th for a week's visit with their father. Mrs. Howard and Mr. Blair plan to be married in the spring.

Two Debutantes Will Bow Today.

Two debut teas are on the calendar today. Miss Louise Parsons, daughter of Mr. and William E. Parsons, and Miss Mildred Gloria Starck, daughter of the Philip T. Starcks, are the buds. Mr. and Mrs. Parsons are presenting their daughter between 4 and 7 o'clock at the Fortnightly, and the Starcks and their daughter will receive their friends at the same time in their Wellington avenue home. This evening Mr. and Mrs. Starck have invited about 100 of the debutante set for dinner and dancing. also at home.

Mrs. Louis A. Ruehl, Miss Starck's grandmother, will receive with her and her parents.

Miss Cornelia Conger gave a luncheon at the Casino yesterday for Miss Parsons, who has just returned from her studies at the Yale School of Fine Arts.

To the clarion call of a calliope several hundred merrymakers will arrive at the Dixiana showboat tonight at 8:15 to witness an old fashioned melodrama. The evening will benefit the Infant Welfare society. The Kenwood Social Service club is sponsoring the party.

The Burt J. Denmans are opening their large Wilmette home this evening for a dinner for the Northwestern university associates and their wives. The associates gather three or four times each year for dinner and a discussion of university matters. The party this evening will be the first of this academic year. After dinner Dean Addison Hibbard will speak on the educational plan of the college of liberal arts.

Many north shore families interested in the university will attend the Northwestern charity carnival this evening at the Aragon ballroom. Both Charles and Rufus Dawes will be there and so will Mr. and Mrs. William A. Dyche and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Gonser.

The year will reach an interesting close today for the council on foreign relations. At noon it is to have a luncheon in the Red Lacquer room of the Palmer house for Bernard Fay, professor of American civilization at the College of France, who will speak on the new alignment in French politics. In the absence of Dr. Walter Lichtenstein, president, Adlai Stevenson will introduce Prof. Fay.

Clarkes Will Open Home for Benefits.

Mr. and Mrs. Harley L. Clarke are opening their Evanston home at 2603 Sheridan road this afternoon and again this evening for bridge parties for the benefit of the Evanston branch of the Chicago Junior school. Mrs. Andrew Collins, president of the branch, will assist Mrs. Clarke as hostess.

Because the first oyster bar buffet dinner and dance some weeks ago at the Glen View club was such a success there is to be a second this evening, beginning with dinner at 7:30 o'clock. This will consist mostly of oysters prepared in a number of delectable ways and appropriate side dishes.

It's Ladies' night tonight at the Union League club, with Mrs. Harold Ickes, wife of the secretary of the interior, coming for dinner. About 500 members and guests will hear Mrs. Ickes speak after dinner on "The Southwest Indian."

Boys' Clubs Will Enjoy Annual Jamboree Tonight

There's a rollicking good time in store for boys, big and little, rich and poor, this evening in the gymnasium of the Chicago Athletic club where the Athletic club and the Chicago Boys' club are joining forces for the Boys' club's annual jamboree.

WINNIE WINKLE, THE BREADWINNER: Keeping Things Quiet with a Bang

CONQUERING CONTRACT

By P. HAL SIMS

SUBSTITUTING AN END PLAY FOR A FINESSE.

You have often heard that the expert player seeks to avoid finesses. Some of them carry this too far and will sometimes mess up the play of a hand rather than take a finesse, which they could well afford to take, or even could afford to lose. Do not go to this extreme, but give real thought to the possibility of avoiding an unnecessary finesse, or better, ask yourself whether you can substitute a squeeze or an end play. The following hand was beautifully played by Ed Goddard, my neighbor here on the New Jersey coast, who assists me in my teachers' conferences and is one of the leading figures in all New Jersey bridge activities. He also occupies a leading position in most of the tournaments in which he participates.

North:

West:

♣K-10-8-7

South:

♦J-9-x-x
♣A-J-9-x

North [Mr. Goddard] bid a diamond in third position; East overcalled with a spade. South passed, the bidding having been kept open for North, who bid two diamonds. East passed and South bid three diamonds. North now "took the strain" by bidding five diamonds, a very fine decision. Plainly South's raise was based on some high card or cards in clubs as well as good diamond support. Three no trumps looks tempting—but after all, the spade stopper will be knocked out immediately and if there is a diamond finesse to be taken, it will be into the hand with the long spades. Moreover, that finesse is likely to lose, as East has overcalled in a suit which he lacks both king and queen. The play will be under much better control in diamonds than in no trumps, even though it means taking two more tricks. All passed the five diamond contract.

THE PLAY.

East opened with the ace of spades and then played a small one. Declarer saw that the club finesse could and must be taken once against the king. This is a necessary finesse, but the diamond finesse—likely to be a loser anyway on the bidding—could be avoided. He therefore started to strip the hand first by playing the two high hearts. When the queen fell he switched to clubs, finessing the jack. He next trumped the third spade, then led out the ace of trumps, abandoning any idea of the finesse. Next he led a small heart. East, however, did not trump with his king; so dummy ruffed. Now a small trump is led from dummy, forcing East into the lead. Now he is hooked—either he must lead a spade, enabling declarer to ruff in dummy and throw off his own small club, or East must lead away from his K-10 of clubs into tenace position formed by the ace-nine in dummy and the queen small in North's hand. This is perfect play following perfect bidding. I want you to notice how declarer took the necessary finesse in clubs but avoided the trump finesse. Had he taken the latter finesse he would have lost it and been set, as East would still have an outcard in the small trump, therewith to escape the end play. Incidentally, the strip play here is a double strip, as he strips not only his own hand and dummy's, but also East's hand, in setting the stage for the final "coup de grace." East is compelled to wreck the defense by means of his trump trick; the guarded king of trumps becomes an instrument employed by the declarer.

Art Institute Opens Special Exhibits Today

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

The Art institute is opening this afternoon the first of a series of winter exhibitions in the galleries which last summer displayed A Century of Progress paintings.

The first of the new exhibits is a diversified show, planned something after the fashion of a book of short stories in which each episode grips the attention and still the different chapters assume a logical character after the last page is turned. These opening exhibits are complete in themselves, yet manage to be strung on the same string of timely interest.

The first, and perhaps the most important, chapter in the series is that found in the first of the temporary galleries where has been installed a magnificent group of murals, oils and water colors by John Norton, whose death a year ago is still deplored by all who knew him and his work.

It is a stunning show. The murals from Logan museum in Beloit, Wis., are brilliant. They depict the life in the Polar regions, ice, snow, men in furs— a Rockwell Kent done with infinite sympathy.

The several portraits are most interesting, particularly the lovely girl in brown and the portrait of Thomas Tallmadge with architecture suggested even in the lines which build up his chin and mouth. The water colors of Mr. Norton are in a group by themselves and as exciting and able as any ever executed by John Whorf, Winslow Homer or any other master of the medium.

The next two galleries on either hand are devoted to modern paintings from the Wanamaker collection in one, and the Hamilton Easter Field collection in the other. There is nothing of vast moment here though the "Tow Path" by John Folinsbee is stunning and the "Two Girls" by Raphael Soyer is a capital bit of character delineation.

The large and hugely diverting exhibit of drawings and prints reflecting political trends of the last eighty years is worth close attention. Nast was the first important cartoonist. Civil war cartoons and many since then, showing the Republicans and Democrats repeatedly at odds, are chuckle-producing.

The Chicago Camera club stands sponsor for the extraordinarily good showing made in the International Salon of Photography. There are many beautiful and brilliant prints here.

The collection of modern German and Austrian textiles, held up by the customs but arriving at the last moment in time to be hung for the opening today, is in the last gallery of the east wing.

Christmas Flower Show Will Open December 22

The 24th annual Christmas flower show to be held in the Garfield park conservatory will open Dec. 22 and continue through Jan. 6, August Koch, chief horticulturist for the west division of the Chicago park district, announced yesterday. The exhibits will be in two divisions, one arranged as an informal English garden and the other presenting a variety of winter blooms.

Elephants Act Battle Scenes and Enjoy Them

And Horses Don't Appear to Fear Pachyderms.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Dec. 13.—[Special.]—The old cry of "hold your horses, the elephants are coming" does not appear to have been founded on fact. At least film horses were not afraid of elephants during filming of scenes representing the battle of Plassey, India, for the Twentieth Century production "Clive of India," starring Ronald Colman.

After taking the scene five times last night the score was: Horses, 5; elephants, 0.

The battle depicted a cavalry charge by English Sepoys into a vast array of fighting elephants led by French troops and native Indian rajahs. The elephants were fitted up as their grandparents had been back in 1760, which is the era depicted. The animals carried large howdahs on their backs, in each of which were four or five men equipped with spears and lances.

Each elephant's head was protected by a sheet of armor from which protruded a large spike. Around each elephant's front ankles were steel rings set with protruding spikes.

The cavalry merely carried swords. During the battles of that period it was the object of charging cavalrymen to swing swords on the elephants' legs, cutting the huge tendons and stampeding the herd.

As the formidable array of pachyderms came rumbling toward the cameras on the movie lot, Loretta Young, who was a spectator, started frantically to figure the intricate steps up a telephone pole. Her worst fears were not realized, however, due to the elephants' fine instinct for acting and the heroic charge of the Sepoy cavalry (really Hollywood cowboys), 150 strong.

The cavalry galloped, yelling, into the advancing elephant herd. Spears flew from the men in the howdahs and they had to be thrown carefully in order to miss the struggling horsemen. The shouting cavalrymen slashed with dulled swords at the legs of the bellowing brutes. A couple of horses became frightened, reared and threw their riders, and one elephant also reared in the air, tossing out the men in his howdah.

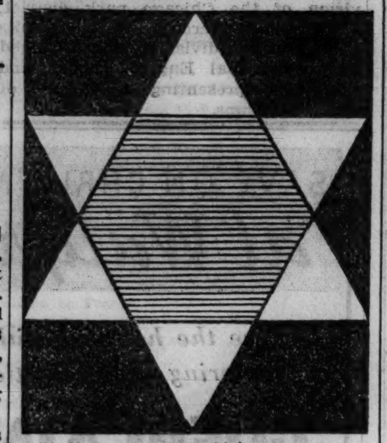
While men yelled, elephants trumpeted and anxious spectators, who were mostly workers in the studio, scampered for safety; a literal minded hotdog purveyor grabbed his cart and tore for higher ground. The "battle" lasted 15 minutes and when the "takes" were finished several men lay on the ground, thrown from howdahs or horses while riderless horses and elephants milled about anxiously turning their heads in the direction of shouting trainers.

The battle of Plassey was fought five different times during the night for the cameras but not a man was injured more than a severe shaking up. Buddy Roosevelt, who used to be a cowboy film star in his own right, led the 150 picked horsemen.

The elephants were the best behaved actors on the lot. They proved troublesome only during rehersals when they were led over the battlefield "set" to acquaint them with the ground and started to munch on the "scenery" of tropical looking bushes and trees which had been set out.

All the elephants used were females with apparently no movie ambitions. They had arrived in box cars from the Al Barnes winter quarters, forty miles outside of Los Angeles and were shipped back after the fifth "take."

Star Quilt Block First Pieced in Wisconsin Town



Star of Bethlehem.

BY NANCY CABOT.

The original "Star of Bethlehem" is considered the acme of the art of pieced work and always is recognized by a star of eight points. The "Star of Bethlehem" presented today has the same name. It is much younger, however; it was pieced in a small Wisconsin town eighty-five years ago, while the original "star" quilt is well over 100 years old. This new "Star of Bethlehem" has traveled widely since its birth in the middle west and is frequently found in the east and is wending its way westward.

Patterns of this quilt design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, One South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower.

Chicago's Teachers to Present Annual "Scandals" Tonight

Chicago school teachers will present the 1934 edition of "School Scandals," a musical review built about the troubles and joys of a teacher's life, at the Studebaker theater tonight.

The book, written by Miss Anne Mulligan, English teacher in Crane Technical High school, concerns the happiness that came to the teachers when $22,000,000 in back pay was set before them last August, and is subtitled "What They Did with It."

A cast of fifty, drilled in dance routine and musical numbers by Slater Brockman for the last six weeks, will appear in the review. The cast is composed entirely of teachers and school executives, and includes an assistant principal, Albert H. Goodrich of the Amundsen High school. The production is being sponsored by the Chicago Teachers' federation.

Sigma Chi Delegates Will Open Convention Tomorrow

Undergraduate problems will be discussed at a two day meeting of 28 chapter delegates of Sigma Chi collegiate fraternities from the middle western province, which will open at the Stevens hotel tomorrow. John T. McCutcheon, TRIBUNE cartoonist, and Judge William V. Brothers will speak at a banquet Saturday, to be presided over by L. A. Downs, president of the Illinois Central railroad.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Dec. 13.—[Special.]—The Spanish ambassador and Senora de Cardenas were special guests at the lecture given tonight by the Spanish consul in Chicago, Don Sebastian Romero Redigales, who is their guest at the embassy. The Washington chapter of the Institute de Las Espanos attended the lecture in a body. The consul chose for his subject the Spanish painter Goyos and showed slides of his most famous paintings.

The Forgotten Honeymoon

BY ROY VICKERS

SYNOPSIS.

Rhoda Cornboise's engagement to Maj. Ralph Stornack is arranged by her ambitious mother. Rhoda is in love with Colin Briarley, who is serving sentence unjustly for the murder of a Canadian solicitor in a London night club. Chief witness against Colin was Stornack, who was the solicitor's host. Jack Caermaen, an old pal of Colin's, is his warder. Caermaen takes Colin's place as prisoner, allowing Colin to use his week's vacation. Rhoda elopes with Colin on the eve of her marriage to Stornack. After a brief honeymoon Colin returns to prison. Rhoda returns home and feigns a lapse of memory. To admit her marriage would be fatal for Caermaen. Her mother besieges her to marry Stornack, who is still willing. He and his confederates know she has inherited the fortune of a Canadian relative. The solicitor had come to London to tell her of it. Caermaen has his solicitor, Jarroman, investigate Stornack. Rhoda is placed under her mother's charge by court order. Mrs. Cornboise takes Rhoda to France, where the son of Rhoda and Colin is born. The baby is left there when they return to London. Caermaen arranges to get Colin out of prison again for a few days. Rhoda flies with Colin to see their son. Mrs. Cornboise sees Colin and penetrates the mystery of his excursion from jail. She threatens to expose Caermaen if Rhoda doesn't marry Stornack. Colin again changes places with Caermaen and arrives in time to rescue Rhoda after she has married Stornack. Colin forces Stornack to make a written confession that he killed the solicitor, and obtains the papers from him which Rhoda had signed, transferring her fortune to him. Stornack admits the marriage was a fake. Colin allows him twelve hours to get away. Then he and Rhoda go after Stornack's confederates, Leningway and Galston and obtain confessions from them of their part in the crime. Colin returns to Mardlehurst prison, where a riot has broken out. After the trouble subsided some of the prisoners were transferred to another jail, among them Caermaen. Rhoda brings the confessions to Jarroman, who obtains Colin's pardon. The prisoners are transferred back to Mardlehurst.

INSTALMENT XLVII.

THE WRONG PRISONER.

Jack was passed through the office back again to the prison van—a solitary passenger between two warders.

It was worth playing up until the last moment, just on the chance that Colin might be able to do something. But he now had little hope.

Colin—himself—Rhoda! A triangle of ruin and misery. And all because of Stornack.

"If I ever get free again I've a damned good mind to take a pot at Stornack on my own account. And then one for Colin and one for Rhoda. The old service revolver might come in useful to put one double-eyed scoundrel under the earth."

He was sitting between two warders in the big van. They were inclined to be friendly. Now if the ordinary warder sometimes breaks the service regulations, as often as not he does it out of sheer kindliness. They both lit cigarets—which was against the rules. Having broken them once, they broke them again—and offered the prisoner one.

"Thanks very much!" And then at a wild venture: "Anything exciting happening in the great world from which we are cut off for our misdeeds against society?"

The two warders laughed.

"You talk like a book. No one's said anything to you, have they?"

"I don't know what you mean, sir."

"What about letting him see the paper, George?"

"No. Better not. He'd give it away with his face, whereas he won't say nothing about that fag."

They both knew, or rather thought they knew, who he was. And although Caermaen knew that he must tread very carefully.

no authoritative statement had as yet appeared in the Press, there was enough for any sane man to infer that Colin Briarley was to receive a pardon.

Their mysterious allusion to a paper drew Jack's thoughts back to Colin. If Colin had known—if Colin had guessed—that the revolver was there——

"It sounds as if there's been an exciting murder from what you've just said!" he tried.

"No harm in telling him the murder. Ever heard of a bloke called Stornack—Maj. Stornack?"

Jack Caermaen caught his breath.

"I thought you had! Special pal of yours, wasn't he, unless my memory is playing me a trick?"

Caermaen knew that he must tread very carefully.

"You've guessed it," he said. "But I don't suppose I'm the only one in jug who thinks he oughtn't to be there."

"I'm not saying anything about that. But you were asking about an exciting murder—well, your friend Stornack has conked out."

"Good God!"

"He got three right through the heart. In Calais it was. He got the wind up over something and tried to get out of the country. And some one went with him—it looks as if they met him quite by chance—like when he landed at Calais. Shot him three times, with all the customs officials and dock police looking on. . . . What's the matter, mate? Feeling faint?"

"I'm all right," gasped Caermaen. "Did the fellow who shot him get away?"

"Clean walked through them all and disappeared."

So Colin had thought of the revolver! And killed Stornack. Caermaen was puzzled by the allusion to Calais. How could it have happened that they were at Calais? He tried one or two questions but the warders would tell him no more.

Arrived at Mardlehurst, the Durham warders left him. He was passed through the gate into the prisoners' reception room. Here, by routine, he was checked off, which meant that he gave his name and number.

The assistant chief warder snapped his fingers impatiently and a junior handed him a dossier, which contained photographs, finger prints, and other particulars.

The assistant glanced at the photograph, then at Caermaen—then back again at the photograph.

"Now, then, what's the meaning of this?" he demanded sharply. "What's the game?"

"I don't think I understand, sir."

"You answered 'Number Eighty-seven, Colin Briarley.'"

"Yes, sir." Caermaen spoke boldly, but in his heart he was resigned to defeat.

"What are you in for?"

"Commuted death sentence, sir."

Another long look at the photograph and then at Caermaen himself.

"They've sent us the wrong man. And he's playing some game."

"I'm not playing any game, sir."

"Don't talk to me! Lock him up while I see the governor."

As he spoke, the assistant scowled at a warder who entered the office. The assistant did not know his face but since they had drafted in new warders this experience was not new to him.

The newly arrived convict was being marched away. The assistant was picking up the dossier to follow him when the new warder got in his way.

"I know that man, sir."

"Who is he?"

"His name's Jenkins. Pretty tough lot he was reckoned with us."

"Well, he's trying to play some game and I can't get to the bottom of it. He says he's Number Eighty-seven, Colin Briarley—one of ours. What I can't make out is, how your people have sent him along here by mistake.

"Fact is, sir, we always reckon he's a bit touched in the head. And he very soon gets violent and makes trouble. If you'd let me speak quietly to him in his cell for five or ten minutes I'd be able to get all the facts out of him."

"Right, we don't want any more trouble in here! Perhaps you'd better try."

"Thank you, sir," said Colin Briarley.

For the first time since the riot had broken out the governor was in a good temper. For it is a likable task to be able to tell a convict that he is virtually a free man. But the governor's good temper received a rude shock when the assistant saluted and stood to attention.

"Well, Gibbon?"

"Regarding Number Eighty-seven, returned here from Durham, sir."

"Yes?"

"They've sent the wrong man, sir."

The governor scowled.

"Are you sure?"

The governor bit back an exclamation about the competence of his colleague at Durham.

"All right! I'll speak on the telephone. Is the man they've sent us one of the draft that was sent to them?"

"Don't see how he can be, sir. The man seems to have known about the mistake but he swears he is Eighty-seven, name Colin Briarley. There'll be an insolence charge on that, sir.

"What have you done with him?"

"In cells, sir. One of the warders, one of the new ones, said he knew him and would get a statement from him—said he was a difficult man, sir. I understand the warder is in the cell with him now, sir."

"That's no use!" snapped the governor. "I'll take the convict's statement myself. Bring him here."

"Very good, sir!"

Arden Shore Benefit Party Jolly Success

Guests Have Good Time; Camp Gets Cash.

The Chicago committee of the Arden Shore association established a precedent last June by staging a benefit which not only was successful financially but was a joy and a delight to those who attended it. Some benefits are not, you know. Then the committee sponsored the opening of the Folies Bergere at the French Casino. The committee added to its reputation along this line last night when it sponsored the opening of the new show in the same place.

About one thousand persons attended the première of "Hello Paris, Hello Vienna," and as a consequence the summer camp at Lake Bluff, where hundreds of mothers and children from the congested areas of Chicago spend vacations each summer, will be richer by several thousand dollars.

One of the largest tables in the great room was a Dutch treat, one gotten up by Mrs. Ewing Webb, chairman of the Chicago committee, and Mrs. Norman Pritchard, publicity chairman, who had with them, in addition to their husbands, the Stuart Templetons, Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Adams, the John Doles, the Gordon Langs, the Albert Pattons, the Stanley Morrills, John J. Finlay, James Curtis, Robert Doyle, William Boyd, and Kenneth Hinks.

Mrs. Webb, a lovely brunette, was stunning in dark wine color velvet, and Mrs. Pritchard, a petite blonde, wore pale blue satin. All the ladies who were not wearing flowers when they entered had them soon after they were seated, for the busy flower and program venders were successful in selling corsages of gardenias and programs to all of the gentlemen.

Another very large party was one at which Mrs. Laird Bell was hostess. She was entertaining for two of the most popular buds of the season, Miss Deborah Butler and Miss Frances McPherson. Mrs. Bell sat at a small table with Victor Elting and the Thomas L. Marshalls, and the young people, including the Misses Ethel Johnston, Ellen Wacker, Nancy Doering, Frances Bell, and Gwendolyn Bowen, Prescott Bigelow, Montgomery Orr, John H. King, Byron Elting, Seymour Morris, Prescott Olmsted, and Gardiner B. Van Ness Jr., sat at a long table adjoining. Mr. Bell and the elder daughter of the family, Miss Helen Bell, missed the party, for they are in Washington for a brief visit.

Among others who enjoyed the party were Miss Helen Dawes, beautiful as usual in a gown of cloth of gold with a scarlet velvet sash with long ends, and escorted by Richard Burke. The Edward B. Smiths, Mr. and Mrs. Duncan Hodges, Miss Lois Truesdale, Mr. and Mrs. Robert S. Hotz and his mother, Mrs. Frederick T. Haskell, the Telfer MacArthurs, Paul Butler and Mrs. Stresenreuter Butler, Miss Suzanne Morris and Newell Childs, who were with Miss Betty Alexander and Orville E. Babcock Jr.

Also Miss Martha Fitts, stunning in a period gown of wine color taffeta, who was with Robert Purchas; Miss Julianna Holmes, Gerald Webb Jr., Mr. and Mrs. James R. Offield.

Celebrate 25th Year of Allendale Mystery Play

The students of Allendale school for boys in Lake Villa, will present their annual Christmas mystery play tomorrow and Sunday afternoons in the Allendale chapel. The chief character in the play is that of a pilgrim seeking religion. He at last learns of the birth of Christ and is grateful in the success of his long quest. The play which was written and directed by Mrs. Maude Menefee Bradley, wife of Edward L. Bradley, founder and director of the school, is being given for the 25th year.

Tunic Blouses Spotlighted

WOMAN'S AND MISS' BLOUSE.

Tunic blouses are about the most popular item in wardrobes today, and no wonder, for they are exceedingly becoming. One can do several different things with this pattern. It may be made for informal wear or for formal parties, depending on the fabric used. The hip length is chic in wool jersey or velveteen for office, school, or college, or in a longer length in a bright woolen or pebbly crêpe. For formal wear the longer length will be stunning in gold metal crêpe, black velvet, or sapphire crêpe.

The pattern, No. 2595, comes in sizes 14, 16, and 18 years, and 36, 38, and 40 inches bust measure.

Deborah Club Makes 'Sale' of 65 Boys for Year

Sixty-five needy boys who live in Chicago's congested areas were assured of food, shelter, clothing, and schooling yesterday when they were "bought" for the next twelve months at the Deborah Women's club fête now in progress at the Congress hotel. At the "Buy a Boy Booth" they were subscribed for by 65 charity minded club members who guaranteed support of the boys at $10 a month. Proceeds of the fête go to the support of the Deborah Boys' club, which provides recreation and instruction for 1,600 boys annually.

Lecture Today.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

Any seasoned lover of the somewhat dingy but mellowly charming city of London can tell you about the venders who go through the streets crying, "Lavender, sweet lavender, who'll buy my sweet blooming lavender?" at the close of each summer just as their forbears have done for two centuries. Their annual appearance is as much a part of London life as the changing of the guard at Buckingham palace.

The quaint custom is typical of the enduring lure of the fragrance of lavender. It's a scent that pleases both women and men of all ages—perhaps because its charming sweetness is balanced by a refreshing crispness.

Things lavender, therefore, are perennially good Christmas gift items. For small, sweet remembrances to women don't overlook the new handkerchief sachets of compressed blossoms, cunning little squares of orchid tinted linen, with the sachet blossoms bunched into a ball in the center. The lavender is superior, both for its scent and for its lasting qualities as a sachet, and the cute little hankies will serve countless purposes. There are three to a box and they're delightfully inexpensive.

Then there are the stunning wicker wrapped decanters of fine lavender essence. Women use this as they would a perfume, a toilet water or a bath essence, and love it. The clean, lilting fragrance of it is as beguiling as a bouquet of freshly cut spring flowers.

Men like it, too. One woman we know bought the small size decanter for all the men on her Christmas list last year, and thereby won a flock of masculine hearts. Great big strong creatures who would slay you if you even intimated that they liked to use a sissy scent will acknowledge a fondness for this lavender without the slightest embarrassment. The fragrance is fresh but not feminine and a few drops of it, they tell us, top a shave to perfection.

We can tell you where to find these lavender charmers.

Bananas Join Milk in Sound Reducing Diet

Exercises Accompany Sane Scheme for Slimness.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

How's the silhouette behaving these days? Fitting neatly into the new svelte slipper-satin gown? Into the fur coat of last or the previous year?

Fur coats surely do make a lady look her pounds when pounds she looks. Not so? And winter coats aren't far behind in plump disclosures.

There's just no peace or good will on earth for the adipose collecter. In summer there's no topcoat to hide her hip-width shame. In winter the coat simply exaggerates it. So, it looks as if the humps and bumps and voluminous flesh folds have to be attacked directly, without looking for benefit from any season or dress style.

After all, this dieting business isn't what it used to be, period of harried nerves and empty stomachs and general irritability taken out on the family. Even the two food diets offered today are an infinite improvement over the hectic lambchop and pineapple régime of a few years back.

The banana and milk diet, with its permitted dinnertime meal of sufficient proportion for health maintenance, is upheld by scientific investigators, which was not the lot of certain earlier diets. Bananas and milk for breakfast, bananas and milk for lunch, and a dinner of lean meats, vegetables, salad, and light dessert isn't any starvation scheme. I see a friend whose excess weight is fading away neatly, not hurriedly, before my eyes on this régime. She's exercising along with it, as I hope is always done, but not violent exercising. In her case, just three good stretching exercises and a daily walk but a walk, not a saunter, is her exercise program. O, and lots of liquid intake during the day is important in this reducing program.

DOCTOR SAID SHE NEEDED "BULK" FOR HER CONSTIPATION*

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Brings Relief to Mrs. Maneely

Read the following unsolicited letter:

"Up to five years ago, I knew no end of suffering caused by constipation.* I used all kinds of laxatives but only found relief till I got used to them. My physician told me to get some Kellogg's ALL-BRAN, and instructed me how to use it.

"I did just as I was told by my doctor, and today I send my highest praise for what your ALL-BRAN has done for me."—Mrs. Jas. Maneely, Jr., 9 Kilburn St., Valley Falls, R. I.

Due to insufficient "bulk" in meals.*

ALL-BRAN provides gentle "bulk" to help overcome common constipation. It is also a good source of vitamin B and iron.

The "bulk" of ALL-BRAN is often more effective than the "bulk" in fruits and vegetables, as it does not break down within the body. Two tablespoonfuls daily are usually sufficient. If not corrected this way, see your doctor.

Isn't this food much pleasanter and safer than risking patent medicines? Get the red-and-green package at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

DUTRA SHOOTS 292 FOR FIRST IN MIAMI OPEN

Olin Survives Dive Into Canal.

Miami, Fla., Dec. 13.—(AP)—Recovering from shock after he and a dozen spectators were plunged into a canal when a bridge collapsed under their weight, Olin Dutra, national open champion, today won the $12,500 Miami-Biltmore open golf tournament with a seventy-two hole score of 292. His prize was $1,200.

Mike Turnesa of Elmsford, N. Y., posted a 294 for second place and won $1,000, while Orville White of St. Louis finished a stroke behind at 295 and collected $900.

Approximately fifty persons were on the bridge, situated near the seventeenth green, when it collapsed, hurling some of the spectators into five feet of water and throwing others onto the banks of the canal.

Dutra's Arm Wrenched.

Dutra was about half way across the structure, headed for the green, when the accident occurred. Timbers crashed and women in the gallery of 300 shrieked.

Sinking down to his knees in water, Dutra hung on to part of the railing and kept himself from becoming completely submerged. He said he wrenched his arm and while waiting for the excitement to subside he lay down on the green.

None of the spectators was caught under the falling bridge and none was seriously injured. A few scratches and a cold ducking were the extent of the casualties.

Needs Five; Takes Four.

With his nerves affected by the accident, Dutra needed three putts from the edge of the green for a five, one over par, making it necessary for him to take a par 5 on the last hole to nose out Turnesa.

The national open champion spanked out a long drive, but his second shot landed in a deep trap 175 yards from the green. With a masterful shot, he pitched to the edge of the carpet and then sank a 35 foot putt for a birdie 4 to win the tournament two strokes ahead of Turnesa.

Reaching the 54th hole in third position with 222 after leading the field from the start, Dutra posted a par-breaking 70 today in his final round. He was out in 33, two under par, and came back in 37.

Armour Shoots 298.

Dutra and White were entered in the first division of the tournament open to those pros who finished among the low 60s and ties in the last P. G. A. tournament and the low 30s and ties in the national open. Turnesa represented the second division, composed largely of pros who seldom or never participate in major tournaments.

Prizes in the first division aggregate $7,400, with top award of $1,200, and with 39 others ranging downward to $25. The second division had prizes totaling $5,000, with high award of $1,000, and with 42 others scaled down to $40.

Finishing a stroke behind White at 298 came Tommy Armour of Chicago who took a par 71 on his final round to win $700. He was a first division entry.

Abe Espinosa of Chicago, who tied with Turnesa at the 54th hole with 219 to lead the field, took a 39—41—80 for a 299. He won $500.

Maurrie O'Connor was the only player in the first division to finish in the 300 class. He collected $600. Two entries from the second division tied at that figure, however, and pocketed $275 each. They were Joe Turnesa of Hartford, Conn., and Clarence Clark of Bloomfield, N. J.

Smith, Walsh Get 301.

Four top notchers came in to tie at 301 and receive checks for $387.50 each. These were Bobby Cruickshank of Richmond, Va., Horton Smith of Oak Park, Ill., Johnny Farrell of Short Hills, N. J., and Frank Walsh of Chicago.

Two players from the second division also tied at that score to receive $187.50 each. They were H. C. Picard of Hershey, Pa., and Jake Fassezka of Jackson, Mich.

Willie MacFarlane of Tuckahoe, N. Y., who won the title a year ago with a 72 hole score of 288, deadlocked today at 302 with Billy Burke of Cleveland and Jim Noonan of Chicago, two other first division players. They collected $208.33 each.

Two players from the second division also tied at the 302 mark to collect $137.50 each. They were Bob MacDonald of Chicago and Sonny Rouse of Highland Park, Ill.

James Milward of Madison, Wis., was the low scoring amateur, posting a 315 to win the Col. Henry L. Doherty trophy. He was one stroke ahead of Celest Durand of Garden City, Long Island, who won it last year.

THE GUMPS—CALL FOR FIRST AID

STADIUM FOES

Joe Louis, whose dynamite punches have given him knockouts over 9 of his 11 professional boxing foes and who has won decisions in his other two starts, goes after No. 12 tonight at the Stadium.

Opposing Louis will be a fighting Irishman from the Pacific coast, Lee Ramage, who ranks in the first flight of heavyweights. Promoters predicted yesterday that a crowd of 12,000 will watch the battle.

SANTA BRINGS A BATTLE TO RING CROWD TONIGHT

Louis Seeks No. 12 in His Bout with Ramage.

Tonight's Card

Lee Ramage vs. Joe Louis, 10 rounds, heavyweights.
Teddy Yarosz vs. Kid Leonard, 10 rounds, 165 pounds.
Adolph Wiater vs. Al Ettore, 10 rounds, heavyweights.
Ross Fields vs. Moon Mullins, 6 rounds, 128 pounds.
Alec Borshuk vs. Johnny Vorce, 4 rounds, heavyweights.

BY FRENCH LANE.

No doubt the fistic crowd at the Chicago Stadium tonight will be a gay one. The Christmas and holiday spirit is here and folks are already beginning to make merry.

One somber, ivory, light brown, high yeller faced fellow in the assemblage, however, probably hasn't given much thougth to Christmas.

To Joe Louis, big "black man" from Detroit who had blown the heavyweight fighting situation wide open with his terrific punches and who already has most of the contenders for the championship shaking in their boots, tonight is more important than the advent of Santa Claus.

The matchmakers, ever anxious to "hypodermic" the wary public into a spending spree, reached all the way out to California to dig up as Louis' newest opponent Lee Ramage, a budding Irish heavyweight.

Wise Fans Refuse to Guess.

It was slick work on the part of the matchmakers, for they have actually got the public so worked up about the battle that hardly any one is willing to hazard a guess as to the outcome.

Even the fellows who take the greatest pride in their shrewd guesses are not certain whether Ramage will hear the birdies chirp just as most of Louis' other foes have heard them chirp, or whether the Louis bubble will burst and he will tumble down from his already lofty heights on the heavyweight ladder.

The situation caused Nate Lewis and Jim Mullen, the matchmakers, to smack their lips in anticipation of a great feast in the counting room, for last night it looked like 12,000 folks will see the scrap and will pay possibly $25,000 for their evening's entertainment.

Louis Makes Spectacular Rise.

Most of them will journey to the Stadium to see Louis. Never in the history of prize fighting has there been such a meteoric dash toward the top of the heavyweight ranks as the one Louis has made.

Last March he was an amateur and won THE TRIBUNE's Golden Gloves in the light heavyweight division. Last July he turned professional. Since July he has met and conquered eleven heavyweight rivals. His terrific punches knocked out nine of the opponents. Dempsey's rise to fame was hardly as spectacular.

Is Louis' Toughest Foe.

Ramage may be another one of those one punch victims at the hands of Louis. Yet on dope and past performances the Californian has to be rated as the most formidable battler Louis has faced during his short professional career.

Ramage has fought Hamas, our Kingfish Levinsky, Lasky and numerous others who call themselves contenders for the crown Maxie Baer now wears. He has fought most of them to a standstill. The decisions he has lost have been close and in some instances questionable.

The heavyweight encounter is supported with another ten rounder that will find Teddy Yarosz, the world's middleweight champion, opposed by Kid Leonard, a rough and rugged puncher from Moline, Ill. There's a third bout on the card coming in for quite a bit of interest. It is also a heavyweight affair with Adolph Wiater of Green Bay under heavy fire by Al Ettore of Philadelphia.

Wiater was one of the two heavyweights able to go the entire route against Louis and dodge a knockout punch.

GOPHERS TO MIND OWN BUSINESS; PRESS NO PROBE

Minneapolis, Minn., Dec. 13.—[Special.]—The University of Minnesota is content to take care of its own eligibility problems, Frank McCormick, director of athletics, announced today, and will make no effort to press the enforcement of conference rules among other schools in the Big Ten.

Many Gopher partisans have been clamoring for the latter action, following the recent reaffirmation of the freshmen rule which cost Minnesota four of the stars of its 1934 championship football eleven.

Pepper Martin Awaits Treatment for Ailing Arm

St. Louis, Mo., Dec. 13.—[Special.]—John [Pepper] Martin, third baseman of the world's champion St. Louis Cardinals, came back today to have the ailing arm which prevented him from playing a full season attended to. Pepper will undergo an operation on the left elbow, an injury to which early in the season not only kept him out of the batting order a good part of the season but also hampered his hitting when he did play.

Explode Braves' Bid for Ruth; Cubs, Sox Fail as Meet Ends

Ruppert Denies Boston Nationals Could Get Babe.

New York, Dec. 13.—(AP)—The biggest news item of the baseball meetings—widespread and seemingly accurate reports that the Boston Braves were in a fair way of obtaining Babe Ruth's services as assistant manager—apparently blew up tonight when both Col. Jacob Ruppert, owner of the Yankees, and Emil Fuchs of the Braves formally denied the rumor.

BABE RUTH.

The story had been that Col. Ruppert had informed Charles F. Adams, vice president of the Braves, that he would have no objection to the Braves signing Ruth as an assistant to Manager Bill McKechnie. The idea was that Ruth would be used in pinch hitting rôles while learning the ins and outs of a major league manager's job. But Col. Ruppert emphatically denied that he had had any interviews with Adams or any one else.

Surprised by Story.

"I have not spoken with Mr. Adams nor anybody connected with the Boston Braves today or any other day in connection with Ruth," Ruppert declared. "I don't know how such a story could get around. There is absolutely nothing to it.

"My stand on the Babe," he continued, "is just the same as it has been. If any club wants him as manager I will release him outright. So far not a single club has approached me with that idea in mind."

Judge Fuchs likewise said there was no foundation for the report.

"The whole story is ridiculous," he said. "As president of the Braves I have never spoken to Col. Ruppert about getting Babe Ruth away from the Yankees. As for Mr. Adams being told by the colonel that we could have him, the colonel doesn't even know Adams."

Adams himself could not be reached tonight for comment. Regardless, however, of whether any actual moves to keep Ruth in the big leagues have been started, it was considered as certain that every effort will be made to find a place for him before a new season opens.

Probably nothing will be done until the Babe returns from his tour of the orient, where the tremendous crowds that turned out to see him play in Japan re-opened the magnates' eyes to the still mighty drawing powers of the home run king. The Babe's desires will be considered.

Mack May Want Ruth.

The Yanks understand, but have received no official word, that Connie Mack, Ruth's manager on the far east tour, would like him as an assistant next year, and that the Red Sox are toying with the idea of asking the Babe to become Joe Cronin's assistant.

While the magnates did not discuss the Babe's case officially in the American league meetings Tuesday and Wednesday, it is considered that extra efforts now will be made to keep him in the league. The lack of wisdom in turning such a great drawing power over to the National league, and particularly to Boston, where the Red Sox themselves are being rehabilitated with the aid of Owner Tom Yawkey's millions, is becoming increasingly evident to the American league owners.

RUTH LEAVES FOR HOME.

MANILA, Dec. 13.—(AP)—Babe Ruth, Lefty Gomez, and other big leaguers who have been playing the best baseball teams Japan, China, and the Philippines could muster against them sailed for home at midnight. They will return to America via Java and Europe.

Ruth said he would reach New York Feb. 26. He expressed hope that a place would be found for him to manage a big league club, but reiterated his statement that he would not take a place with a minor league.

Hose Still Eye Sewell; Deals of Wrigley Balked.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 13.—The major league baseball meetings closed here today with Owner Lou Comiskey of the White Sox under an X-ray machine and Owner Phil Wrigley on the phone with a wholesaler who serves 150,000 chewing gum customers. Near them were their baseball managers, James Dykes and Charles J. Grimm, who has sought in vain for four days to turn a player trade.

In so far as baseball player news was concerned, the 1934 major league convention wound up just as it opened, in a blaze of practically nothing at all.

Mr. Comiskey was suffering great pain as he posed for the X-rays but was in high spirits, congratulating himself for having escaped death in an auto accident here last night. An automobile in which the Sox owner was riding was demolished at 47th street and 7th avenue last night.

Hit Elevated Upright.

With Comiskey were Thomas Mee, driver and owner of the wrecked vehicle, who was removed to a hospital; Manager Dykes, Secretary Joe Barry of the Sox, and Ed Walsh Sr., old time pitching star. Dykes, Barry, and Walsh were in the back seat and escaped with minor lacerations. Mr. Comiskey and Mee were pinned in the front seat by the wreckage jammed back in a collision with an elevated upright.

Mr. Comiskey was taken to his hotel room where he has been under the care of physicians. When treatments had failed to relieve an injured left leg and wrist, X-rays were taken late this afternoon. The White Sox party, which had planned to return to Chicago this evening, decided to remain in New York when physicians said they would not permit his removal from bed. The details of the wreck were very unusual, especially in view of the fact that all the men in the Mee car are teetotalers.

Cubs' Officials to Stay.

The Cub officials also decided to remain over in New York for a day's rest from their arduous siege of accomplishing nothing. The entire entourage will leave for Chicago tomorrow, however.

As White Sox concern switched from baseball to worry over the health of the clubowner, Vice President Harry Grabiner still was entertaining hope of landing Catcher Luke Sewell from Washington. The Sox had hoped to announce Luke's purchase this morning, but when Grabiner and Manager Dykes met up with Owner Clark Griffith and Manager Harris of the Senators, the Chicagoans were told that a new three cornered player deal had been cooked up and that Sewell would not be for sale until the outcome of the new trade is established.

Giants Regain Davis.

The only trade of the final day was one which sent Pitcher Joe Bowman of New York to the Phillies in exchange for Outfielder George Davis, who will return to the Giants. Davis is something of a round trip champ. He had served two separate hitches with the Phillies and will be back to the Giants after a year's absence.

The Giants also announced the trading of Infielder Bill Meyers for Infielder Mark Koenig and Pitcher Allyn Stout of the Cincinnati Reds.

Observers close to the Phillies and the Pittsburgh Pirates remained convinced that the start of the season will see Catcher Al Todd of the Phillies with Pittsburgh and Outfielder Lloyd Waner and Catcher Earl Grace with the Phillies. There has been some kind of a hitch involving cash.

The magnates voted down a resolution by L. C. McEvoy of the St. Louis Browns to ban radio broadcasting after present contracts expire. They also rejected a plan to curb synthetic double headers.

STICKS FLY AS AMERICANS BEAT BRUINS, 4 TO 3

Stewart Fells Klein; Draws Match Penalty.

New York, Dec. 13.—(AP)—Scoring an overtime goal after one of the finest stick fights seen in a National Hocky league game here in several seasons, the New York Americans defeated Boston, 4 to 3, tonight.

The fight started in a roughing match between Nels Stewart, Boston center, and Lloyd Klein, American left wing, when Boston was trailing, 3 to 1, in the third period. It wound up in a stick-swinging match in which Stewart was badly cut, Klein was knocked unconscious as Stewart broke his stick over his head. Both were given match penalties. A free-for-all involving both teams was barely averted.

Shortly after play was resumed Boston scored two goals to tie the score. A neat shot by Dave Sweeney Schriner, rookie winger, decided the match early in the overtime period.

FACULTY BOARD VOTES TO OUST FOOTBALL HEAD

Committee to Take Action Tomorrow.

The retirement of Dick Hanley as coach of the Northwestern university football team probably will be announced within the next two days.

DICK HANLEY.

This was indicated last night when it was learned that the university's faculty committee on athletics had voted informally to recommend that Hanley's contract which expires next July should not be renewed. Another meeting of the committee will be held this morning for a discussion of the athletic situation. Formal action is expected to be taken tomorrow.

While there was no official confirmation of the vote of the faculty committee, Hanley admitted that the question of renewing his contract has been under discussion and President Walter Dill Scott intimated that formal action on the contract, one way or the other, would be taken before the first of the year. Both, however, insisted that thus far no concrete action had been taken, and Dr. Scott denied that the case had been presented to him.

Confers with Scott.

It was known that Hanley and Dr. Scott had a conference yesterday afternoon, after which the coach issued the following statement:

"I know discussions are taking place concerning the athletic situation at Northwestern university. I personally have taken part in them. No decision has been reached, and I have not myself decided what I shall do. At this moment I believe in taking time to make a decision that will, in the long run, benefit the university, because that, I trust, also will be to my best interests."

He refused to elaborate the statement but intimated that so far he has no intention of resigning, and that he is not considering any other coaching position now.

Authority Up to Scott.

Dr. Scott, it is understood, would have the sole authority on the question of renewing the contract after the faculty committee has passed upon the question.

"I would not be in favor of merely permitting the contract to lapse," Dr. Scott said when questioned as to what steps would be taken. "I feel that Mr. Hanley should have at least six months' notice if his contract is not to be renewed. Likewise, if we are to have a new coach, I think we should know about it by that time."

Since the contract expires on July 1, six months' notice would mean that Northwestern would have to act by Jan. 1.

It was reported that Hanley would not sign a contract for one year and that if he were retained he would demand a five year agreement. Dr. Scott said that he was in sympathy with this attitude and thought it for the best interests of both Hanley and the university that any new agreement ought to be for more than one year if it were decided to retain the Purple coach.

Alumni Factions Split.

Despite the relatively poor showing of the Purple football teams in the last three seasons, dissatisfaction with his coaching record is only part of the reason for Hanley's probable departure. Friction with one faculty group and with one faction of the alumni was said to be behind the movement to oust him. Another group of alumni is making a fight to have him reappointed.

Hanley came to Northwestern in the fall of 1927, succeeding Glenn Thistlethwaite, who went to the University of Wisconsin at that time. In 1930 Northwestern was undefeated and tied with Michigan for the Western conference championship. The following year the Wildcats again went through the regular season without defeat in the Big Ten, but due to a defeat by Purdue in the post-season charity games, Northwestern shared first place with Purdue and Michigan.

Since then Northwestern has had only fair success on the gridiron. After a disastrous start this fall Northwestern rallied to whip Wisconsin and Michigan.

Denies Receiving Offers.

At various times Hanley's name has been mentioned in regard to other coaching positions, but he had denied that he has been approached officially. For several years Hanley has been associated with Andy Kerr in selecting the eastern all-star team which plays each New Year's day in the San Francisco charity game and will leave for the coast with the eastern squad next Wednesday.

Last summer he was a close second to Noble Kizer of Purdue in the national poll to choose the coach for the all-star team which met the Chicago Bears.

Ossie Solem, football coach at the University of Iowa, has been mentioned in some quarters as a possible successor to Hanley. Solem and Kenneth L. [Tug] Wilson, director of athletics at Northwestern, both trace their careers to Drake univrsity, and it is known that Tug thinks highly of Solem's ability.

PITT FIVE OPENS TOUR AGAINST PURPLE TONIGHT

Wildcats Seek Third Straight Triumph.

Pittsburgh's basketball team will open its annual western tour against Northwestern's undefeated five at Patten gymnasium tonight. The Panthers defeated the Purple, 27 to 23, last year.

Pitt possesses the same veteran line-up that won 18 out of 22 games last season. The Panthers opened the current season with a 52 to 23 victory over Bucknell last Saturday.

Pitt Is Tall.

The Wildcats find in Pitt a team that matches them in height, something that has not been done to date. The visitors' starting lineup will average 6 feet 2 inches, equaling the Purple in this respect. The two opposing centers, Jess McAnally of Northwestern, and Pete Noon of Pitt, are both 6 feet 5 inches.

Although Northwestern has been victorious in its first two starts, Coach Dutch Lonborg is still dissatisfied with his sophomore aggregation and plans further lineup changes tonight in quest of more speed and smoother team work. The job of developing a player to pair with Fisher at forward has been the chief problem thus far. Attempts to solve this problem tonight will include shifting of Guy Mercer, accurate shooting sophomore guard, to forward. His guard post will be taken over by the veteran, Al Kawal.

Center Job Unsettled.

The center position also remains unsettled with McAnally and Leo Grossberg, a pair of rangy sophomores, the leading candidates. Norm Vance, 6 feet 2 inch sophomore, apparently has clinched the back guard assignment. The lineup:

| NORTHWESTERN. | | PITTSBURGH. |
|---|---|---|
| Fisher | L. F. | Hughes |
| Mercer | R. F. | Roderick |
| McAnally | C. | Noon |
| Vance | L. G. | Cribbs |
| Kawal | R. G. | Emerick |

Referee—Stanley Feazle [Indianapolis. Umpire—George Levis [Wisconsin].

ILLINI PLAY WABASH

Champaign, Ill., Dec. 13.—[Special.]—Illinois' basketball team will meet Wabash tomorrow night in the last home game until Jan. 5, when it opens the conference season here against Indiana.

Coach Craig Ruby will probably start Capt. Froschauer and Guttschow at forward, Reigel at center, and Mickelson and Henry at guard.

The B team will play the Illinois Wesleyan first team following the Wabash game. This will be the first B game since 1931, when the system was abandoned because of financial conditions.

Probable starting lineup:

| ILLINOIS. | | WABASH. |
|---|---|---|
| Froschauer | F. | Rovenstine |
| Guttschow | F. | Joyce |
| Riegel | C. | Burns |
| Beynon | G. | Mason |
| Henry | G. | Crisler |

LOTT FINALLY TURNS NET PRO; WILL TOUR U. S.

New York, Dec. 13.—[Special.]—George M. Lott Jr., Chicago, one of the country's leading amateur tennis players, today turned professional by signing a contract to tour with his Davis cup partner, Lester Stoefen, California; Ellsworth Vines, and William T. Tilden.

The Chicagoan, who had refused professional offers for more than a year, will receive 12½ per cent of the net receipts of the tour, which will open here at Madison Square garden Jan. 9 and continue in 77 cities until April. The jaunt is expected to net Lott between $15,000 and $25,000.

San Francisco Olympic Club Gives Up Football

San Francisco, Cal., Dec. 13.—(AP)—The San Francisco Olympic club permanently disbanded its football team today after 43 years of competition with leading Pacific coast college elevens. Joseph R. Hickey, director of athletics, said, "We feel that we have served our purpose in giving competition to college and university teams when competition was needed."

TERRY AND THE PIRATES—SWORD OF THE MONSTER

Open Amateur Hockey League Play Thursday

The Chicago Hocky league will start its season at the Stadium next Thursday night, when the first of a series of double headers will be played.

Ten clubs will be in the race for the championship, now held by the Jones and Baumrucker six, who will meet the Vodrazka Hornets in one of the opening games. The other will bring together the C. Y. O. All Stars and Armour & Co., with six of the Chicago Olympics on its roster.

Others to Compete.

Other teams entered are: The Boston Store, Y. M. C. A., Shamrocks, Waukegan, Highland Park, and Whiting Macks It is expected that several other organizations will enter teams.

Plans for the season call for double headers each Thursday night and Sunday afternoon. The evening games start at 8 o'clock, with the first game Sundays booked for 2 o'clock.

Plan Other Leagues.

The Intermediate, Junior, and C. Y. O. leagues will get under way shortly after the Christmas holidays, and it is expected that well over 1,500 boys will be participating by the first of the year.

CULVER TO MAKE DEBUT TUESDAY WITH FREIGHTS

Nelson Culver, Northwestern's basketball captain of last year, will make his debut with the Fast Freighters Tuesday night against the Missouri Valley A. A. U. champion Kansas City Stage Liners at Loyola university gymnasium.

Culver is four inches shorter than any other player in the Freights' line-up, although he is 5 feet 10 inches tall. The Chicago club will average a fraction under 6 feet 2 inches. The two forwards, Reiff and Motz, measure 6 feet 3 inches; McGowen, center, is 6 feet 6½ inches, and Jim Hogan, the other guard, is 6 feet 2 inches tall.

The Missourians will start four athletes 6 feet or over. Their smallest man is Booth Meyers, 5feet 10 inches. The champions will average 6 feet 1½ inches in height. Their tallest regular is Dick Quinn, 6 feet 5 inches, center.

A preliminary starting at 8 o'clock will bring together the Kemper Insurance quintet and the North Avenue-Larrabee Y. M. C. A.

Y. M. C. A. FORMS LEAGUE; TEAMS OPEN PLAY JAN. 7

Formation of the city-wide Y. M. C. A. Basketball league was announced last night by Robert L. Hunter, chairman of the Y. M. C. A. sports council. Thirteen branches of the Y. M. C. A. have entered. Play starts the week of Jan. 7.

There will be two divisions, lightweights and heavies, and two sections, the north and south. Players to be eligible for the lightweight teams must weigh 140 pounds or under. There is no limit for the heavies, but no player can compete on both division teams.

Mostly About Dogs

By Bob Becker

In looking over the dog registration figures of the American Kennel club the average dog owner may get quite a surprise, because of some of the numbers opposite certain breeds. The figures represent the number of dogs of that breed registered by the club. Inasmuch as registrations tell fairly accurately which way the wind is blowing in "dog fashions" the story is rather interesting.

In both Europe and America the fancy of the public for certain breeds of dogs changes from time to time. A breed that is popular among breeders, home owners or exhibitors may be on top of the heap today, and then fade from the picture in a few years. That is happening all the time. Just now there are a few medium and large sized breeds that are coming up fast and others are losing their popularity.

Glancing at the most recent registration figures from the American Kennel club, we find the Boston terrier [commonly called Boston bull] leads not only in the non-sporting group but in all groups of dogs. In October 977 Bostons had their pedigrees put on the books.

Cocker spaniels rank second in registrations during October. [A picture of a prize winning cocker spaniel will appear in THE TRIBUNE rotogravure section next Sunday]. The names and pedigrees of more than 600 cockers went into the records during October. Here is another medium sized dog that can be classed among the "town dogs'"—those that are not difficult to keep in small homes, are hardy, and extremely affectionate.

Right behind the cockers come the popular wirehaired terriers with 615 registrations, and pressing this breed rather closely is the Scottish terrier with 541 registrations. There's no question of the popularity of these two terriers, either in the home or the show ring. The little "Scotchman" has received a tremendous amount of national advertising in recent years through a campaign carried on by an oil company. Everywhere you went you saw a couple of cute Scottish terriers, with ears up and heads cocked to one side, looking at you from a big banner. Then this breed received a lot of attention from a well known detective story writer who featured a Scotty in some of his yarns.

When we look over the registrations of working dogs we do not find such large figures. For example, the handsome collies registered in October totaled 118. Great Danes were second with 101. Then comes the Dobermann with 93 registrations. Among the toy dogs the Pekingese led all other breeds with 326 registrations.

The fact that the breeds mentioned lead all others in registrations doesn't mean that they are what a dog owner may call "best of all." The "best" breed is the one that you or I like best, just as the best dog on four feet is the one that the dog owner owns at this particular minute! A show judge can pick the finest specimen in a show after considerable study, but I would hate to have to name the "best breed" of dog for anybody to own as a pet, because insofar as I am concerned, there "ain't no such animal."

The point in choosing a dog is not only to pick one that will thrive in the quarters you can give it, but also to choose one with the qualities you want in a canine companion. Size, space required, temperatment, disposition—all enter in this choice.

BOYS' CLUBS TO SHOW SKILL AT C. A. A. TONIGHT

Juvenile athletes from the Chicago Boys' clubs will appear in exhibitions of various sports at the Chicago Athletic association, 12 South Michigan avenue, tonight. The athletic carnival was arranged by David B. Gann, Everett C. Brown, and Frank Barbour of the association, and John W. Witter and Irving Rudolph of the boys' clubs.

The Chicago Boys' clubs, numbering 16,345 members in the less favored districts of the city, are introducing the youngsters to boxing, wrestling, and other competitive athletic activities and, in addition to giving the members of the athletic association a view of the progress made, officials hope the boys will profit by mingling with civic leaders.

A feature of the program will be a contest in athletic skill between Joe Krouse and John Slynn, 13 and 14 years old, respectively, representing the boys' clubs, and two members of the C. A. A. One thousand are expected to attend.

The Chicago Boys' clubs maintain a year-round program of sports to meet the needs of the boys in the congested districts. Four completely equipped club buildings are maintained in as many sections of the city.

Asks Elimination of Back Boards in Basketball

Bloomington, Ill., Dec. 13.—[Special.]—Eliminate the back boards and the game of basketball will be speeded up with a lessening of personal fouls, Joe Cogdal, State Normal basketball coach, suggested today. Cogdal contends that without back boards a premium will be placed on accurate shooting. Moreover, much of the congestion and contact resulting when five or six players attempt to get a rebound will be eliminated. Most of the fouls committed occur under the basket, he said.

Shea, Stevens, Olympic Stars, Turn Professional

Lake Placid, N. Y., Dec. 13.—(AP)—Jack Shea, Olympic skater, and Raymond Stevens, holder of bobsleding records, have turned professional. They have signed contracts with a tobacco company to endorse a cigarette.

OLD TYMERS PLAY HANNINS.

The Olde Tymers, Central A. A. U. colored basketball champions, will play the first game at their permanent home court, the Eighth Regiment armory, 35th street and Giles avenue, Sunday night, against the Hannin-Klein Did-Its.

Hawks Finish Practice for Maroon Game

The Blackhawks indulged in their hardest workout of the season at the Stadium yesterday. Because of other engagements, there will be no ice in the arena until next Sunday when the Hawks meet Lionel Conacher and the Montreal Maroons.

The strenuous workout sent Goalie Joe Starke to the dressing room for three stitches in his forehead. Art Wiebe was knocked out completely for a few minutes in a collision with Mush March.

Near the conclusion of the workout Manager Clem Loughlin had all hands, with the exception of the goalies, practice the penalty shot.

A brother act was broken up temporarily when the Hawks sent Tom Counter, rangy defense man, to the Cleveland Falcons of the International league yesterday for more seasoning. Tom is a brother of Art Coulter, Hawk defense star.

Young Coulter broke his right leg in the first period of the first exhibition at Champaign, Ill., but is ready for action again. He will report to Cleveland today.

K. OF C. LEADERS MEET SUNDAY IN 2 DIVISIONS

Englewood vs. Quigley in the south division and Carroll vs. Setters in the west section are the outstanding games on Sunday's schedule in the Knights of Columbus basketball league.

Englewood and Quigley were semifinalists in the championship play last season, the former winning by two points. Carroll and Setters both have gone through three weeks of the west division schedule without a defeat and are tied for first place with Damen, which meets Hughes. Loyola-Hyde Park vs. Santa Maria is another outstanding south division contest.

Cotton Warburton to Wed Southern California Girl

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 13.—The engagement of Irvine [Cotton] Warburton, star Southern California quarter back, and Nellie Mayson, sophomore at the university, was announced today at a party given by the Kappa Alpha Theta sorority. In the opening games, Cuneo Press meet Gould Garage; Shield & Co. meets the Tablet and Ticket company, and the Household Finance company meets the Erie Clothing company.

Scissors and Headlock Stars to Meet on Mat

While Jim McMillen and Joe Savoldi are expected to stage a duel of flying tackles at the Coliseum Monday night when they meet in a heavyweight wrestling bout, other matches will bring together grapplers who use contrasting attacks.

In the semi-final Fred Grobmeier, Harlan, Ia., heavyweight, will match his body scissors against the headlocks of Jack Smith of Chicago. Grobmeier, a graduate of the Farmer Burns school of wrestling, has developed the scissors to a state of efficiency close to that possessed by Joe Stecher, former champion. Smith, in engagements in the last month with McMillen and Jim Londos, has shown skill with the headlock.

Another bout will send Sol Slagel against Olaf Olsen of Milwaukee, another scissors expert, who varies his leg attack with arm and wristlocks. They are to wrestle 30 minutes.

AMERICANSTRADE RED JACKSON TO BOSTON BRUINS

New York, Dec. 13.—(AP)—The New York Americans of the National Hocky league tonight announced a player trade with the Boston Bruins which brings Leighton [Happy] Emms and Orville [Obs] Heximer back to New York in exchange for Lloyd [Red] Jackson, recently recalled from New Haven Eagles of the Canadian-American league.

Emms played with the Americans two years ago and with the Detroit Red Wings last season. He signed with Boston last fall after being unconditionally released by Detroit. Heximer, formerly with the Rangers, has been playing with the Boston Cubs for the last few seasons. The deal was concluded just before tonight's game, in which Emms continued to play with Boston.

MIRABEL AND LEE MATCHED FOR MARIGOLD BOUT

Two bantamweight punchers, Frankie Mirabel of the north side and Paul Lee of Indianapolis, will meet in an eight round bout Monday at the Marigold Gardens.

Eddie Stiegall, south side welterweight, will fight Nestor Bruggeman of the north side, in a six rounder. Stiegall knocked out Sherrald Kennard last week, after being on the canvas himself. Jackie Schwartz and Young Jack Blackburn, middleweights, and Rudy Sterbenz, Peoria heavyweight, and Nelson Berard will clash in four rounders.

Johnny Coulon is offering a double windup with two ten round bouts at the Midway Arena on Monday night. Jack Gibbons will fight Tony Zale and Jimmy Christy will oppose Dave Barry.

A six round encounter will bring together Hughie Allen and Eddie Jackson.

Seven boxing bouts and a wrestling match have been arranged for the monthly athletic show at the Medinah club of Chicago on Monday night. Fred Francis of Gary, Ind., will meet Jerry Mulcahy of Chicago in one of the featured five round boxing matches.

Buckeyes to Get Reward for Good Year: Gold Pants

Columbus, O., Dec. 13.—[Special.]—Ohio State football players will have gold pants this year as a memento of their winning football season.

It all started with a remark of Coach Francis Schmidt's. He noticed a story in a Columbus newspaper which suggested that while the Bucks were not champions of the Big Ten they ought to have gold footballs anyway. He remarked that the players really deserved them.

Schmidt's remark was carried to the heads of the Downtown Coaches association, who volunteered to raise the money to finance an expression of appreciation from the public to the team.

Then arose the idea that, after all it was traditional that only champions received gold footballs. Perhaps something else would be in better taste.

Schmidt's remark at the beginning of the football season, when asked what he thought of Michigan, was recalled:

"Well," he had answered, "I guess they pull their pants on one leg at a time, the same as anybody else."

It has finally been decided to give each of the Ohio State letter men a pair of gold pants in the form of a watch charm. On each will be inscribed "1934—Ohio State, 34; Michigan, 0."

Store open evenings till 9 o'clock until Xmas

MAROONS NAME BERWANGER TO LEAD 1935 TEAM

Star Back Also Receives Best Blocker Trophy.

Jay Berwanger, the speedy half back who led the University of Chicago to its four victories this season, was elected captain of the 1935 Maroon football team last night at the annual banquet given by the Chicago Alumni club at the University club. More than 400 attended.

Berwanger, who hails from Dubuque, Ia., is 20 years old. In two seasons Berwanger has scored 111 points. He also was awarded the best blocker trophy, donated by the Order of the C. Other trophy winners were Capt. Ell Patterson, most valuable; Ewald Nyquist, best tackler, and Sam Whiteside, sophomore guard, most valuable player who received the least recognition.

First Maroon Captain Speaks.

Dr. A. R. E. Wyant, captain of the first Maroon football team; Frank G. Hoyne, and Wilfrid Smith, TRIBUNE sports writer, were among the speakers. Judge Walter P. Steffen presented the trophies.

Major letters were given to 22 varsity men. Seven awards went to sophomores, as follows:

Sam Whiteside, Evanston; Clarence Wright, Clinton, Ia.; Prescott Jordan, La Grange; Ned Bartlett, Glendale, Cal.; Ralph Balfanz, Abilene, Tex.; Warren Skoning, Elgin, and Earl Sappington, Lake City, Fla.

Veterans receiving major awards were:

Capt. Ell Patterson, Tom Flinn, Merritt Bush, Rainwater Wells, Ewald Nyquist, Jay Berwanger, John Baker, Robert Perretz, John Womer, Gordon Peterson, Bartlett Peterson, Barton Smith, Edward Cullen, William Langley, and Keith Hatter.

Whiteside Plays 325 Minutes.

Five sophomores received Old English C's. They were Jack Scruby, Beverly Hills, Cal.; Harmon Meigs, Evanston; Adolph Schuessler, Alton; William Runyan, South Haven, Mich., and Harry Nacey, Chicago. Scruby and Meigs are sons of former Maroon football letter men.

All awards were given for the first time on the basis of minutes of competition in Big Ten games, one exception being made in the case of a senior with three years of varsity service, who received a major letter. Sam Whiteside, a guard, had a big margin on the rest of the team in minutes of Big Ten play. Whiteside played 325 of a possible 360 minutes in Chicago's six conference games. Flinn was second with 280 minutes and Bush third with 277 minutes.

23 Frosh Get Numerals.

Numerals were granted to 23 freshman football candidates, as follows:

Seymour Burrows, Jack Fetman, Arthur Goes Jr., Walter Gritzer, Wendell Henry, Fred Lehnhart, Arnold Phillips, Albert Schenck, Robert Wheeler, Hilary Zimont, Arthur Dean, and Benjamin Crockett, all of Chicago; Ward Albert and Omar Fareed, Glendale, Cal.; Paul Gill and Felix Jankowski, Michigan City, Ind.; George Antonic, East Chicago, Ind.; Murray Chilton, Portsmouth, O.; James Chapple, Grand Forks, B. C.; Kendall Petersen, Long Beach, Cal.; John Sype, Oak Park; Woodrow Wilson, Escanaba, Mich., and David Gordon, La Grange.

OREGON REGAINS FULL STRENGTH FOR L. S. U. GAME

New Orleans, La., Dec. 13.—(AP)—Oregon's football players will be in the best shape of the season when they face Louisiana State in Baton Rouge Saturday.

The Ducks arrived here today from Eugene, Ore., and went through a drill at Tulane university's practice field.

The loss of Ralph Terjeson, regular quarter back, and Bob Parke, co-captain and half back, with injuries this season ruined Oregon's chances of disputing the Pacific coast title as it did last season when it lost only to Southern California.

Both will be ready to go against the Tigers, according to Johnny Fitzmiller, back field coach, who came here in advance to watch L. S. U. in action against Tennessee last week-end.

INJURIES COST DE KALB SQUAD TWO CENTERS

De Kalb, Ill., Dec. 13.—[Special.]—Injuries continue to hamper the De Kalb Teachers basketball team as it prepares to open the conference season at Wheaton college Saturday night.

Bruce Smith, regular center, is out for the season with a fractured ankle. Fred Goble, substitute center, sprained an ankle during practice last night and will be out for a week. Les Lundeen, third center on the squad, is reported ineligible.

It is expected Leonard Skoglund, a guard, will be used at center and Elzie Cooper will start in his place, working with John Clark. Ben Westlake and Reino Nori will play forwards.

Platek, M. McCarthy Win in City Handball Play

Joe Platek and Maurice McCarthy scored victories in the semi-final round of the city handball tournament at the Illinois Athletic club last night. Platek defeated William McCarthy, 21-8, 21-11, while Maurice McCarthy eliminated Ed Melchione, 21-11, 21-12. The consolation finals will be played at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon and the title match an hour later.

Marblehead, Mass., Dec. 13.—[Special.]—Wooden decoys, with which he hoped to lure ducks to destruction, today cost the life of Arthur G. Wright, 58 years old, a carpenter and father of six children. Wright drowned when he fell from his boat 300 feet off Marblehead Neck and became tangled in the anchor line of his decoys.

In the Wake of the News

SILVER FOOTBALL.

DEAR WAKE: It's about time that one of Purdue's really great players be honored with THE TRIBUNE'S Silver Football, which never has gone to West Lafayette, Ind. Duane Purvis combines all the qualifications.

Purvis was a star from the time he donned a varsity suit. All gridiron followers know of his triple threat ability, how he averaged 4.5 yards on running plays through the season; how he broke loose for an 80 yard touchdown against Wisconsin and 73 yards against Chicago. Purvis' weight, 196 pounds, enabled him to crack opposing lines; his speed enabled him to outdistance the secondary defense once he was through.

Besides all this, his teammates in voting for him knew of his other qualities—his blocking which made possible many of Carter's runs and his great defensive ability in backing up a line perhaps a trifle below usual Purdue standards. Boilermakers would not have gone undefeated in the conference until the final upset game, against Indiana, unless it had Purvis. He deserves THE TRIBUNE award.

Boilermaker '26.

Gomer Jones, Ohio State's captain elect for 1935 and candidate for the Silver Football, must be a great player, for his teammates elected him to both positions. This was an unusual honor, because he is a junior, and these college boys at some schools won't get over their silly notion they must name a senior as most valuable.

Unfortunately I saw him only against Northwestern, as business and carfare kept me from attending home games at Columbus. But that was plenty. I counted seven different vital tackles that he made. Players on the team told me he is unusually canny in sizing up the opposition and advising the Buckeyes how to meet opposing attack, which Ohio State did after Northwestern's early lead.

Jones was the Buckeye find of the season, filling the important pivot position, where a successor to Mickey Vuchinich was needed.

A. L. R., Buckeye '30.

Pug Lund, a champion on a championship eleven, who does everything well! How you gonna keep the Silver Football away from that bird?

"The Changing World."

O, say, can you remember a dim and distant date
When honesty was virtue and thrift a sacred trait?
When happiness was won by honest toil and sweat,
When men would work far in the night to pay in full a debt?
When U. S. bonds and currency all o'er were good as gold,
And men in public office meant their solemn oath to hold?

All this has changed, we must record: the rules are made anew.
Public promises aside when 'tis the artful thing to do.
The laws of old were too precise, they now yield to adversity,
So people are appeased by gifts charged up against posterity.
If income is but half what's spent, two sets of books suffice;
And the constitution to preserve is but an ancient vice.

That these new principles may work out to their utmost meanings,
Let all the people take them on for all their private dealings.
Whate'er your income may be, you spend just t ice as much;
If what you owe meets not your purse, you write it down as such.
Tomorrow let not worry you, but in professors trust,
And soon on earth we shall achieve a paradise—or bust.

Cutter Sticks to Navy, Wins Chiefs' Praise

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 13.—The navy department was jubilant today over the vigorous denial of Midshipman Slade Cutter of Oswego, Ill., of reports that he plans to resign from the navy after graduation next June to marry and enter private life. Navy officers had been perturbed by reports of the planned resignation of the hero of the Army-Navy football game. Cutter kicked the field goal that gave Navy a 3 to 0 victory.

It was feared that the department might be the target of criticism on interpretations that the navy was giving a free education to any one who could get an appointment to the academy without any obligation to serve the country. Such criticism, it was thought, would be more pointed had the Cutter reports been true, because of his status as a football player.

Rear Admiral Arthur P. Fairfield, assistant chief of navigation, reported that any midshipman may tender a resignation before or after graduation. Such resignation is subject to acceptance or rejection by the President, because midshipmen enlist for an indefinite term of service known as "the pleasure of the President."

Resignations are rare, he reported. They have also never been rejected, he said, because they have been sought on the ground the applicant had found himself unsuited to a naval career. He added tersely that the navy has no room for malcontents.

Stanford Adds Alustiza, Drown to Hospital List

Stanford University, Cal., Dec. 13.—(AP)—Two more Stanford football players went to the hospital today as Coach C. E. Thornhill sent his squad through a brisk workout in a driving rain.

Frank Alustiza, regular quarter back, and Jack Drown, second string tackle, were the latest additions to a hospital list that includes Bobby Grayson, Jim Moscrip, Claude Callaway, Stan Anderson, and Keith Topping.

A bad cold, expected to yield to treatment, sent Alustiza to the infirmary, while Drown was called in to be examined for a possible infected appendix. Dr. Fritz Roth, team physician, said he did not expect Drown's trouble would be serious, however.

All eyes were on Grayson, who is recovering from a broken rib suffered in the California game. The big back may have to carry the burden of Stanford's full back duties, as his first understudy, Stan Anderson, is in bed with pneumonia, and Ray Todd has been troubled all season with a trick knee.

Splints were taken off Keith Topping's leg today, and Topping was scheduled to start getting into shape again tomorrow.

ALABAMA SCRIMMAGES.

University, Ala., Dec. 13.—(AP)—Alabama's Crimson Tide surged through a scrimmage against Stanford plays today to top off an intensive drill on fundamentals.

The work of the squad showed marked improvement and almost the precision of the late season, through which the Tide swept unbeaten and untied. Coach Frank Thomas followed every move of the back field, while Coach Hank Crisp corrected faults in line play.

Millard [Dixie] Howell, Jimmy Angelich, Riley Smith, and Joe Demyanovich, the starting back field, showed the same drive and speed that characterized their work all year.

Manders Wins Pro Scoring Championship

New York, Dec. 13.—(AP)—Jack Manders, former Minnesota full back and now place kicking star for the Chicago Bears, won the individual scoring championship of the National Professional Football league.

Besides scoring three touchdowns, Manders kicked 31 points after touchdown and ten field goals for a total of 79 points, six more than Dutch Clark of the Detroit Lions, who was second.

Manders missed only one attempt for extra point during the regular season of 13 games and made 10 of 12 attempts for field goals from placement. In the post-season championship game against the New York Giants, Manders scored two field goals and a point after touchdown. Those seven points are not included in the final standings.

Pressnell Is Third.

After Clark scored eight touchdowns, thirteen extra points, and four field goals for a total of 73 points, came Glen Pressnell, also of Detroit, with 63 points. Ken Strong of the New York Giants, last year's leader, was fourth with 56. Beattie Feathers, formerly of Tennessee and now with the Bears, led in touchdowns, scoring nine. Due to injuries he was forced out of the Bears' last two league games.

Feathers, however, set a record for ground gained. He carried the ball 101 times for a total of 1,004 yards. Swede Hanson of the Philadelphia Eagles was second with 805 yards in 147 attempts and Clark third with 763 yards in 122 plays. Bronko Nagurski, of the Bears, who was used mostly to run interference for Feathers and to gain two or three yards on line smashes, was next with 586 yards in 123 attempts.

Herber Leads Passers.

Clark and Ed Danowski of the Giants were the most consistent forward passers, Clark completing 23 out of 49 attempts and Danowski 15 out of 32. Five of Clark's attempts were intercepted while only three of Danowski's found their way into enemy hands. Passing honors, however, went to Arnold Herber of the Green Bay Packers, whose 42 completions out of 115 attempts gained 799 yards.

Joe Carter of the Eagles led in pass receiving, catching 16 for 237 yards and three touchdowns.

KEARNS CLEARED IN SUIT BROUGHT BY EX-CIGAR GIRL

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 13.—[Special.]—Jack Kearns, prize fight figure, was not the father of the 9 year old daughter of Miss Elizabeth Williams, former cigar stand girl, according to a decision returned by Superior Judge Myron Westover after Kearns and the girl both testified today in connection with her suit demanding money for support of the child.

Miss Williams named Washington's birthday, 1925, as the time she said Kearns was with her in the hotel here which Kearns and Jack Dempsey then operated in partnership. Kearns asserted he was in San Francisco on that day and brought newspaper files to show that his presence had been reported in San Francisco at a prize fight there that night.

BUCKEYE HEAVY AGREES TO JOIN WRESTLING TEAM

Columbus, O., Dec. 13.—[Special.]—Charley Hamrick, 235 pound tackle on the Ohio State football squad, announced today he has decided to come out for the wrestling squad.

Hamrick won the university freshman title last winter. Three of the Buckeye mat men are low in their school work. Art Downes, 155 pounder, who captained the team last year, Verne Heiser, 175 pound star, and Walter Cramer, 165 pounds, are the lads who are delinquent and on the doubtful list.

Downes and Cramer were responsible for the splendid showing the Buckeyes made last year, when they lost one conference meet. Heiser, out for the team last year, was on the injured list a good part of the time, but his form this year has led mat followers to pronounce him as one of the best men on the squad.

Ohio State has some understudies to Downes and Heiser in Dave Schurger and Charlie Black.

The Lafayette [Ind.] Lambs and the Crusaders basketball teams will meet tonight at Savoy ballroom, 47th street and Grand boulevard.

DE PAUL FIVE REVAMPED FOR KALAMAZOO

The Kalamazoo college basketball team will meet a somewhat revised De Paul lineup tomorrow night at the De Paul gymnasium. Coach Jim Kelly planned several changes following yesterday's drill, explaining that the lineup still was in the experimental stage.

Capt. Frank Linskey, guard, and Ray Adams, forward, are fixtures, but the other three positions will continue to be changed as often as individual performances warant.

It is possible that Phil Krause, a senior, will start at a guard. Walt Diduch, the tallest member of the squad who is six feet, four inches tall, may get the starting call at center. Bob Sand figures to draw a starting rôle at forward. He has an advantage in height over both Willie Phillips and Ed Campion.

CANADA DRY'S distilled GIN

RECIPE: from a Colonial cook book

FLAVOR: from FOUR ROSES WHISKEY

RESULT: The grandest toddy ever made

A HOT TODDY actually heightens the flavor of a whiskey.

So why not start with the finest whiskey flavor of all—Four Roses!

It is the famous whiskey that, in a grand "taste-tournament," won hands down over 30 other celebrated brands. It is a whiskey your palate will take to from the very first sip.

Old-fashioned* American *whiskey

Four Roses is made the way the finest whiskey has been made for 150 years, and the way Frankfort Distilleries have made all their whiskey for four generations—by the slow, costly, old-fashioned method.

Four Roses is made with Kentucky and Maryland limestone water that adds a full-bodied richness you can get in no other way. And the whiskey is naturally aged in charred oak barrels under the world's most rigid government supervision.

Four Roses is a blend of all straight whiskey! It is sold everywhere. Try its marvelous, old-fashioned flavor in a toddy, a highball, or "straight." Ask for it at hotels and restaurants. It's reasonably priced, and comes sealed in the patented Frankfort Pack that must be destroyed before the bottle within it can be removed.

Frankfort Distilleries of Kentucky and Maryland

AMERICA'S LARGEST INDEPENDENT DISTILLERS

FRANKFORT KY MD DISTILLERIES

A blend of straight whiskies

Four other Famous Frankfort Whiskies

PAUL JONES—Famous since 1865. ANTIQUE—A smooth, mellow whiskey of superlative quality. OLD OSCAR PEPPER—An old-fashioned whiskey at an old-fashioned price. SHIPPING PORT—The best straight whiskey at a low price.

A note on the Hot Toddy

Originally made simply of whiskey, sugar and water, the toddy is one of the oldest mixed drinks. The Colonists brought their knowledge of it from England, refined the flavor of the drink with spices and made it a popular beverage. The glass used here is the true toddy glass.

"IRVIN S. COBB'S OWN RECIPE BOOK," the finest mixed-drink guide ever published, describes the toddy and scores of other drinks. And there's $100 worth of Cobb's best humor. Send 10c in stamps for your copy to Frankfort Distilleries, Dept. 24234, Louisville, Kentucky.

KANSAS CITY AND CLEVELAND TRIOS TO APPEAR HERE

Face Chicago Teams Tomorrow Night.

Tomorrow night's polo card will bring together two out of town teams against a pair of Chicago contenders in the Metropolitan Indoor Polo league at the 124th Field Artillery armory, Cottage Grove avenue and 52d street.

In the first game, the Kansas City Polo club, a newcomer, will oppose the Lincolnshire Country club in the junior division for teams with a maximum rating of five goals.

Cleveland to Come By Plane.

The windup will pit the Cleveland Riding club, national champion, against the 124th Field Artillery. Both teams won their first starts this season in league competition. The Cleveland trio of A. Z. Baker, Bill Fergus and Hank Evinger will arrive by plane tomorrow.

Roy Nafziger, captain of the Kansas City team, announced his mates will be Lieut. Hobard D. Reed and A. L. Sisler. Lieut. Reed last season rode with Green Bay.

With two Black Horse Troop poloists on the ailing list, it has been necessary for the Riding club to match a picked team with the 122d Field Artillery tomorrow evening in the show at the Chicago Riding club, 333 East Erie street.

Corpening to Play.

Capt. Maxwell Corpening, competing for the first time since he suffered a broken kneecap in an automobile accident last summer, will lead the home players into action. Assisting him will be Bud Collins, No. 1 man, and Dave Silberman, hard playing back. With carefully mapped plans to break the tie existing between the 122d and the Riding club for the lead in the Black Horse Troop league, Capt. Corpening and his teammates are prepared to give the Artillery sharpshooters plenty of trouble.

Upon being notified of the change in the schedule, Lieut. Art Zimmerman, captain of the Artillery trio, handed out instructions to Lieuts. Cliff Harrison and Carl Johnson to prepare themselves for some hard competition.

Culver Practices Tonight.

The pick of polo stars from Culver Military academy are scheduled to arrive at the north side arena in time to get in a few hours practice this evening. Culver will meet the 106th Cavalry in the preliminary event, which will open the program at 8:15 o'clock. The advance ticket sale indicates a capacity turnout for the games.

CONFLICT OF LAW HOLDS UP RFC MORTGAGE AID

Seek to Put Out 50 Millions Here.

BY AL CHASE.

Fifty million dollars of federal funds to aid real estate bondholders in the Chicago district is going begging because of a conflict between Illinois state banking laws and the rules promulgated by the Reconstruction Finance corporation at Washington, it was learned yesterday.

While Chairman Jesse H. Jones of the RFC and New York bankers were criticizing each other yesterday following Jones' demand that a way be found to release $50,000,000 of RFC money in New York, it developed that a similar situation exists in Chicago where the RFC also proposes to release $50,000,000 but has failed to do so because of red tape.

Fifty Millions for Stock.

The difficulty here arises from the fact that the RFC wants to loose the $50,000,000 by buying preferred stock in trust companies which, in turn, would lend it to reorganizations of big business and apartment buildings to cover the cost of reorganization and leave sizable balances which could be lent to the bondholders.

The Fort Dearborn Mortgage company, it was learned, is one organization which has been approached by the RFC. This company is engaged in reorganization of such properties. The difficulty is that although the Fort Dearborn company can borrow from the RFC it cannot, under state laws, qualify as a trust company as defined by the RFC rules because it is not a bank of deposit.

Some help has been afforded by a recent modification of the RFC rules which permits that organization to lend a maximum of 60 per cent rather than the previous 30 per cent on the "economic value" of properties. This, it is said, will permit the release of some of the RFC money for bondholders in this district but by no means any large percentage of the intended $50,000,000.

Bondholders Can Help.

Whether or not Chicago's additional allotments of the $50,000,000 of RFC funds to be made available in this area is partly up to the bondholders themselves. They can force bondholders' committees to go ahead and clean up reorganizations which are now dormant from want of cash, by borrowing RFC funds through local mortgage concerns.

This statement was made by Aaron Colnon, president of the Fort Dearborn Mortgage company, owned by the Chicago corporation, who replied to Wednesday's statement in New York by Jesse H. Jones, chairman of the RFC, by declaring that the Fort Dearborn Mortgage company is prepared to expand its capital to meet any reasonable demand for loans of the right type. At present that company can make loans up to ten times its capital stock of $750,000, or $7,750,000.

Mr. Jones in his New York speech criticized financial interests for not coöperating with the RFC in forming mortgage corporations to help unfreeze the mortgage situation. He suggested that the RFC would buy preferred stock in any such institutions organized.

Law Bars Stock Sale Here.

"An examination of the RFC act indicates that the corporation may purchase preferred stock only in banks or trust companies organized under the bank act of the state in which it is located," said Mr. Colnon. "Under the Illinois banking act banks or trust companies may make loans only in proportion to their deposits. This obviates the possibility of a mortgage company organized under Illinois laws, which does not accept deposits, from selling preferred stock to the RFC unless the act is amended."

Jones, according to Colnon, stated that Chicago is two or three years ahead of New York in its bond reorganization work. The eastern metropolis, he said, still had many problems unsolved.

EXCESS OF BEEF MAY LEAD TO SALES DRIVES

With beef piling up in the packers' coolers which now are loaded with about the biggest tonnage on record, the meat from approximately 250,000 cattle, campaigns by stores to move some of this surplus beef are expected.

What is possible is illustrated by an item in the National Provisioner, which says: "Safeway Stores, covering the Pacific coast and mountain region, in their annual beef campaign, sold 2,500,000 pounds of beef during a nine day drive. Approximately 2,000 markets took part in the drive, and so well was it supported by the public that the average sales per store was two-thirds of a ton, all of which moved without resort to price cutting. The drive this year was an increase of several carloads over the previous event."

BANK REPORT SHOWS FRENCH GOLD LOSS ENDS

New York, Dec. 13.—[Special.]—The weekly statement of the Bank of France, issued today, indicated that the flow of gold to the United States has been checked. Gold increased 217 million francs and sight balances abroad were up 1,000,000.

The Bank of England's weekly statement showed a decline of £7,746,000 in reserves, the proportion to the bank's liability falling to 40.16 per cent from 43.71 per cent last week. Circulation was up £7,774,000. Bullion increased £28,000 and other securities £1,082,000. Public deposits decreased £677,000 and other deposits were down £4,984,000.

Forecasters' Clash Stirs Trade Opinion

BY HOWARD WOOD.

An ordinarily dull season of year end reviews and predictions prepared by ghost writers for the heads of innumerable corporations is now being enlivened by an unlooked for lively clash among the forecasters.

Col. Leonard P. Ayres, Cleveland Trust company economist and chairman of the economic policy commission of the American Bankers association, started the fracas by saying that there has been built up a sufficient pent up demand for goods to start business rolling on the road toward recovery, but that present policies of the federal government must be altered before the parade can start.

Gen. Charles G. Dawes, chairman of the City National Bank and Trust company and former Vice President of the United States, pounced upon Col. Ayres' forecast and made the flat prediction that a boom in the durable goods industry will end the depression next May or June. The natural forces of recovery through massed buying, says Gen. Dawes, are irresistible and will not be either retarded or accelerated by political action.

Replying to the writer's request for an answer to Gen. Dawes, Col. Ayres wired yesterday from Cleveland:

"I do not wish to attempt rebuttal to Gen. Dawes' arguments, because I hope he is right. If he could show how to restore confidence to corporations and renew financing through long term securities he would be right."

Government Extravagance Omen of Bond Price Decline.

C. F. Childs, head of one of the largest firms in the country dealing in government bonds, forecasts a decline in prices of such bonds unless government extravagance is curtailed.

"The longer the budget remains unbalanced, the more a fall in the market for governmental bonds becomes a reasonable expectation," he says. "Assuming that a public demand for credit should occur while the banks have 50 per cent of their assets invested in government securities, virtually half of which mature within five years, those securities would have to be sold or the banks would have to borrow from the federal reserve system.

"Under such circumstances who would buy the bonds? Leading insurance companies on Oct. 13 had 58 per cent of their investments in government securities. Long term government bonds are not suitably tuned as yet to attract investors in general.

"The public, not the banks, should be holders of a larger portion of the bonds representing the national debt. Banks should support the national credit instead of becoming dependent upon it.

"When the government borrows and spends its spending creates bank deposits. The deposits in turn increase bank reserves and are used to buy more government bonds, which enables more government speding and calls for more government borrowing. That circle is credit inflation. Is it vicious or virtuous?

"Printing bonds instead of printing currency differ chiefly in titles. Both methods can lead to the same conclusion."

Report Credit Survey Doesn't Show What Was Expected.

Announcement by Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau yesterday that the long promised Viner report on the attitude of banks toward prospective borrowers would be released next Monday in full as well as in summary form was met by mixed reactions among Chicago bankers.

The report is the fruit of a survey conducted by Prof. Jacob Viner of the University of Chicago and a group of collegiate assistants [at $11.40 per day per collegian]. This group served as special representatives of the treasury seeking to verify the political charge that bankers were holding up the recovery movement by refusing to make good loans.

According to reports from authoritative sources the report fails to prove what the treasury thought it would prove and for that reason has been shelved. Bankers, particularly in the Chicago federal reserve district where the investigation was concentrated, however, have been demanding that the document be published.

Assured yesterday of its publication on Monday Chicago bankers recalled the Wickersham report on prohibition and the British MacMillan report on money and wondered whether the summary prepared by the treasury would present that part of the report which is understood to have pointed out that the banks have in many instances been less hard boiled than the Reconstruction Finance corporation and the federal reserve banks in making loans.

PRESIDENT SEEKS WIDER FARM USE OF ELECTRICITY

Washington, D. C., Dec. 13.—(AP)—President Roosevelt was disclosed in authoritative quarters today to have instructed the federal power commission to make a careful study of methods by which electricity might be set to lighting rural homes and heating farm ovens.

As outlined by those familiar with the request, it will be answered along with the forthcoming survey of the nation's power resources. It would fit also with the general, broad scale, long range plan for conservation and development of natural resources on which the President is working.

The rural electrification problem was studied from another angle by the national resources board in evolving the recommendations it already has submitted to the President. The plan of this board was fitted to more than a dozen watershed and regional areas into which it divided the country.

Offer Another 75 Million of Treasury 182 Day Bills

Washington, D. C., Dec. 13.—(AP)—The treasury is offering tomorrow $75,000,000 of 182 day bills to be sold on a discount basis to the highest bidder. Dated Dec. 19, they will mature on June 19, 1935. Proceeds of the sale will be used to retire a similar amount of maturing indebtedness.

Total Sales of Stocks on the New York Stock Exchange in November 1901-1934

Dividend Paid by Wieboldt After 4 Years

Among the favorable dividend actions reported yesterday was a declaration of $1 by Wieboldt Stores, Inc., payable Dec. 22. This is the first distribution to stockholders since August, 1930, when the quarterly dividend of 40 cents a share was discontinued. No action was taken at the meeting yesterday to establish a definite policy as to future dividends, it was stated.

The Independent Pneumatic Tool company declared an extra of 25 cents in addition to the regular quarterly payment of 75 cents, both payable Dec. 31.

Boss Manufacturing Pays More.

The Boss Manufacturing company declared a dividend of $3 on the common stock. The company previously paid quarterly dividends of $1, while on Dec. 22, 1933, a fifth payment of $1.50 was made.

The Cincinnati Union Stock Yards company voted to pay an extra dividend of 10 cents in addition to the regular quarterly payment of 40 cents on the common stock, both payable Dec. 31.

Tobacco and Allied Stocks, Inc., declared a dividend of $2 on the capital stock, payable Dec. 31. A disbursement of $1 was paid on Nov. 1, 1934.

Bickford's, Inc., voted an extra dividend of 10 cents and the regular quarterly payment of 15 cents on the capital stock, both payable Jan. 2.

United Verde Cuts Payment.

The United Verde Extension Mining company declared a quarterly dividend of 10 cents a share on the common stock, payable Feb. 1. In preceding quarters 25 cents was paid.

Directors of bank of the Manhattan company declared a quarterly dividend of 37½ cents, payable Jan. 2, placing the issue on a $1.50 annual basis compared with $2 paid previously. The action had been forecast at the recent annual meeting.

The St. Joseph and Grand Island Railroad declared a dividend of $4 on the second preferred stock, which is 99 per cent owned by Union Pacific Railroad. The dividend is payable Dec. 31. A similar payment was made a year ago.

ANOTHER TIEUP IN MIDDLE WEST CASE THREATENS

The Netherlands turned up yesterday as a new fly in the Middle West Utilities company reorganization ointment and a full coterie of legal talent appeared before Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson for aid in solving the problem.

Because of the widespread distribution of interests in the giant former Insull holding concern, notices of hearings and other steps must be published in far flung places. One of the places is Amsterdam, and it seems that there has been a mixup in which publication there did not take place. First, there was confirmation of publication, then a cablegram hastened to explain that the notice had not been given.

What made the matter assume particular importance yesterday was the fact that the hearing on which this notification was omitted is scheduled to open tomorrow. Judge Wilkerson will rule tomorrow on the procedure to be followed, and attorneys expect another delay in the long drawn out reorganization effort.

RAIL PROVIDES MUCH WORK IN BIG CAR ORDER

New York, Dec. 13.—[Special.]—In producing 7,000 new freight cars on money provided by the Public Works administration, the Pennsylvania railroad reports that its shops at Altoona, Harrisburg, and Pittsburgh will require 2,835,800 man hours of work.

The report shows that labor employed in the industries producing the materials and apparatus purchased for building the cars has received 3,435,238 man hours of work and that labor employed in producing raw materials has been given 1,923,733 man hours.

When the work is finished the road reports that rail and industrial workers will have received a total of 8,194,771 man hours of employment, which is approximately six months of full time employment for 8,000 men.

Labor Department Index Indicates Price Increase

Washington, D. C., Dec. 13.—(AP)—A slight increase in wholesale commodity prices during the week ended Dec. 8 was reported today by the labor department. The bureau's index number advanced 0.2 points over the previous week to 76.7. The number is based on average prices for 1926, with 100 representing that average. Farm products advanced from 71.1 to 71.7.

REPORT ON CHICAGO AREA CREDIT SURVEY DELAYED TO MONDAY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 13.—Publication of the treasury department's credit survey in the Chicago federal reserve area has been postponed until next Monday, Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr. announced today.

Rather than make public the official summary of the report before the full text of the report is available for the public Secretary Morgenthau is holding up the entire survey. Full text of the report has been sent to the government printing office with instructions to get it in shape for release on Monday.

Treasury officials today took exception to reports that the survey would produce no definite recommendations. They hinted, despite indications to the contrary, that the report might openly recommend consolidation of federal bank examining powers, unification of examination reports, and coördination of bank calls.

SEARS SETS UP NEW UNIT FOR FOREIGN TRADE

Incorporation of a new subsidiary for foreign trade was announced yesterday by Sears, Roebuck & Co. The new unit is known as Sears International, Inc., and will be headed by George F. Dixon, formerly with the General Motors corporation.

Announcement of the step which was forecast in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE several weeks ago was made in a brief statement issued at the company's offices.

The purpose of the new company is to find foreign markets for Sears, Roebuck & Co. manufactured goods, the announcement stated. Officials refused to give out further details of the company's plans.

The refusal of officials to discuss the matter further was attributed to the fact that the new unit will start operations on a modest scale and will probably not be expanded unless it is found feasible to do so. The statement made no mention of plans for bartering American goods for foreign products, but it was understood that the possibilities of such transactions were being explored.

It is reported that Sears Roebuck will end its fiscal year in January with net income materially above the profit of 12 millions in 1933. The year end balance sheet also is expected to show a much stronger financial position.

CANADA MAKES MORE NEWSPRINT; U. S. OUTPUT OFF

MONTREAL, Que., Dec. 13.—[Special.]—Newsprint production in November rose in Canada and fell in the United States, according to figures just issued by the News Print Service bureau. The gain in Canada over the previous month was slightly more than the decrease in the United States.

Canadian output was 240,869 tons, the highest total since May, and an increase of more than 5,000 tons over the preceding month. Compared with the corresponding month of last year there was an increase of 41,303 tons, or 21.3 per cent.

Production in the United States was 74,933 tons, compared with 80,572 in the preceding month and 87,567 in the like month of last year. The decrease from November, 1933, was 12,634 tons, or 14.4 per cent.

ARRANGE PLANS TO CO-OPERATE IN FOREIGN TRADE

Washington, D. C., Dec. 13.—(AP)—A meeting between Export-Import bank officials and a group representing importers and exporters was followed today by a joint announcement that "a plan of procedure to bring about a maximum of coöperation" for the restoration of foreign trade had been arranged.

The advisory committee of importers and exporters named E. P. Thomas, president of the National Foreign Trade council, as its chairman and Harry Tipper, executive vice president of the American Manufacturers' Export association, as secretary.

FHA Work Aiding Trade, Says Moffett

New York, Dec. 13.—[Special.]—The modernization program of the Federal Housing administration has increased the business of some building material and equipment manufacturers and distributors as high as 500 per cent, James A. Moffett, Federal Housing administrator said tonight in a talk before the Advertising club of New York. This upturn as a result of the spending project for home and industrial plant modernization, started a little more than three months ago.

Moffett gave additional figures on reports of outlays planned by American industries. The United States Steel corporation, he said, would spend $40,000,000 for replacements and modernization in 1935, three times the amount spent in 1934. Moffett had declared previously that a half billion of such spending was planned with more in sight.

Not All "New Money."

In an interview at his home tonight, Moffett made it clear that the expenditures in industries for modernization would not represent entirely "new money." He explained that a 15 per cent increase over last year's expenditures was indicated by the figures he has so far obtained.

This fact, however, Moffett said, was definitely "encouraging" and should set an example to other industries to spend more next year on replacements and modernization. Moffett will continue to "contact" other industries, he said, and hopes to make public by Christmas a résumé of the modernization expenditures contemplated by all the large industries.

As an indication of the increased business flowing to manufacturers and distributors of materials and equipment, Moffett cited a report from the New York Central railroad, showing an increase of 41.5 per cent in car loadings of building materials in November over the same month last year.

Reports 500 Per Cent Gain.

"Of the manufacturers who drop into my office to discuss housing and industry formally," Moffett said, "one tells me he estimates that the modernization program increased his business this past September over that of September, 1933, as much as 350 per cent. Another put his September increase at 500 per cent.

"The Holland Furnace company reported that its business for October of this year, normally a period of decrease, showed an increase over October of last year of 35 per cent. The Fox Furnace company reported for the same period an increase of 50 per cent; the Masonite corporation, 60 per cent; the Kalamazoo Stove company, 102, and the Crane company, 175 per cent.

"The figures I have quoted, a few from the large collection in our records, are sufficient to show that the advertising profession is doing excellent work in behalf of housing, and that industry is taking satisfactory profits out of the business generated by our campaigns.

$145,000,000 New Business.

"The modernization program, by the way, is at present developing that business at the rate of $2,000,000 to $2,500,000 a day. By spending $1,300,000 for nation-wide organization and education, the housing administration has created, conservatively, more than $145,000,000 worth of business."

Increased newspaper advertising lineage due to the campaign, Moffett said, amounted to about 16,000,000 lines. He said that 750 banks, over 200 manufacturers, and 100 large department stores were carrying additional "ads" because of the program, while 55 per cent of the country's daily papers have supported the campaign with better housing sections or supplements.

Road Restores Fast Train Due to Improved Business

Kansas City, Mo., Dec. 13.—(AP)—The Kansas City Southern railroad's fast Kansas City-Port Arthur, Tex., passenger train, "the Flying Crow," discontinued more than a year ago, will be restored Monday, C. E. Johnston, president of the road, announced today. "Business is improving to such an extent the new fast service is demanded," Mr. Johnston said.

'ZEPHYR' LIFTS RAIL TRAFIC AND REDUCES COSTS

Add New Car at Price of $44,000.

The Zephyr, new $200,000 streamlined train now in regular operation on the Burlington line between Lincoln, Omaha, and Kansas City, carried 71 to 133 per cent more passengers on various parts of the line than the steam train it replaced and operated at one-half the cost of a steam train during a 30 day test period just concluded, Ralph Budd, president of the railroad, announced yesterday.

The success of the three car Zephyr on a service run has led the Burlington railroad to order a fourth car for the train, at a cost of $44,000, which will be in operation in February, Mr. Budd said. In addition the railroad is urging speedy completion of two other three car streamline trains, similar to the Zephyr, which are expected to begin operation between Chicago and the Twin Cities in February.

Test Results "Remarkable."

"The results of the Zephyr test were really remarkable," Mr. Budd declared. "We checked passengers carefully through a 30 day period from Nov. 12 to Dec. 12, and checked results with a similar test for a steam train during October. While I would not go so far as to predict that light, fast, streamlined trains will solve the passenger competition problem for the railroads, I do think we're going in the right direction. The figures will speak for themselves."

The figures, collected by A. Cotsworth Jr., passenger trafic manager, show a passenger increase of 111 per cent between Omaha and Lincoln, 71 per cent southbound to Kansas City, 84 per cent northbound from Kansas City, and 133 per cent northbound to Council Bluffs and Omaha.

Earnings Are Increased.

The Zephyr southbound from Omaha averaged 49 passengers a trip as compared with 26 for the steam train. Figuring the passenger revenue at 1.9 cents a mile, the Zephyr earned $4.37 a mile more than the steam train during the trip, and at the same time it operated for 35 cents a mile as compared with 70 cents for the steam train. The increased earning of the Zephyr on a day's run of 502 miles was $440 over the steam train, Mr. Budd estimated.

"This increase was made without detracting passengers from our other steam trains on the line," Mr. Budd said. "A check of passengers showed that 13 per cent would have taken autos, bus, or airplane in preference to trains if the Zephyr had not been available. The Zephyr increases were made despite the fact that there is less travel in November than October normally, but bad weather undoubtedly aided us in showing gains."

EUGENE G. GRACE HEADS AMERICAN STEEL INSTITUTE

New York, Dec. 13.—[Special.]—Eugene G. Grace, president of the Bethlehem Steel corporation, was elected president of the American Iron and Steel institute at the annual meeting today. The office may be held for only two years in succession by an incumbent.

Mr. Grace will be both president and chairman of the institute under a new set-up. Last year Robert P. Lamont, former secretary of commerce, resigned as president and the office had been unfilled. Last May Charles M. Schwab, head of Bethlehem Steel, resigned as chairman of the institute.

Tom M. Girdler, chairman and president of the Republic Steel corporation, was elected vice president of the institute, taking Mr. Grace's former position. William A. Irvin, president of the United States Steel corporation, remains the other vice president. William S. Tower, former manager of the commercial research department of Bethlehem, was retained as secretary.

RAZE OLD POWER HOUSE, LANDMARK ON WEST SIDE

Wreckers started yesterday to demolish one of the west side's oldest landmarks—the power house of the old West Chicago Street Railway company, built in 1895 at the southwest corner of Washington boulevard and Western avenue. The razing is being done by the Daniels Wrecking company through the coöperation of the West Central association and the Illinois state housing board, which is furnishing the relief labor.

Built by Charles Yerkes, famous traction magnate of his day, the structure is 250 feet long and 125 feet wide, with a smokestack 220 feet high.

According to Alfred K. Stern, head of the state housing board, a permit has been secured to use the property, owned now by Walter E. Olson of the Olson Rug company for a playground.

Head of HOLC Wishes to End Federal Loans

New York, Dec. 13.—[Special.]—The Home Owners' Loan corporation was in effect set up as a yardstick for private lenders today when John E. Fahey, its chairman, told the annual convention of the Association of Life Insurance Presidents that "the privately managed lending institutions of the country, with their long experience and highly developed efficiency, are abundantly able to meet the demand for rates and for terms comparable to those which the corporation has extended."

Fahey urged the insurance men to make vigorous efforts to the end that private institutions again assume full responsibility for supplying the mortgage needs of the nation, saying that "the government should not be expected to go on indefinitly financing the home mortgage needs of our people."

Wants HOLC to End Work.

The HOLC "should complete its work and withdraw from the lending field as soon as possible," he said, but added: "I do not believe public sentiment will permit its withdrawal until it is evident that private lenders will carry on with lending plans which are accepted as eminently fair."

Whether the corporation, which recently stopped taking applications for loans because it had enough to exhaust its funds will resume lending rests finally with the President and congress, he said. It has, in less than a year, loaned more than $2,000,000,000 to more than 650,000 families which, Fahey said, would otherwise have lost all their savings, many of them being turned into the streets.

Finds Mortality Rate Declining.

Dr. Robert A. Fraser, chief medical director of the New York Life Insurance company, said the mortality figures to date indicated that the total deaths in the United States to the end of 1934 would be 1,400,000 persons.

He said that 1934 took its place "among the best years of our history." The same best years were 1931, 1932, and 1933, which, although depression years, "broke all previous records of low mortality." He identified 1932 as the lowest year in the mental depression that leads to suicide. From that year when, he said, "such fatalities were the highest on record," the rate of suicides has decreased, 1934 being 13 per cent lower than 1933.

Dr. Fraser also emphasized the successes of medicine in combating disease in the early years of life and set the present expectation of life at 60 years.

Insurance Sales Increase.

The American people this year have bought $14,000,000,000 worth of new life insurance, thus reversing a downward trend in sales for the first time since the depression began, Thomas I. Parkinson, president of the Equitable Life Assurance society of the United States, said in his address, which opened the convention. The increase over 1933 was 10.1 per cent, Parkinson said.

At the end of this month $2,700,000,000 will have been distributed by insurance companies in death payments, matured endowments, annuities, dividends, surrender value payments and disability payments, Mr. Parkinson disclosed. With this year's sales there will be $98,000,000,000 of insurance in force in this country, he continued.

SOLLITT RETIRES, LASKER RETURNS TO 'AD' AGENCY

Ralph V. Sollitt, president of the Lord & Thomas Advertising agency, yesterday announced his retirement from that office, but he will continue to serve as a director of the corporation. Mr. Sollitt has been associated with the concern since 1923 and has been president since 1931. Albert D. Lasker, who was president from 1924 to 1926, has returned to that office to succeed Mr. Sollitt.

Other new officers of the corporation are: Vice presidents, Albert W. Sherer, Ralph D. Allum, David M. Noyes, and Stuart Sherman, residents in Chicago, and Montague H. Hackett, Thomas M. Keresey, and Steve Hannagan, residents in New York, and secretary and treasurer, William R. Sachse of Chicago.

November Building Permits Reveal Sharp Decrease

Dun & Bradstreet report a sharp decline in the value of building permits in November, compared with both October, 1934, and November, last year. The 215 cities regularly reporting issued permits for new building, alterations, additions and repairs totaling $27,413,602, compared with $37,501,122 in October and $28,021,688 in the same month last year.

WILSON BOARD VOTES TODAY ON CAPITAL SHIFT

Propose to Clear Up Preferred Dividends

Directors of Wilson & Co., packers, are expected to take favorable action today on a program calling for recasting the company's capital structure. The plan received the tentative approval of the company's finance committee yesterday and the regular meeting of the directors was advanced a week in order that the proposal could be taken up today.

Thomas E. Wilson, president of the company, indicated that an announcement would be made following the meeting. Coincident with the report that the plan had been completed the "A" shares of the company advanced to the highest price in several years yesterday on the New York Stock exchange.

Stocks Highest for Year.

The "A" shares yesterday sold at a top price of 32⅜ and closed at 31⅛ with a net gain of 1 point. The A stock together with the preferred and common shares have been active for some time and have all made new high prices for the year. The latter issues were comparatively quiet yesterday.

The program of reorganization will provide for elimination of the $12,000,000 of back dividends on the preferred stock which now stand in the way of any payments on the "A" shares. While a partial cash disbursement may be made, it is expected that the arrearages will be cleared up largely through an exchange of stock. A similar method was resorted to by Armour & Co. in the recapitalization put in effect a few months ago.

Hope to Simplify Capital.

It is known that the board hopes to simplify the present capital structure and may attempt to eliminate one or more of the present classes of stock. A capitalization of only one class of stock without fixed dividend requirements is regarded as desirable, but whether this will be attempted could not be ascertained yesterday.

One of the factors that has held up the plan is said to have been the complexities arising out of the new securities act. The company's financial year ended Oct. 27 and no financial report has been made public as yet. It is understood, however, that the earnings were even better than in 1933, when the company made an extremely good showing.

MORE GOLD DUE FOR U. S.; TOTAL NOW 185 MILLION

New York, Dec. 13.—[Special.]—Another $1,000,000 in gold was reported today to have been engaged abroad for shipment here, bringing to $185,000,000 the gold bought abroad by this country since Nov. 1. Of this amount all but $29,000,000 had been received up to today. The bullion en route here includes $13,000,000 from India, $7,000,000 from France, $6,000,000 from England, $2,000,000 from Mexico, and $1,000,000 from Holland. A shipment of $7,964,600 from Holland reached here today.

In the week ended Wednesday $12,886,000 in gold was received here from abroad, the Federal Reserve Bank of New York reported today, while $455,000 in gold was released from earmark for foreign account and $273,000 in gold from China was received at San Francisco.

The dollar was slightly higher against European gold currencies today, while Canadian funds regained part of yesterday's sharp loss. The pound sterling closed unchanged at $4.94⅜.

French francs eased ¼ point to 6.59¼ cents, with the value of the dollar at 59.43 cents, based on the old par of the franc, against 59.40 cents yesterday. Calculated on the new par of the franc, the dollar was worth $1.0063, compared with $1.0058 yesterday.

There were declines of one point in the belga to 23.34 cents, in the Swiss franc to 32.37 cents, and in the guilder to 67.62 cents. The lira was unchanged at 8.54 cents. German marks lost 1 point to 40.16 cents, while Canadian dollars were 13¾ points higher at $1.0106¼.

In London bullion brokers raised the price of gold 3½ pence to 140 shillings 8½ pence a fine ounce, equivalent to $34.76, based on the opening of sterling at $4.94⅛.

SENIOR SHARES CUT CAPERS IN STOCK MARKET

Most of List Shows Only Fractional Changes.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 13.—Winds were variable on the stock exchange again today. Trading was of a mixed character and net changes in the price list largely of fractional scope. The turnover of 997,250 shares was somewhat heavier than that of yesterday.

A handful of preferred issues cut a wide swath in the dealings. Dealings in some of them, notably Radio B, were unusually heavy and overnight quotations of the division were altered as much as 8 points. Among the chief performers in addition to Radio B, which advanced 3 points, were the senior issues of J. I. Case, Hat corporation, Hahn Department Stores, New York Shipbuilding, U. S. Smelting, Federal Mining and Smelting, Associated Dry Goods, McCrory A and B, Spicer Manufacturing, and Lorillard, with gains ranging from 1 to 8 points, and those of First National Stores and Colorado Gas and Electric, with losses of 1 to more than 2 points.

Early Upturn Flattens.

Miscellaneous shares, rails and metals made the best showing of the main list. In the forenoon the market showed some disposition to resume the so-called creeping advance which came to a halt the latter part of last week, but heaviness in a few standbys such as American Telephone took the tone out of the advance guard after the turn of the day and prices in the late dealings showed a strong tendency to sag.

American Telephone came in for some rather heavy selling in the last hour and gave up more than a point. The stock was selling ex-dividend and brokers opined that this was all some of the holders were waiting for. Other utilities were easier.

Farm shares were somewhat better, with wheat and packing stocks keeping up hope. Wilson A and preferred were features. Merchandising issues did fairly well and the foods were no worse than mixed.

War Profit Ban Ignored.

Shares of industries which in the past have shown large profits from war orders paid no attention to the threatened legislation to "take profit out of war." Du Pont and Bethlehem Steel were notably strong early, but moved off later. It is reasoned that the companies which benefited immensely by wars have expanded their operations to fit peacetime business and consequently would not be affected by elimination of war profits.

Two individual features of the earlier dealings were Celanese and Industrial Rayon, but both eased with the rest of the market in the late afternoon. Announcement of a price advance in the artificial silk industry helped matters in this corner.

The market continued under the influence of favorable trade and business news. However, speculators were cautious, many being of the opinion that the technical readjustment had not yet been completed.

Court Broadens RFC Suit Against Republic Trust Co.

Two orders were entered yesterday by Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson to round out the suit of the Reconstruction Finance corporation to recover from the 4,000 stockholders of the Central Republic Trust company. John L. Hopkins, RFC attorney, was authorized to file suits to determine liabilities of stockholders living in other federal jurisdictions outside the northern Illinois district. The court also authorized the RFC to sue administrators of estates of those who held stock in the company until Nov. 21, when the company was placed in receivership.

GOLD HOLDINGS REACH ANOTHER NEW HIGH MARK

But Large Cities Report Business Loan Drop.

The record monetary gold holdings of the United States were augmented by further importations last week and the reserve funds of nation's banks showed another increase, but the statements of commercial banks in New York and Chicago reported a shrinkage in loans to business. While the demand for business credits was less, the banks in the country's two largest cities placed more of their funds in government securities.

The increase in the monetary gold stocks as disclosed by the reserve reports last night amounted to 19 million dollars last week. This brings the nation's total holdings to 8 billions 180 millions.

The increase in the gold stocks was only partly compensated by the sale or deposit of $[illegible],000,000 of gold certificates by the treasury to the reserve banks. For several weeks the receipts of gold have exceeded these sales and deposits with the federal reserve.

The practice indicates that the treasury is accumulating a backlog of gold against which certificates will eventually be deposited with the reserve banks. The potentialities of a further expansion in credit is thus increased, although in conservative financial quarters it is believed that the credit situation is already dangerously vulnerable to rapid expansion.

Buys Federal Issues.

The statement of the reserve member banks in New York showed an expansion in all types of credit last week of $37,000,000. Except for the increase of $50,000,000 in government bond holdings, however, an actual decrease would have been shown. Commercial loans were $19,000,000 below the preceding week's total. A decline of $6,000,000 was reported in brokers' loans. The indicated gross deposits of the New York banks were $50,000,000 higher.

Chicago banks reported a decline of $4,000,000 in commercial loans and an increase of $10,000,000 in government securities. Gross deposits expanded $26,000,000.

The 12 reserve banks reported an increase of $458,000 in direct loans to industry, of which the Chicago reserve bank accounted for $40,000. The reserve account of the member banks of the reserve system was $37,000,000 higher than a week earlier. Total money in circulation declined $13,000,000, counter to the usual trend at this season.

GRAINS FINISH FIRM IN SPITE OF DULL TRADE

Foreign Markets Are Key to Domestic Prices.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Grain prices were steady to firm yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade, but there was a further tapering off in speculative operations. Trading idled during much of the session with prices stiffening slightly early in the day in response to a moderate upturn in foreign markets and then closing at approximately the same level as for the preceding day.

Final prices on wheat futures were unchanged to ⅛ cent higher, while corn closed ¼ to ⅜ cent higher. Closing quotations on May futures were:

| | Yesterday. | Wednesday. | Week ago. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Wheat | $1.00⅞ | $1.00⅞ | $1.03½ |
| Corn | .88⅜ | .88⅛ | .92⅛ |
| Oats | .53⅛ | .52⅝ | .54½ |
| Rye | .77⅝ | .77⅝ | .80 |

Wheat prices in Liverpool yesterday perked up for a brief period but closed slightly under previous quotations. In Winnipeg there was little change with prices finishing a trifle higher.

Foreign Markets Govern Trade.

The heaviness in the foreign markets is the outstanding feature of the situation at the present time. Although reports from Argentina tend to confirm earlier news that the wheat crop there has suffered considerable damage, European importing firms fail to show the least excitement about the situation.

European countries are doing their utmost to reduce their consumption of foreign wheat not only because of the exchange problems which such purchases entail but also because of the artificially high prices which they must pay for Canadian grain. The belief is held by many authorities that the normal upturn in prices which might be expected from a lower world wheat output is not taking place because prices had already had been boosted arbitrarily by government action.

Canadian Wheat Exports Lag.

World import requirements for wheat this season have been fixed between 575 and 600 million bushels. Of this total Canada was expected to furnish 280 million bushels. So far, however, Canadian sales have not been made at a rate which would indicate such sales for the whole season. The Broomhall agency, which made the Canadian estimate, is now inclined to hedge its forecast.

Indications suggest that the adjustment necessary to strike some sort of a balance between domestic consumption of corn and the available supply has begun. The advance in corn prices has been responsible for the adjustments and it is expected as the season progresses this process will be more clearly brought out. A message yesterday from Emporia, Kas., to James E. Bennett & Co. said that the corn demand from live stock feeders has been drastically curtailed.

U. S. OFFERING SEED; PRICES HINT OF PROFIT

To insure sufficient seed in the worst of the drouth blighted sections the federal government has been picking up grain for some time. Without such purchases it is regarded as certain that many farmers would find themselves without seed next spring and without ability to buy any. The government, moreover, stands a chance of making a profit on some of the grain purchases for resale.

The government is offering spring wheat seed for $1.35 a bushel, $1.60 for durum, $1.10 to $1.35 a bushel for barley and 75 cents for oats. If the government should make a profit on its seed operations it might find itself in the embarrassing position of being classed with the grain speculator for whom it has little official regard.

EGGS SINK TO NEW LOWS; BUTTER DIPS ⅛ TO ¼ CENT

Egg futures crashed to new lows on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday and closed ⅜ to ½ cent per dozen lower. Butter declined ⅛ to ¼ cent per pound.

Eggs opened higher, due to monthly cold storage estimate not being as bearish as expected, but the support did not last long and a wave of liquidation started, sweeping the market off $120 per car before covering and new buying finally developed. The four markets reported 14,000 cases less out of cold storage than last year.

Butter eased slightly, but for the most part maintained a rather steady tone. The movement of storage stocks totaled 200,000 pounds more than last year. The American association reported production 11 per cent less than last year.

Sales: Butter, 64 cars; eggs, 228 cars. Deliveries: Butter, 3 cars; eggs, 2 cars. Prices follow:

USE ELABORATE SETUP IN COTTON CONTROL BALLOT

Growers Will Pass on Forced Quotas.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 13.—[Special.] — With all the ceremony of a nation-wide political contest, about 2,000,000 cotton growers in the sixteen states comprising the cotton belt will go to the polls tomorrow to vote for or against continuance of the Bankhead cotton act.

Under the bill, two-thirds of cotton growers who have shared in the benefits of the ginning tax must favor continuance before the law can be carried into next season.

Sentiment is said to be divided and Agriculture Adjustment administration officials declined today to hazard a guess as to the outcome of the election.

Final Returns About Dec. 24.

Final returns are not expected to be certified to Washington before Dec. 24, but elaborate machinery has been set in motion to convey results of the poll to the capital as rapidly as they can be certified by minor boards in charge of the election booths.

About 8,000 voting places will be open between 9 and 5 o'clock. Three members of the community referendum board, whose duties will be the same as election clerks in a political election, will have charge of each booth. One of the largest press associations in the cotton producing states has coöperated with AAA officials, and as fast as the returns are made known in the different communities the results will be flashed to Washington.

Wallace View on Compulsion.

Secretary Wallace has said the cotton bill worked better than he expected, but that he was opposed to compulsory measures for other major crops. It is known that other AAA officials do not share his views.

The vote on another compulsory control bill, tobacco, was in progress today. The tobacco bill levies a tax on marketing above allotments fixed by the AAA.

HOME REPAIR WORK LIGHTER IN NOVEMBER

Despite the state-wide campaign of the Federal Housing administration to promote home repair and modernization work, reports made public yesterday by the Illinois department of labor, showed that alterations, repairs, and installations in sixty-five cities declined from $879,145 in October to $427,055 in November, or 51.4 per cent.

New building declined throughout the state, according to permits filed in November, from the October total 38.4 per cent in the number of structures and 11.3 per cent in the total estimated expenditure. The total of $2,022,986 authorized in November, however, was more than double the total of $817,289 authorized in November last year.

The field in which the FHA is actively engaged in trying to promote activity, that of repair and modernization work, was responsible for the October-November decline in total estimated expenditure, the state building review revealed. The estimated cost of new residential building increased from $292,895 in October to $348,740 in November, or 19.1 per cent. New nonresidential building increased from $1,108,450 to $1,247,191, or 12.5 per cent.

First of Liggett's New Stores Will Open Today

The first of a series of new stores to be established by Liggett Drug company will open this morning at the corner of La Salle and Washington streets.

NEW YORK MERCHANTS REPORT 2% SALES TAX IS INJURING BUSINESS

New York, Dec. 13.—[Special.]—After four days of operation of the 2 per cent sales tax imposed by the city for unemployment relief purposes merchants indicated today through their trade organizations dissatisfaction with the effects of the levy, particularly as to its effect on out of town sales.

H. Nelson Street, speaking for the Retail Dry Goods association, said that out of town sales were falling off because of the mistaken belief of many nonresident purchasers that they must pay the tax on goods bought in New York City. Purchasers living in New Jersey and Connecticut, who order goods sent to their homes, are not subject to the tax in New York stores, he said, as such cases are clearly interstate commerce, over which the city has no jurisdiction.

Street also said there was growing evidence that the tax was lessening retail transactions in the city, as store executives were reporting that their sales appeared to be slightly less, despite the rush of Christmas buying, than had been expected on the basis of increased purchasing power throughout the country.

EXPECT PROFIT FROM CHANGE IN SALES TAX PLAN

Speculation as to the effect of the changed policy of larger Chicago stores in collecting the retailers' occupational tax from their customers has given rise to estimates that the profit side of the ledger may benefit by as much as $3,000,000 annually.

Previously the department and other stores had been "absorbing" the 2 per cent tax. In many instances, however, it was said that they were "making up the tax" on certain low priced and standard articles by adding small amounts to what would otherwise have been the price of other articles. If this is true, the effect of the changed policy may not be as great.

Estimates are based on sales figures which show approximately 100 millions in annual loop sales and 50 millions in outlying and suburban stores affected by the change. The move is regarded in some quarters as a means of lifting the tax burden which has been a factor in keeping profits down in spite of equal or increased sales volumes.

INVESTORS LOSE $13,000,000 IN NEW FRENCH COLLAPSE

GRASSE, France, Dec. 13.—(AP)—A vast company collapse in which investors lost nearly 200 million francs [about $13,000,000] was revealed by police today.

Gendarmes arrested Johannes Moeller, a Danish banker established in Paris, on charges of fraud and violation of the corporation laws.

Police said Moeller formed a network of 12 companies all of which failed. A number of charges were filed and Examining Magistrate Peloux in Paris opened an investigation and sent the corporation books to examination experts. Upon their report he issued a warant against Moeller, whose case will be transferred to Paris.

Court Names Aids to Hear Building Reorganization

Charles Le Roy Brown was appointed as a special master in chancery and John E. Dwyer as special court adviser to hold hearings and advise the court in connection with the reorganization of the 208 South La Salle Street Building corporation under section 77b of the amended bankruptcy law. The appointments were made by Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan, who set Dec. 28 as the deadline for submission of a reorganization plan.

SOUTHERN ROADS TO CUT RATES IN FOREIGN TRADE

I.C.C. Decision Aids South Atlantic Ports.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 13.—[Special.]—Southern railroads are permitted, in a decision by the interstate commerce commission today, to make reductions in rates on export and import trafic from interior territory to south Atlantic ports.

The reductions are designed to increase competition between south Atlantic ports and southern roads and eastern ports and eastern carriers for export and import freight business. While the new rates, to go into effect Jan. 14, will be generally lower than existing rates, and may mean some immediate reduction in southern carrier revenues, it is believed that the increased trafic they may pick up should eventually offset the drop.

Rates Reduced Once Before.

Several years ago the commission permitted the southern roads to reduce rates to compete more advantageously with eastern carriers for export and import freight business, and to aid the south Atlantic ports, as against eastern ports. The relief granted, however, did not suffice, and in March, 1932, the southern roads filed a new schedule of rates. These rates were suspended, pending a commission investigation. They were upheld, with minor exceptions, in today's order.

The rates apply to through trafic moving between the interior territory and foreign countries, the commission said, and at present, except for Cuban trafic, the bulk of it moves via the north Atlantic ports, principally New York. But the movement via the southern ports, particularly New Orleans, is nevertheless substantial.

Will Help Southern Roads.

The commission said that the evidence taken at hearings left no doubt that with respect to trans-Atlantic trafic southern routes were generally at a disadvantage compared with the northern routes, and that differentials were necessary.

"We cannot foresee whether the eastern lines would attempt to make effective any general reduction in rates over the northern routes should the rates advocated by the southern lines become effective," the commission said. "The evidence is not persuasive that these rates would cause any substantial diversion to the southern routes of trafic now moving over the northern routes. In view of the present volume of movement over the northern routes, general reductions would not be expected."

ROADS REPORT FREIGHT TRAFIC AGAIN GAINING

Freight moved by the railroads last week, estimated today at about 555,000 cars on returns of the first fourteen reporting roads, showed a gain of 13 per cent over the preceding holiday week and exceeded the volume for the same 1933 week by 3 per cent.

The indicated increase over the preceding week amounted to about 67,000 cars. A year ago the increase over the preceding week, which also included Thanksgiving day, approximated only 17,500 cars. The best improvement in trafic volume was shown by the coal carriers, it appeared.

Of the three leading eastern roads, the New York Central and Chesapeake and Ohio had movements on their own lines larger than a year ago, while the Pennsylvania's volume dipped about 1,000 cars. The cold weather which has prevailed along the seaboard this week is expected to be reflected in a still larger demand for coal, and it is believed next week's report will bear this out.

Running of Grain Elevators by Railroads Is Protested

Another protest was added yesterday to the proposal that the railroads cancel existing leases on their grain elevators and operate the warehouses themselves. The protest was filed with Federal Coördinator of Transportation Eastman by the Terminal Elevator Grain Merchants' association, which is composed of fifteen companies operating grain elevators in the terminal markets and representing invested capital of more than $100,000,000.

New York, Dec. 13.—[Special.]—The bond market failed to develop a definite trend today. Following moderate strength during most of the day prices turned irregular at the close. Trading was slightly more active than on the day before, totaling $11,841,000, of which dealings in United States government issues accounted for $2,443,800.

There was little in the news to stir the market pulse. Highest grade bonds, generally, were not disturbed by the fact that on Saturday banks and individual investors will be called upon to pay for close to one billion dollars of new government bonds and notes.

Federal Issues Quiet.

Federal securities were quiet. While Liberty 3½s and first 4s, together with Federal Farm Mortgage 3s and Home Owners Loan 3s, were a bit firmer, most of the Treasury loans yielded 1-32ds to 4-32ds of a point.

With part of the domestic corporation list scoring gains of 1 to more than 3 points, a few issues entered new high ground for the year, but many issues declined a point or more sending the industrial and utility bonds averages slightly lower on the day. Railroad issues gained slightly, on the average, although it was generally the case that the obligations of a given carrier failed to move in unison.

Many Issues Show Gains.

Among outstanding gainers were Santa Fe 4s of 1909-'55, Atlanta and Danville first 4s, Bush Terminal 5s, Adams Express 4s, Interboro Rapid Transit 6s, Manhattan Railway first 4s, Nickel Plate 6s, Paramount-Publix 5½s certificates, Pere Marquette 5s, McCrory Stores 5½s, Gotham Silk Hose 6s, New York and Greenwood 5s, and U. S. Rubber 5s.

Losers included West Shore 4s, Warren Brothers 6s, Tennessee Electric 6s, Fort Scott 4s, International Paper 5s, Canadian National Railways 4½s, Boston and Maine 4¾s, and American and Foreign Power 5s.

Foreign loans closed irregular in trading which was no better than routine for most of the issues. German issues were generally lower, while Austrian, Italian, Serb, and Hungarian loans were strong. Most of the Latin American issues closed slightly higher on the day.

Endicott Johnson.

Investors' Guide: Please let me know your rating of Endicott Johnson corporation.—B. M. F.

Answer: Endicott Johnson corporation is the second largest shoe manufacturer in the United States. Operations, which are in New York state, are well integrated. The company is a large producer of staple lines of shoes, products whose styles do not change, but in recent years the output has been diversified to include a greater number of shoes produced with a style appeal.

Since tanning of lether takes considerable time and the company's normal inventory is large [$16,000,000 on May 25, 1934], fluctuations of lether prices ordinarily are a major factor in earnings. There is an element of risk also in producing style goods. The company sells to 50,000 independent retailers, seven subsidiary chain store systems, and to wholesalers.

Increase in unit sales and higher prices resulted in net sales of $26,821,000 for the six months to May 25, 1934, against sales of $18,766,000 for the corresponding 1933 period. The gain was practically wiped out by higher raw material and labor costs. Net income was $889,000, or $1.69 per common share, against $855,000, or $1.60 per common share, for the six months to June 3, 1933.

| Yr. ended Nov.30. | Net sales. | Net inc. | Inc. per com. shr. |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1933 | $49,818,000 | $2,155,000 | $4.30 |
| 1932 | 43,600,000 | 1,188,000 | 1.80 |
| *1931 | 48,203,000 | 2,581,000 | 4.84 |
| †1930 | 54,500,000 | 765,000 | .14 |

*11 months. †Year ended Dec. 31.

Current position on May 25, 1934, was strong. Current assets totaled $27,042,000, and current liabilities were $5,500,000. An increase of 40 per cent in receivables over the year before necessitated creation of $2,000,000 notes payable. Capitalization consists of 58,448 shares of 7 per cent $100 par preferred stock and 405,360 shares of $50 par common.

The common currently pays 75 cents a quarter, which rate has been in effect since the first quarter of 1932. Previous to that time it had paid $1.25 a quarter since 1921.

The preferred is high grade. The common deserves a fairly good rating.

ILLINOIS PAYS MOST IN FEDERAL PROCESSING TAX

But Gets Small Per Cent of Farm Benefits.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 13.—[Special.]—Illinois has contributed more than any other state in processing tax collections, according to figures released today by the Agricultural Adjustment administration. The total of $91,990,189 placed Illinois at the head of the list largely because of the concentration of meat packing plants in the state, it was stated. The packing plants pay a tax of $2.25 per 100 pounds on hogs.

Farmers in Illinois received only $18,537,687 in benefit payments through Oct. 31. In explaining the discrepancy between tax collections and benefit payments the administration stated: "The amount of tax collections in any state merely reflects the location and concentration of industries processing farm commodities."

New York Is Second.

New York was second in tax payments with a total of $58,213,425, largely from cotton processing and tobacco manufacturing. Other states showing large collections included those in the cotton spinning and weaving centers and tobacco processing areas. North Carolina paid $41,256,015, South Carolina $23,197,395, and Massachusetts $29,026,184. The chief flour milling state of Minnesota paid $34,514,277 in processing taxes.

Benefit payments to these states were: New York $162,894, North Carolina $11,233,510, South Carolina $10,299,060, Massachusetts $302,818, and Minnesota $10,529,918.

Louis H. Bean, economic adviser to the AAA, estimated that total retail sales for the year would be $28,000,000,000 and processing tax collections would amount to less than $500,000,000.

Six States Pay 60 Per Cent.

Of all the processing tax that has been paid on wheat, at 30 cents a bushel, slightly more than three-fifths has been paid by six states, Chester A. Davis, farm administrator, said. These included Minnesota, New York, Kansas, Missouri, Illinois, and Texas with combined collections of $96,987,739, compared with $158,328,178 for the entire country.

In the case of North Dakota it was shown that farmers in the state received through Oct. 31 about eleven times as much in benefit payments from the government as the state paid into the treasury in total processing taxes. Benefits amounted to $16,014,606, compared with $1,472,251 in processing taxes paid on wheat, hogs, cotton, tobacco, field corn, paper and jute, sugar and unclassified commodities.

HEAVY RECEIPTS BREAK PRICES OF HOGS 10 TO 25C

Heavy receipts depressed the hog market here yesterday. Prices fell 10 to 25 cents, closing at the lowest level of the session, with a good sized holdover on sellers' hands. The midweek rise in top grades to the highest levels in nine weeks brought an influx of all classes from nearby farms and total arrivals for the day at 39,000 were the largest for a Thursday since January.

Buyers were in a bearish mood as the market opened, and an extremely sluggish trade developed when smaller houses, dealing chiefly in fresh pork, reduced their buying orders sharply because of the failure of fresh pork to show the usual response to cold weather. A sharp break in lard contributed to the pressure on hog prices.

Plain cattle dragged at barely steady prices, while the comparatively small supply showing corn feeding held firm again. New York butchers paid the $9.75 top for 1,144 pound steers, 1,050 pound long yearlings reached $9.65, and the bulk of 500 to 1,500 pound averages sold from $4.75 to $8.85.

Calves were weak to 25 cents lower, comparatively few selling up to $5.50 and above. Packers obtained the bulk at $4.00 to $4.75.

Much better action marked trading in sheep and lambs. Packers bought readily at steady prices when receipts were among the smallest for the day this season. The bulk of the best grades of fat native and fed westerns cashed around $7.00, while shippers sorted a few lots up to $7.10, and city butchers handpicked some of the natives up to $7.25.

PRICES OF LARD FUTURES DROP 15 TO 22½ POINTS

Commission house selling of lard futures in fair volume early yesterday, based on weakness in corn and hogs, ran the market into stop loss orders and prices dropped as much as 30 points before sufficient buying on resting orders and by warehouse interests developed to stem the downward movement. A good rally from the inside figure followed, but the close was at net losses of 15 to 22½ points, with December leading the decline. Bellies were unchanged to 5 points lower. Cash lard was quoted at 11.40 cents; loose, 10.87 cents; leaf, 11 cents, and bellies at 14¾ cents per pound. Prices follow:

COTTON FUTURES MARKETS SHOW AN EASY UNDERTONE

Cotton markets showed an easy undertone yesterday, with some selling induced by a belief expressed by Senator Bankhead that the government cotton loan would not be renewed in 1935.

Trade in futures in the aggregate was not large, with the close in Chicago showing losses of 2 to 7 points, while other markets were unchanged to 7 points lower. Spot cotton was off 5 points, with New Orleans and New York 12.75 cents, and Galveston and Houston 12.70 cents. Prices follow:
